BERLIN BOERSE QUITS; FIGHTS CUT IN VALUE OF PRE-WAR BONDS

Exchanges in Five Other German Cities Join Strike Against Government's Decision.

FEAR PANIC IN RUSH TO SELL

WILL APPEAL TO CABINET

Business Will Be Resumed Today, Excepting for Dropping Quotations on Securities in Controversy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 8.—Berlin and other German cities witnessed today the strange spectacle of a strike of the Stock Exchange. The exchange directors ordered it as a protest against the decision of the Reichstag "Revalorization" Committee that "new" owners of the Government's State communal pre-war bonds shall receive only 2½ per cent. on the face value of their holdings instead of 5 per cent., the amount allowed to those who acquired these bonds before 1920.

Similar strike action was taken on the important exchanges at Hamburg, Hanover, Cologne, Dresden and Frankfort-am-Main. The Stock Exchange strike consisted of dropping out during today in the posting of all quotations except those of foreign currencies. Tomorrow, it is announced, stock and bond quotations will be resumed, but not the pre-war loan quotations, which will be dropped out until the Government definitely settles the revalorization question.

One of the main reasons for today's strike action was the fear that something approaching a catastrophe might result if the "new" holders of the pre-war loans began selling out their holdings. Another reason was that the pre-war loan bonds have long been a source of serious trouble in the German exchanges owing to their wild fluctuations—sometimes they have doubled and halved in price in a few hours, creating unhealthy markets.

Speculation in Bonds Denied.

The opponents of the Reichstag committee's decision are violently attacking its action. They insist that those who invested after 1920 in the pre-war loan bonds did not do so as a speculation and should not be considered speculators. The decision not to allow them 5 per cent. but merely 2½ per cent. amounts to cheating them out of half of their capital, it is heatedly pointed out by assailants of the Reichstag committee's action. Those favoring it insist that the decision is final, but there is considerable doubt regarding this.

Some believe today's storm of protest, with so great a strike on the exchanges, is such a warning that the decision will be revoked.

The assertion was made today that the decision was really in the nature of a compromise, since the representatives of the political parties hostile to big capitalistic interests originally demanded that the "new" holders of pre-war loan bonds be allowed nothing at all.

Political elements of the Right see in the decision a deliberate onslaught on the capitalistic and the well-to-do bourgeois classes led by the latter's old foes,

Decide on Appeal to Cabinet.

BERLIN, July 8 (AP).—The Boerse Committee, expressing the belief today that confidence in German loans and in official Government declarations regarding them would be shaken if the distinction proposed by the Reichstag's Revaluation Committee between old and new holders of paper mark State loans should prevail, decided to make representations at once to the Cabinet.

It is authoritatively stated in financial circles that the committee will make plain to the Government that it must not continue to bend to political parties, but must formulate definite proposals and adhere to them. The argument is offered that the parties behind the Government are trying to force concessions in revaluation incompatible with sound economics.

Bankers and financiers generally are of the opinion it will be impossible to carry through such differentiations and they expect German securities abroad will be adversely affected.

The Boersen Zeitung, pro-Government financial organ, berates the political parties, declaring:

"The Reichstag parties no longer deem it necessary to respect the Government set up by themselves as the authority. In recent times cases have recurred again and again of the Government parties changing Government bills materially, and especially sabotaging the Government's economic policy."

The closing of the Boerse and other exchanges has no bearing on industrials and other stocks. The Boerse will resume tomorrow.

Charge Unloading of War Debt.

Charges that the German Government in its revaluation proposals was deliberately endeavoring to rid itself of the 100,000,000,000-mark war debt at the expense of the new holders of German mark securities were made yesterday by local dealers in German mark and dollar securities.

Incidentally, figures were cited to show that since the war Germany had scaled down her war debt by at least half through purchases of vastly depreciated war loan mark bonds, or to between 45,000,000,000 and 50,000,000,000

Mme. Nemtchinova, Dancer, Insures Her Legs for $150,000

LONDON, July 8.—Mme. Vera Nemtchinova, member of the Daighileff Russian ballet, whose legs have been called the most beautiful in the world, has insured them for $150,000. The dancer recently narrowly escaped serious injury in Paris when she fell through a trapdoor on the stage.

It is an interesting fact that the insurance company refused to accept the risk on Mme. Nemtchinova's legs in Turkey, the Balkan States, Austria, Hungary and Russia.

LIQUOR PERMIT ROW WILL GO TO MELLON

HAYNES POSTERS DEBATED

General Andrews, Cool to Plan for Billboard Campaign, Takes Up Enforcement Personnel.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A difference of opinion among Treasury officials relative to one phase of prohibition enforcement has reached a stage where Secretary Mellon will be required soon to act as arbiter. It has to do with the administration of the law relating to industrial alcohol.

At present Mr. Blair, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, acts upon all industrial alcohol matters, and he has proved resistant to suggestions of General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, that this feature of prohibition enforcement should be transferred to Secretary Andrews's jurisdiction.

Under the recent reorganization of the prohibition unit, following a recommendation made by President Coolidge that the Treasury Department should inaugurate a more militant campaign to enforce the Federal "dry" laws, Secretary Andrews was given broad powers for upholding the Volstead act. It was at his suggestion that State lines were abolished and twenty-two Federal districts were established in accordance with a new plan of enforcement to become effective Aug. 1.

After conference with various field agents of the prohibition unit, Secretary Andrews came to the conclusion that large quantities of alcohol supposedly intended for industrial purposes were being diverted for use as beverage, and accordingly he decided that effective enforcement of the "dry" laws as a whole necessitates the transfer to his office of all business concerning the issuance of permits for the withdrawal of alcohol utilized in the arts and in manufacture. Commissioner Blair does not agree. He is persistent in asserting that he should continue to act on permits for withdrawals. He is understood to take the position that General Andrews should stick to the punitive provisions of the statute and depend upon bureau agents to lend cooperation to prevent industrial alcohol from finding its way into the channels of bootleg trade.

It is the understanding that the division between Secretary Andrews and Commissioner Blair has reached a point where Secretary Mellon must support one or the other. Both officials are in the confidence of Secretary Mellon, and there is uncertainty as to what course he will follow. The matter is expected to reach a climax upon Secretary Mellon's return to Washington, later in the month.

Users Oppose Transfer.

Users of industrial alcohol are opposed to the transfer to the jurisdiction of Assistant Secretary Andrews. They point out that General Andrews is the chief of the service that is charged with the duty of running down bootleggers and drying up bootleg sources, and that they do not care to be required to do business with agents who are engaged in hunting for contraband liquor.

They represent, it was said, that the quantities of industrial alcohol diverted for beverage purposes has been greatly exaggerated, and that in the main alcohol withdrawn for legitimate manufacture is so used.

Major Roy A. Haynes, the Prohibition Commissioner, was in conference today with Assistant Secretary Andrews. The two officials discussed questions affecting the personnel of the prohibition unit. It is the purpose of Assistant Sec-

BRYAN THREATENS NATIONAL CAMPAIGN TO BAR EVOLUTION

Warns That If Defeated in the Courts the Bible Will Be Put Into the Constitution.

SEES MORALITY IMPERILED

He Declares There Is a Majority in Every State to Push Through Federal Amendment.

DAYTON READY FOR TRIAL

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 8.—That the Bible must go into the Constitution of the United States and that the evolutionary beliefs of the minority must be kept from contaminating the social and educational life of this country is the platform of the Fundamentalists which William Jennings Bryan has brought to Dayton. The Commoner placed himself at the head of the army of educational and religious conservatives in his speech before the Progressive Dayton Club last night, and again in his talk at the Morgan Springs Hotel tonight. He pledged himself, in case this trial goes against the Fundamentalists, to carry on a campaign that would, if necessary, amend the Constitution to prohibit the teaching of evolution.

There is not a State in the Union where believers in evolution are in the majority, said Mr. Bryan, and he expressed himself as thoroughly confident that a determined campaign to arouse the people against scientific teaching that undermines implicit faith in the Bible as the inspired word of God can, therefore, to be accepted literally, would be successful. It might take years, he said, but he made it plain that the last act of leadership of his life would be to make the Bible teachings the foundation of Government and society in this country.

Split on Minority Rights.

It is on this question of the minority that Mr. Bryan and the defense in the Scopes trial split. Mr. Bryan has the vision of a scientific minority deriding the Word of God and breaking down the morality of our children. The leaders in Scopes's defense feel that evolution has nothing to do with religion, that it does not necessarily weaken religious belief and that the minority which believes in evolution and which would fight the conventionalizing of education may successfully invoke the protection of the Constitution. That is what the Constitution is for, they say—the protection of the smaller and weaker groups of our national life.

Mr. Bryan made it plain in both of these speeches that he has not great faith in the infallibility of our courts. He recalled that on two occasions, in the Dred Scott case and later in the income law case, laws were carried out after they had been declared unconstitutional by the courts. In the Dred Scott case it was done by the Emancipation Proclamation and force of arms, in the income tax case it took seventeen years and a constitutional amendment. It is on the latter precedent that Mr. Bryan bases his fight.

"Who made the courts?" demanded Mr. Bryan. "The people. Who made the Constitution? The people. The people can change the Constitution and if necessary they can change the decisions of the courts."

Power in this country comes from the people, he declared, and if the majority of the people believe that evolution breaks down religious faith and threatens Christianity, they have the right to demand that it be suppressed or at least confined to the little group of research men who may study it as a theory not yet proved. The only morality comes from the Bible, said Mr. Bryan, all our institutions and our social life are founded on an implicit belief in it, and without that belief there is no ground on which moral teaching may be founded.

Bryan Shows Intense Feeling.

That Mr. Bryan felt very deeply the doctrine he preached in Dayton, and knew that it was the first battle cry of a religious campaign, was shown by the earnestness and fervor with which he spoke. His voice, always a beautiful instrument, vibrated with feeling, his

Australia to Float $100,000,000 Loan Here Through Morgan; Similar Offer in London

The Government of Australia will soon depart from a long-established precedent and float a loan in New York, it was learned in Wall Street yesterday. It is understood that an offering will be placed simultaneously in London and New York, and that the American portion of the loan will amount to about $100,000,000. J. P. Morgan & Co. are expected to handle the New York end of the financing, although several other Wall Street banking groups are known to have been seeking the business.

All Australian financing heretofore has been done in London, but a number of New York banking houses have been angling for a new issue during the last year. In the last day or two there have been reports in Wall Street that the American efforts were nearing a successful conclusion, and last night an Associated Press dispatch from London said that confirmation had been received from Melbourne of Australia's intention of floating a loan in the United States.

This dispatch said that with £120,000,000 in loans maturing this year, the Australian Government recently asked Great Britain whether there was any objection to borrowing in New York to meet these requirements. The British reply, according to The Associated Press cable, was that there was no particular objection, especially since it was not likely that sufficient money would be available in London to meet Australia's needs.

The Australian Government by Dec. 15 must provide for the payment of £70,000,000, or almost $350,000,000, of 4½ per cent. bonds, issued in 1915, 1916 and 1917, constituting the outstanding balance of the first, second, third and fourth war loans, and in addition must

Australian credit standing is of the highest, and New York bankers would welcome the opportunity of handling a new issue, as the large volume of funds pressing for investment here has led to keen competition for desirable foreign offerings.

Capt. R. M. Connell Missing Three Months, Army Seeks Him, Fearing for His Safety

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—Disappearance of Captain Robert M. Connell, regular army officer formerly assigned at National Guard instructor at Lancaster, Pa., was reported today at the War Department.

No trace of the missing officer has been found, despite investigation conducted by the Baltimore (Md.) Corps Area Headquarters, the Lancaster police and War Department officials, since he was ordered transferred from Lancaster to Fort Hancock, N. J., more than three months ago.

War Department officials at first believed that the Captain had met with some accident or had been unduly delayed, and would explain his absence when he arrived at the New Jersey station. Since then, however, concern for his safety has grown and the investigation has been extended but without success.

The case is among the strangest in army peacetime annals. Captain Connell's service, the records show, has been excellent, and because of his unusually good rating Major Gen. Hull, Judge Advocate General, has recommended that the law which requires the army to drop from its rolls the names of officers who are absent without leave or explanation for a period of ninety days should be disregarded, at least for a brief additional time.

So far as the investigators have been able to learn, Captain Connell's personal affairs also were in perfect order, without trace of any financial or other troubles which might have caused him to disappear deliberately.

War Department records fail to show that Captain Connell had any living relative at the time he entered the army service. Only the name of a brother officer was given by him, the space on the records for names of persons, parents or next of kin, who would be notified in an emergency, being left blank. The officer named has been communicated with, but has reported a lack of any information.

Captain Connell, who was born in Maryland in 1884, was appointed a Second Lieutenant under a temporary commission in the Coast Artillery in 1917. He was transferred to the Permanent Commissioned Personnel and promoted for meritorious service to the grade of First Lieutenant, and later to that of Captain.

U.S. JUDGE INDICTED IN FAILURE OF BANK

Forgery and Embezzlement Are Charged to J. Will Ross of Tennessee.

WORTHLESS DRAFTS CITED

Cashier of Bank, His Son and a Lumber Dealer Are Also Indicted.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSON, Tenn., July 8.—Judge J. Will Ross, of Federal Court, surrendered to Sheriff Mainord at 1 o'clock this afternoon and posted a $25,000 bond, after three indictments were returned against him today by the Madison County Grand Jury in connection with the failure of the People's Savings Bank.

One indictment returned against him, Thomas B. Carroll, formerly cashier of the bank, and John Carroll, his son, contained 22 counts and charged embezzlement and fraudulent breach of trust. He is charged with being an accessory. Another indictment charges him with forgery in connection with a draft bearing the signature of J. H. Kirkpatrick and drawn on the Hardin County Bank at Saltillo, Tenn. A third indictment charges him with fraudulent breach of trust in connection with the Madison Land and Loan Company.

W. L. Cawthon, lumber dealer of Jackson, was indicted on a charge of forgery. He and Thomas B. Carroll also were named in an indictment charging forgery of a trade acceptance concerning the shipment of lumber, and Mr. Carroll was named in an indictment charging the forgery of I. B. Tinnett's name on a check signed by C. T. Noel, County Trustee.

T. B. Carroll's bond of $50,000, John Carroll's bond of $25,000 and W. L. Cawthon's bond of $5,000, posted several days ago when they were arrested, will stand.

Judge John E. Richardson of Murfreesboro, Tenn., fixed Aug. 1 for arraignment of the indicted men and on that date the time of trial will be set, he said. No attempt will be made to try the accused until the regular term of court in September, this agreement having been reached by the attorneys.

The forgery indictment against Judge Ross has to do with a draft for $1,831.34, bearing the signature of J. H. Kirkpatrick, payable to the People's Savings Bank and chargeable to the Hardin County Bank at Saltillo, Tenn.

This draft was among the late discoveries of worthless paper in the bank by State bank examiners and delivered Tuesday to T. J. Murray Jr., Attorney General of Madison County, who presented the evidence this morning to the Grand Jury, together with an affidavit from Mr. Kirkpatrick that he had never seen the draft before.

Among the papers forming a basis for Judge Ross's indictment were an unpaid note for $12,000 on his brother, Elijah Ross of Savannah, Tenn.; a draft for $15,700 on the Exchange Bank and Trust Company of Memphis, and a check for $4,750 on the same bank. These were returned unpaid and found among the worthless paper in the bank.

Two other drafts for $20,533 on Lake Hays of Memphis, and for $3,750 on Roane Waring, also of Memphis, were found by examiners marked "unpaid." These two drafts were included in the reasons for indictment.

The indictments were brought about after several weeks of rigid investigation by Attorney General Murray, assisted by Hunter Wilson, D. B. Puryear and Samuel O. Bates of Memphis, and after the Grand Jury heard testimony by Lake Hays, Roane Waring, W. N. Daniel and C. W. Thompson, all of Memphis. The latter is President of the Exchange Bank and Trust Company.

The indictment of Judge Ross follows closely upon the failure of the People's Savings Bank of Jackson. It was found, when the accounts of the bank were investigated early in June, that he had drawn on the bank drafts totaling $32,709.

Some of the accounts that were drawn from, which caused the failure, were receivership accounts placed in the bank on the authority of Judge Ross. Drafts drawn by the Judge on Colonel Roane Waring and Lake Hays, Memphis lawyers, without their knowledge or consent, were also found.

The Memphis Bar Association investigated his actions and passed a resolution that he leave the bench until the outcome be learned. Judge Ross replied that he was to blame for the bank's failure.

DEATH OF BARONESS IS HELD ACCIDENTAL

STORIES OF 3 GUESTS AGREE

Companion Sails on the Berengaria, on Which the Dead Woman Was to Have Gone.

At the conclusion of an investigation into the death of the Baroness Helen zur Muehlen, who plunged from her bedroom window on the seventh floor of the Hotel Ritz-Carlton to the roof of the Italian Garden, seventy feet below, early yesterday, it was announced last night by District Attorney Banton that no suspicious circumstances had been developed and that, as far as his office was concerned, the case was closed.

For two hours yesterday Assistant District Attorney William P. Ryan, in charge of the Homicide Bureau, questioned Mrs. Susanna J. Welen of London, who came here from England with the Baroness on the Aquitania on June 27, and who shared a five-room apartment with her at the Ritz-Carlton; James M. Thompson, an advertising man, of 122 East Seventy-sixth Street, and Lester Comley of 118 East Seventy-sixth Street, a clothing salesman, who were in Baroness zur Muehlen's apartment at the time of her fall. Thompson was at one time engaged to the former Millicent Rogers, now the wife of Count Ludwig Salm-Hoogstraaten.

Stories of Fall Identical.

Mr. Ryan said that the stories of the three, although differing in minor respects, were identical on the main details. Baroness zur Muehlen, they all agreed, had murmured a conventional apology when she left the drawing room of suite 220, where they were all seated, between 12:30 and 1 o'clock yesterday morning. No one, Mrs. Welen and the two men told Mr. Ryan, noticed anything unusual as the Baroness passed through the door into her bedroom adjoining.

Within a few seconds they heard a subdued outcry and rushing into the room they found that Baroness zur Muehlen had fallen through the open window. It was twenty and a half inches wide and the bottom was only thirty and a half inches from the floor. It is Mr. Ryan's theory and that of the police that, as she stood beside it in an effort to get a breath of outside air, she either lost her balance or was seized with a sudden dizziness. No one saw her fall and the exact circumstances can never be more than conjecture, Mr. Ryan said.

Baroness zur Muehlen was to have sailed for England on the Berengaria yesterday with Mrs. Welen. Sir Victor Sassoon of 17 St. Helen's Place, London, who chanced to arrive here with them on the Aquitania and who also has been a guest at the Ritz-Carlton, assured Mr. Ryan that Mrs. Welen would hold herself at the disposal of the New York authorities in case later questioning should be considered desirable. She was permitted to leave on the Berengaria and occupied the suite which she and the Baroness were to have had together.

Her Husband Is Informed.

Sir Victor also returned to England on the Berengaria. He is a business associate of the Baron zur Muehlen and Mrs. Welen's husband, who have extensive coffee and banking interests in Java. News of the Baroness's death was cabled to the Baron at Soerabaya, Java. Former Senator James A. O'Gorman, counsel for Sir Victor, accompanied him to the District Attorney's office yesterday and was present when District Attorney Banton gave out the result of Mr. Ryan's investigation.

Mr. Ryan said that it was 4 o'clock yesterday morning when he reached the Ritz-Carlton and that he found Dr. Benjamin Schwartz, Medical Examiner, and the police already there. The Baroness had died instantaneously when her body struck the roof of the Italian Garden below her window. An examination disclosed that her skull had been fractured and that she had been badly crushed.

The Baroness zur Muehlen gave a farewell dinner in the Crystal Room at the hotel Tuesday evening, Mr. Ryan said. The guests were Mrs. Welen, Thompson, Comley, Mrs. Harry Dorn, Blaser, Mrs. Blaser's sister and two other men whose names Mr. Ryan did not learn. After dinner they danced for a time and then

NICHOLSON SEEKS TO DELAY ENTERING HOME RULE DECREE

CITY'S PETITION DELAYED

Wallstein Says He Will Ask for an Order Immediately to Restrain Operation of Buses.

Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson decided yesterday to defer until next Monday the city's petition to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court looking to relief from the chaotic conditions into which the city's affairs have been plunged by that court's ruling that the Home Rule law is invalid and all enactments made under its authority void.

In explanation of his change of plan Mr. Nicholson said: "I have had a conference with former Justice Frank C. Laughlin and Bainbridge Colby. In view of the fact that there will be no Justice sitting in the Appellate Division before next Monday, when Presiding Justice Clarke, who is now out of town, will be back in this city, we have decided that it will be best to appear before the court at that time.

"In the meantime we are endeavoring to get the consent and cooperation of Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel for William J. Schieffelin, and of Louis Marshall, representing Stewart Browne, to join us in the entry of an order on the decision of the court and in requesting a stay of proceedings until such time as the proposed appeal can be presented and argued before the Court of Appeals.

"After that has been done we will take up the question of having an early convening of the Court of Appeals in order to have an argument of the issues involved at the earliest possible moment.

Records Ready for Appeal.

"All our records which are essential to the filing of the appeal are already virtually compiled, but in causing this delay of a few days we are really trying to expedite action, because this is not a matter of merely local concern, but affects the people of many cities of the State other than New York."

Mr. Nicholson said he had received already a telegram from Syracuse in which Frank J. Cregg, Corporation Counsel of that city, wired:

"Syracuse wishes to cooperate in every way possible in appeal to Court of Appeals from Appellate Division Home Rule decision."

The chief of this city's law department added that he expected other cities of the State, many of which have large interests involved, would come into line speedily with similar cooperation.

When Mr. Nicholson was asked what was his purpose in seeking aid from the opposing attorneys, he replied: "It is the quickest way to get action. We want them to agree on the application for an appeal. It will save time in the end, but it is not necessary under the law that we should take that course. Strictly speaking, there is no such thing as "a stay" in this issue. We will simply ask the court—and in so doing we hope to have the assent of the opposing counsel—to refrain from entering the judgment order. Should that be done it will maintain the status quo and will make the situation far less chaotic pending determination of our appeal."

The Corporation Counsel said he was being deluged with letters from officeholders and others asking him about their status under the decision. In reply to another question he said that as yet he had been unable to do anything toward making the investigation of the alleged "plot," as requested by Mayor Hylan.

Following this statement, Mr. Nichol-

Texan Ends World Hunt for 7 Swindlers; Sends to Prison Last of Gang After 6 Years

KANSAS CITY, Kan., July 8 (AP).—The revenge of J. Frank Norfleet, Texas ranchman and merciless pursuer of seven men who fleeced him of $48,000 in 1919, was consummated here today when Judge Kimbrough Stone, in Federal court, denied W. B. Spencer a permanent writ of habeas corpus. This decision will permit Texas authorities to return Spencer to Texas to serve an eight-year sentence imposed on his conviction of the swindle.

Spencer was the last of the seven men whom Norfleet had hunted down. All of the others are imprisoned. To accomplish his revenge Norfleet traveled many thousands of miles throughout the world.

Norfleet's chase to round up the gang of confidence men who victimized him took him into eighteen States, Canada, Mexico, England, France and Germany. The swindle occurred in Dallas during an oil stock boom. Norfleet was "approached" by a member of the gang in a hotel lobby. He returned a wallet the man had dropped on a lounge and was "rewarded" by being admitted to a "sure thing" in stock speculation.

Through ostensible "wiretapping" schemes Norfleet was first induced to believe that he had won several thousand dollars and then was prevailed upon to put up $45,000 to make an all stock "clean-up." When the swindlers got the money they disappeared.

Norfleet went home, put the management of his property in other hands and started out to send all the swindlers to prison. He traced them to Fort Worth, where he cornered them in a room at the point of a pistol and recovered his money back. They begged for their lives and promised to return the money, but as soon as Norfleet let them out of sight they disappeared again.

Norfleet then began to track the men down one by one. He caught Frank Gerber and E. J. Ward in California in 1921. He captured Joe Furey in Jacksonville, Fla., in 1921. Next he set down three minor members of the gang and then set out to get Spencer, "the master mind" of the group, whom Norfleet caught in Salt Lake City.

A bill was introduced in the last Congress authorizing the payment to Norfleet of $17,000 spent in running down the swindlers.

Rockefeller Tells a Story Of Boy Named Weatherstrip

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8.—Nobody loves a good story better than John D. Rockefeller. Here is one he told to his friends today, his eighty-sixth birthday:

Down in Virginia a negro was brought before the Judge for stealing chickens or some similar offense. The Judge asked him if he had any children.

"Yas sir, Judge," replied the negro, "I'se got a boy."

"What's his name?" asked the Judge.

"His name is Weatherstrip, Judge."

"Weatherstrip? Why where did you ever get that name, Sambo?"

"Well, Judge, it was dis-away. Dat boy was born just before de war and he kept me out of de draft."

BRASS BAND GREETS ROCKEFELLER AT 86

PLAYS USUAL GAME OF GOLF

But at that time Mr. Rockefeller was not cognizant of the surprise in store for him, which was a concert given by Arthur Pryor's band from Luna Park, Coney Island, on the porch of his country house.

The concert had been arranged as a birthday surprise by a neighbor of his in Pocantico Hills, and, with the cooperation of his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., the plans were carried out so quietly that until Mr. Rockefeller was escorted out to his porch after the birthday dinner he had not the slightest inkling of the secret.

The band went to Tarrytown and was taken by motor bus to the Rockefeller estate shortly after 2 o'clock. As it was drizzling rain the band took its position on the large porch, and was all ready to play when Mr. Rockefeller appeared, accompanied by members of his family and his house guests.

The concert last for an hour, and during that time all of Mr. Rockefeller's favorite selections were played, including "The Last Rose of Summer," "Comin' Through the Rye," "Auld Lang Syne," and "The Swanee River."

Greets Members of Band.

After the concert was over he greeted Mr. Pryor and shook hands with every member of the band. Then he made a few remarks, telling the members what a privilege it was for him to listen to the selections played and what a gift it was to be able to play any musical instrument. He complimented them upon their perfect harmony, blending in unison, as he expressed it.

Before the band left sandwiches and iced tea were served to the members and Mr. Rockefeller waved them a farewell when they departed.

Later in the afternoon the Rev. John M. Furman, head of the Irving School in Tarrytown, gave a recital on the organ in the house. Mr. Rockefeller invited Mr. Furman after hearing him play at the First Reformed Church in Tarrytown on Sunday.

Mr. Rockefeller arose at his usual hour in the morning and after a simple breakfast he read the papers. He is one of the heaviest buyers of newspapers in the community and had left orders for copies of all the New York papers. Nearly all of them contained mention of his eighty-sixth birthday.

Next came a flood of telegrams which were handed to him by his secretary. He dictated answers to some of the messages of congratulation, and then prepared for his regular game of golf.

HYLAN SAYS HE WILL RUN FOR THIRD TERM WHATEVER HAPPENS

TAKEN AS A CHALLENGE

Mayor Hylan told newspaper men yesterday that regardless of what the Democratic organizations in the city do about the Mayoralty nomination, he "would be there" on Election Day. The Mayor made it clear that he would "be there" not only as a voter but as a candidate.

For this reason the statement made by Mayor Hylan is regarded among politicians as epochal. Democratic leaders said yesterday that they believed it would mark a turning point in the campaign.

"If the Mayor said that," a prominent Democratic leader who is not friendly to Mr. Hylan declared, "he turned a big shovelful toward the digging of his own political grave. The statement distinctly plays into the hands of his political opponents."

The Mayor's statement was made in reply to questions by newspaper men when he reached the City Hall yesterday morning. They asked the Mayor to tell them what was the real situation with regard to the prospective Mayoralty nomination.

"You boys should know all about that," the Mayor replied. "You are writing about it every day. I was just going to ask you that question."

"But you must know pretty well what the situation is," one of the interviewers suggested.

"Well, you know, I am going to run anyhow," Mayor Hylan replied with a smile.

"Does that mean that you are going to run independently if you are not renominated by the Democrats?" was asked.

"I'll be there on election day, all right," the Mayor replied, and then turned his back on the newspaper men and entered his office.

Fight Is Foreseen.

Fighting talk has been heard at the City Hall; there have been hints of insurgency; but in no statement made by Mayor Hylan so far with regard to the Mayoralty situation has there been so strong an implication of a third party movement led by him as in the utterances quoted above. In political circles these conclusions were drawn from his statement:

That the Mayor has been informed in an authoritative way that he must retire as a candidate for a third term or face a fight by Tammany Hall in the primaries.

That his statement today was the Mayor's answer to that ultimatum, and that it was intended as a direct threat that if he is not renominated by the Democrats he will head an independent fight for control of the next City Administration.

That if the Mayor ever had any intention to make a fight in the Democratic city primaries against an opponent backed by Tammany, he has abandoned it and is prepared if necessary to make his fight outside of his party with the support of W. R. Hearst and other backers.

That the recent attacks in Hearst newspaper on Judge Olvany and a statement issued yesterday by Judge Thomas Burke, head of the Hylan Seven Years of Progress Alliance, mark the opening skirmishes in a general attack on Tammany and its allies by the independent backers of Hylan's candidacy.

Prepared for Challenge.

Developments yesterday, it is believed, will tend to bring out into the open the opponents to Mayor Hylan's third term aspirations. There is every reason to believe that with what virtually amounts to a declaration of war against Tammany having been issued from the Hearst-Hylan camp, the open fight on his renomination will be materially hastened.

Those who have been planning the unseating of Mayor Hylan with the end of his present term in all their councils have taken into consideration the possibility that Mayor Hylan might be forced to make a fight whether he wanted to or not. They are prepared to accept his challenge.

The attacks on Judge Olvany in the Hearst papers and the more recent attack emanating from the Hylan Seven Years of Progress Alliance have merely tended to solidify Tammany and insure loyalty to Tammany's purposes by district leaders who either as recipients of patronage from Hylan or because they are holding office under his Administration up to now had been wavering.

In Tammany circles it was the view that Mayor Hylan's implied threat to run on a third ticket had afforded him a weapon with which to fight his enemies and to politicians who for reasons of expediency had professed friendship for the Mayor and sympathy with his aspiration for a third term a pretext to quit him. The declarations of Mayor Hylan, it was stated, in a position where with every degree of justification he now could be put down as an irregular. The Mayor, they say, has started hostilities, for so far there has been no overt act against the candidacy of Mr. Hylan by any of the party organizations within the city.

Judge Thomas C. Burke, President of the Hylan Seven Years of Progress Alliance, in his statement yesterday likened Judge Olvany to George III and openly declared that the Tammany leader's recent "declaration of independence," in which he denied being under the tutelage of either Albany or City Hall, in reality was directed against Mayor Hylan, not against Governor Smith.

"It was a defiance directed specifically at the City Hall and the State House at Albany," Judge Burke said. "The poorly concealed laughter in the faces of both Governor Smith and the Tammany leaders as they appeared in pictures subsequently side by side in a New York paper shows that Judge Olvany's declaration was in no way personal, so far as Governor Smith is concerned.

"Coming at about the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, Judge Olvany's declaration was well timed to share in the tumult of rejoicing that shakes the country every Fourth of July. But now that the shouting is over, it is clear that the Declaration of Independence which we celebrated was the exact reverse of the one issued by Judge Olvany.

"If George III had tried to bolster up his authority by a formal statement that he was boss of the people over here and that he would listen to nothing from Burke or Pitt on their behalf as to what he had in mind to do, we would have an exact model of Judge Olvany's declaration of independence. A declaration of independence from one having autocratic power is unique. No wonder that the Governor and the Tammany chiefs laugh.

"What is more to the point is an exact analogue of the declaration of American independence coming from the people of New York City. It will be provided in mass meetings in each of the Assembly districts of the five boroughs, where free discussion will be invited and from which representatives will be sent to a mass convention in Manhattan, where delegates will be named as the choice of the people themselves. That will be a real declaration of independence and will inspire patriotism rather than laughter."

In Tammany circles Judge Burke's statement caused both anger and amazement. Tammany politicians at once began inquiries with a view to learning something with regard to the origin of the alliance on the steering committee, on which places have been reserved for a number of Mayor Hylan's wealthy friends, including some of the "millionaire" Deputy Police Commissioners under Enright. They also found that Mrs. William R. Hearst is a trustee of the alliance. The inquiries were still in progress last night, and it was hinted that disclosures soon would come which would lend a touch of amazing political interest to the events that led up to the formation of the alliance.

Olvany Busy at Wigwam.

Although it was one of the "days off," Judge Olvany spent busy hours at the wigwam in Fourteenth Street yesterday. There was a round-up of the women leaders in the Assembly districts throughout Manhattan's political bailiwick. In every instance they brought assurances that the Democratic women would stand by the organization under all circumstances, although in quite a few cases their reports indicated that there was a good deal of Hylan sentiment among their women constituents.

Judge Olvany will receive additional reports from the women leaders today and in addition will listen to a delegation from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Fraternity, Sons of Erin, who will call upon him to plead the cause of Acting Aldermanic President William T. Collins as a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination.

Incidental to his day's work, Judge Olvany learned from some of his callers that agents who profess to represent "City Hall" have been active in some Assembly districts, canvassing Democratic voters with a view of inducing those of an "independent" turn of mind to state their intentions in the event an "independent" candidate should appear in the field in the general election.

As far as could be learned the reports did not show any considerable headway made by these stray emissaries and they created less alarm at the Wigwam than they did interest, as evidence that Mayor Hylan's friends might be entertaining plans to launch an independent movement in his favor.

MOVE ON TO DRAFT CURRAN FOR ALDERMAN

A movement has been launched in the Tenth Aldermanic District to "draft" Major Henry H. Curran, who four years ago made an unsuccessful fight against Mayor Hylan in the municipal election, as a candidate for the Board of Aldermen. Major Curran, who now holds the appointive post as Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, represented the Tenth District in the Aldermanic Board for three terms before he went overseas to fight in the World War.

He has been a City Magistrate, and in 1919 he was "drafted" by the Republicans as candidate for the Borough Presidency of Manhattan, which he won in the special election that year. Under the circumstances, it might be regarded as a sacrifice for him to become an Alderman again, although under the present system Aldermen are paid $8,000, or more than three times what those legislating for the entire State receive.

Major Curran has given no indication as yet that he is prepared to quit his present important post. The Tenth Aldermanic District takes in Greenwich Village and the Gramercy Park section. Col. Francis R. Stoddard, leader of the Tenth Assembly District, with which the Aldermanic district is practically coterminus, is eager to have Major Curran run, and it is believed that he may prevail upon him to do so in the end.

The Tammany leader of the district is Tammany Chieftain George W. Olvany, whose candidate for Alderman in the last election came within 868 votes of beating Louis F. Cardani, the Republican incumbent.

TAXI DRIVERS TO FIGHT HYLAN'S RE-ELECTION

Independents Announce They Will Take an Active Part in the Campaign.

Philip P. O'Brien, President of the Amalgamated Taxi Association, said to have 2,500 taxi drivers in its membership, issued a statement yesterday saying that independent operators would take an active part in the campaign against Mayor Hylan because of his alleged discrimination in favor of the Yellow Cab Company, in which a member of the Sinnott family was interested.

"We will fight against any attempt to re-establish the public authority over the taxicabs which was conferred under the Home Rule bill and is set aside by the Appellate Court decision," said Mr. O'Brien.

"The law was forced on us by the Mayor as a pet measure to benefit the Yellow Cab Company. We believe the Independents and their families and friends will be able to swing 75,000 votes to any candidate who will give us a square deal. We are going to hold political meetings.

The Empire State Taxicab Chamber of Commerce voted yesterday at a meeting at the Hotel Empire to take no action regarding the Appellate Court decision until advised by counsel at the next meeting of the body where authority over the taxicabs now rests.

HYLAN TALKS OVER RADIO.

In celebration of the first anniversary of the establishment of the Municipal Broadcasting Station, WNYC, on top of the Municipal Building, Mayor Hylan made a speech last night which took an hour to broadcast. The Mayor used the establishment of the station as a sample of the success of municipal ownership and operation. He incorporated in his remarks his familiar attacks upon Wall Street interests, the traction monopoly and the newspapers, as well as a political appeal.

Replying to criticisms that he was away from his office on long absences, the Mayor pointed out that he took no Summer vacation, but went South in the Winter, a practice he had followed before becoming Mayor. He said it required night and day and plenty of hard work to meet the demands on him.

Part of the Mayor's discussion of transit was as follows:

"If we had listened to the demands of the I. R. T. and the B. M. T., had permitted ourselves to the browbeaten by traction newspapers and intimidated by Wall Street traction manipulators, you would have been paying 8 cents or possibly more since the first of January, 1918. So that our refusal to grant an increase even to 8 cents has saved each 5c rider just about $200 since we have been in office. And $200 represents the usual savings bank interest at 4 per cent. for a whole year on $5,000."

STOWAWAY INVOLVED IN PERPETUAL VOYAGE

Russian, After Five Free Passages, Still Is Rejected by America and England.

A record of five free transatlantic passages, all of them at the expense of the White Star Line and worth altogether about $500, has been achieved by Samuel Dausherasky, a Russian stowaway, who is now a prisoner in the hold of the White Star liner Celtic, which sails for Liverpool at noon on Saturday.

Nobody knows just how Dausherasky first came to this country from Russia, but on April 18, feeling a longing for the steppes of his native land he embarked on the Adriatic for Liverpool. He was discovered when that steamer was a few days at sea. When the ship landed he was given free board and lodging in the Liverpool jail until the Celtic brought him back to this city.

When he landed here the immigration authorities decided that his own idea was the best one, so he was sent back to England on the Baltic, where after a few more days in jail he was returned to America again. When he reached America he was placed on the Lapland. A few days later he was transferred to the Celtic. Since neither Liverpool nor America seems to want him, he may have the opportunity of sailing backward and forward indefinitely.

Girl, Burned by Matches, Dies.

ALL CITY'S BONDS VALID, SAYS CRAIG

NO SECURITIES AFFECTED

National City Company Also Gives Assurance Regarding Issues by Other Cities.

Controller Charles L. Craig, on his return to the city yesterday, issued the following statement:

"There need not be any apprehension in the minds of any one in regard to the validity of any of the bonds sold by the City of New York since the purported adoption of the Home Rule amendment to the Constitution in 1923.

"The Municipal Assembly of the City of New York, established under the assumed authority of the constitutional amendment, has not passed any law of any kind that in any wise relates to the issuance of obligations of the City of New York. In fact, no such law could be passed by the Municipal Assembly because of restrictions on city legislation contained in the City Home Rule law. Among such restrictions are those against the passage of any law as to the amount in which the city may become indebted or which may be raised by tax for city purposes, or which removes restrictions of any existing law as to the issuing of bonds or other evidences of debt."

This assurance was supplemented later by an Associated Press dispatch from Albany, announcing that Attorney General Ottinger and State Controller Murphy had issued a joint statement, in which they said:

"New York State bonds have behind them the faith and credit of the Empire State. Technical defects, if there should be any, will not alter that faith and credit upon which rests the very existence of the State itself."

The National City Company announced yesterday that it had been advised by counsel that the question of the validity of the constitutional amendment did not affect New York City bonds or any other issues of bonds by cities in New York State; that independently of any laws passed by the municipalities under the constitutional amendment, there was usually to be found ample authority in existing charters and statutes which have not been repealed to sustain the validity of any bonds of the New York cities.

"Under established practice," said the National City Company statement, "including a long line of decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, holding that under certain conditions cities are estopped to contest the validity of bonds issued by them, counsel did not believe that the decision could be regarded as raising any question of the validity of these bonds.

"In the case of the bonds of the State or any of its municipalities which have received in cash one hundred cents on the dollar for every security issued by them, it is inconceivable that the State of New York would permit any default to be made to carry question as to the validity of the obligations."

JARDINE URGES NEED OF BUSINESS ON FARMS

Secretary Tells Omaha Grain Men They Must First Secure Their Market to Succeed.

OMAHA, Neb., July 8 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Jardine arrived in Omaha this morning and impressed upon grain men at a luncheon that the farmer must apply business methods to his farm, that is, secure a market.

"Not many of the farmers any more think they can expect the Government to provide good times for them," he said. "It is not the function of the Government, nor is it possible to bring prosperity by legislation to the farmer or the banker."

Mr. Jardine said that farmers should do what the California raisin farmer did.

"They taught the bakers how to make raisin bread. And they taught the Chinese to eat raisins and so they finally secured a market."

Secretary Jardine denied emphatically he had ever criticized the farmer for hoarding grain, or even mentioned grain hoarding at any time, in answer to a letter from J. J. Ryan of Fort Dodge, Iowa, criticising the Secretary for such reported statements.

SAFE ROBBERS GET $300.

Safe robbers obtained $300 from the safe in the branch office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on the fourth floor of the Merchants and Mechanics Bank Building, Broadway and Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, sometime Tuesday night, it was discovered yesterday morning. They also broke open the safe in the office of Jenkins & Kaisar, stock brokers, on the second floor, but found nothing of value. On the same floor the police found that the safe belonging to the National Filter Company had been tampered with but not opened.

Thomas McCarthy, a watchman and elevator operator, found when he came to work yesterday morning, that the door to the offices of Jenkins & Kaisar had been broken open. He notified the police of the Clymer Street Station, who found that the robbers had entered the building through a rear window on the second floor from the hallway of an adjoining tenement.

DR. STILLMAN HURT BY BOMB

Special to The New York Times.

CORNWALL, N. Y., July 8.—Dr. E. G. Stillman, volunteer fire chief of Cornwall, it was learned today is being treated for wounds caused by the explosion of a toy bomb in his hands. He found the bomb, one of several pieces of fireworks used in a display on Fourth of July night, in his dooryard on Tuesday. He picked it up, unaware it had not yet been exploded, and it went off, burning his hands and face.

Dr. Stillman is the son of the late James Stillman, one time head of the National City Bank, and a brother of James A. Stillman.

Husband Sues Blanche Yurka.

LOS ANGELES, July 8 (AP).—Ian Keith Ross, poet and film actor, filed suit for divorce in the Superior Court yesterday against Mme. Blanche Yurka Ross, Metropolitan Opera star, charging desertion. The opera singer sued Mr. Ross for divorce in New York last year, naming Miss Marjorie Rambeau, the actress, as co-respondent. The case is still pending.

WESTCHESTER MAY LOSE NEW CHARTER

ROCHESTER SALARIES HIT

Mayor May Compel Assessors and City Judges to Return to Lower Pay.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—The newly drafted Westchester County Charter, which is scheduled to be voted on by the people at the next election, may be wiped out if the Appellate Division's ruling nullifying the Home Rule amendment is sustained, in the opinion of members of the County Government Commission.

The commission concurred in the opinion expressed yesterday in New York by the Home Rule Commission that if the decision is upheld, virtually every amendment to the existing Constitution of 1894 has been improperly submitted and must be void.

Among the measures that would be affected by such a decision is the proposed new charter which calls for an amendment to the Constitution because it changes the form of government in Westchester County. It was passed by the last Legislature, was approved by the Governor and is now before the people for approval or rejection.

The commission in a statement said: "If the decision be sound in respect to the finding that any concurrent resolution proposing a constitutional amendment must be entered in full upon the journals of both houses of the Legislature, practically every amendment to the existing Constitution of 1894 was improperly submitted and is void. These amendments include such important subjects as workmen's compensation, highway bond authorization, soldiers' bonus, literacy tests for voters, county Government in Westchester and Nassau Counties.

"If the decision be sound on that point, all pending amendments to the Constitution, including the new charter, may be voided."

The commission has been at work for two years on the charter, which will, if adopted, materially alter many details of country government. Governor Smith recently signed a bill authorizing the charter to be voted upon at the next general election.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—That the decision of the Appellate Division declaring the Home Rule amendment unconstitutional and thereby nullifying all action already taken by local communities under the provisions of the act will have more far-reaching consequences in Rochester than first supposed became apparent to-day.

With the Home Rule act void, Mayor Clarence Van Zandt was confronted with the necessity of returning Assessors and City Judges to the lower salaries which obtained until last February and obtaining remission of the increases paid, together with the abolition of the museum department and the office of superintendent recently conferred on Dr. Arthur C. Parker.

The assessors were raised from $3,600 to $4,800 under provisions of the act and the city judges from $4,000 to $6,000.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—Proceedings to obtain a first-class city charter for Syracuse will be initiated if the Court of Appeals upholds the recent decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court invalidating the Home Rule amendment to the State Constitution, Corporation Counsel Frank J. Cregg announced today.

Increases in population within the last few years have brought Syracuse within the limits formerly prescribed for cities of the first class, Mr. Cregg said, but under the Home Rule act, which abolished class designations for municipalities, it has been impossible to take advantage of the situation.

Until a decision is handed down by the Court of Appeals, the Corporation Counsel added, Syracuse would proceed under the provisions of the Home Rule amendment.

LAYS NYACK TYPHOID TO WATER FROM WELL

Victims Drank It Instead of Interstate Park Supply, State Official Says.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, N. Y., July 8.—Dr. Edward Marsh, Secretary of the State Health Department, arrived in Nyack today and went over the report of Dr. J. W. Giles, Nyack health officer, concerning the finding of typhoid germs in the water supply at Hook Mountain, near Palisades Interstate Park.

The tests of the specimens of the water taken by Dr. Marsh will not be completed for three days. Following today's investigation, however, Dr. Marsh said that the cases were apparently caused by drinking impure water from an abandoned well on private property adjoining the park. Picnickers, he said, had been using this water instead of the regular park supply. In the meantime the well had been closed by order of Dr. Giles, whose action in the case was praised by the State official.

Six new cases of typhoid have developed here in the last twenty-four hours, bringing the total up to twenty.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 8.—It was announced by the Bergen County Board of Health today that the eight cases of typhoid reported in the county had been traced to water from a brook near Nyack. Six cases are in the Hackensack Hospital and two in Dumont.

WORKERS FINANCE COOPERATIVE HOMES

The Prudential Insurance Company has approved a loan of $950,000 to the Labor Home Building Corporation, to aid in the financing of the five-story apartment house block bounded by Mott Avenue, Sheridan Avenue, 158th and 159th Streets, it was announced yesterday.

The building corporation was organized by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the International Fur Workers' Union, the United Cloth Hat and Cap Makers' Union and the Pocketbook and Leather Goods Workers' Union in order to build cooperative homes for the members of the organization. The plans were made public several months ago.

DINNER FOR TWO MAYORS.

Hylan, and Smith of Detroit Speak to Firemen After Ball Game.

A dinner to Mayor John F. Hylan and Mayor John W. Smith of Detroit in the Hotel Commodore last night, was attended by 675 firemen and their guests. It was under the direction of Honorary Deputy William W. Cohen, Chairman of the special committee of the Fire Department, and followed the baseball game between the Detroit and New York City firemen. The visitors lost by a score of 5 to 5.

Mayor Hylan made a short address in which he characterized the annual game as a friendly contest for a good purpose, and told the visitors that the proceeds would go to the Honor Emergency Fund of the New York Fire Department, to supplement the allowance made by the city to the dependents of injured firemen.

Mayor Smith of Detroit, after expressing his pleasure in coming to New York, commended the spirit of the New York Fire Department, which he said "enlivens the organization from Commissioner Drennan down to the humblest fireman." Mayor Smith, who is known as the "flying Mayor of Detroit," returned to that city this morning by airplane, leaving Curtiss Field at 8 o'clock. He was due to arrive home at 9 A. M.

A silver loving cup was presented to the New York Fire Department team by Mr. Cohen and was accepted by Lieutenant Thomas Dowling of Engine Company 83, manager of the team. Mr. Cohen announced that $150,000 had been realized on the baseball game, bringing the Emergency Fund to $326,000. He also announced that substantial contributions to the fund had been received from Cardinal Hayes, Bishop Thomas Molloy of Brooklyn and the two chaplains of the Fire Department.

JEWS TO AID LEGION DRIVE.

Six Men to Help on East Side to Raise $5,000,000 Fund.

At a luncheon yesterday at the offices of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Chairman of the American Legion Endowment Fund, 55 Liberty Street, six prominent Jews offered themselves as a committee to cooperate with the Legion on the east side in raising New York's quota of the Legion's $5,000,000 endowment fund.

The committee, of which Harry H. Schacht, President of the Downtown Chamber of Commerce, is Chairman, includes Herman Morris, Jonah Goldstein of the Federation of Jewish Charities; Jacob Leichtman, President of the Modern Bank; Assistant District Attorney Morris Moskowitz and Assistant Corporation Counsel Benjamin Greenspan.

SWATS BEE, WRECKS AUTO.

Lyndhurst (N. J.) Man Hits Pole—His Wife and Guest Badly Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., July 8.—Fred G. Cottrell of Lyndhurst, was stung by a bee while driving his automobile through Hainesville, N. J., ten miles from here, early today. He let go of the steering wheel and swatted the bee, and in the meantime the car took to the side of the road and struck a large pole.

The car was badly wrecked, and Mrs. Cottrell and a Mrs. Barry were badly injured. They were taken to the St. Mary's Hospital at Passaic.

Red Jellyfish "Sting" Bathers.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 8.—Nantasket Beach, one of the most popular of the bathing beaches of Massachusetts, is under the ban for the time being by salt water bathers. The cause is the usually inoffensive red jellyfish. More than three score bathers at this beach have been "stung" by the jellyfish invaders, producing rash over their bodies.

NICHOLSON SEEKS TO DELAY DECREE

son and former Justice Laughlin went into conference with the attorneys of William J. Schieffelin, of the Citizens Union, and Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, whose court actions brought about the present predicament, in the hope that both parties to the action might unite with the city in going into the Court of Appeals by agreement.

In that effort Corporation Counsel Nicholson was only partly successful. He obtained a limited assent, but with important reservations. Former Justice Laughlin, Special Deputy Corporation Counsel, had a long conference with Wallstein, counsel for the Citizens Union.

To Ask Bus Injunction.

On its conclusion, Mr. Wallstein said: "Upon the return of Presiding Justice Clarke of the Appellate Division, I shall submit an order restraining the city from operation of buses. In a conference with former Justice Laughlin this afternoon, I said I would agree on an appeal on the questions of law involved.

"The decision of the Appellate Division applies only to buses and no order the Corporation Counsel can get before the Court of Appeals makes a decision will enable the city to operate buses. As to all other matters involved in the Home Rule amendment, the Corporation Counsel can get from no court any stay which would prevent any action being brought as to such other matters on the basis of the decision of the Appellate Division.

"The Citizens Union, however, has not the slightest intention of bringing any action on the basis of the Appellate Division's decision until the Court of Appeals has passed upon it. I so informed Justice Laughlin.

"The Citizens Union is in favor of home rule and in the Court of Appeals I shall argue on the same side with the city in support of the validity of the amendment. At the same time I shall argue that, assuming the amendment to be valid, it does not authorize the city to operate buses.

"The Home Rule amendment, properly construed and applied, can be used to the city's great advantage, without the attempt to distort it beyond its proper field, as the Hylan Administration has attempted in its local bus legislation."

Browne Objects to Plan.

Stewart Browne, who instituted the action directed more particularly against the constitutionality of the home rule amendment, with Louis Marshall as counsel, with the legality of bus operation presented only as one of the issues immediately involved, proved to be less conciliatory than Mr. Wallstein. Mr. Browne defined the attitude of himself and his legal advisers as follows:

"Justice Laughlin went to Mr. Marshall's office today in his capacity as Special Deputy Corporation Counsel and asked members of the firm if Mr. Marshall would consent to waive all legal technicalities in permitting the city to go to the Court of Appeals. When I was consulted about it I said that I thought that would be all right.

"The next point that Justice Laughlin asked was that the present status should remain until the decision of the Court of Appeals is made. I told them that I would consent to no such agreement.

"The third point submitted was that we should enter upon steps by which certain questions should be agreed upon to be argued before the Court of Appeals. I told them that this was impossible. To me it was merely an effort on the part of city officials to save their faces in this situation, and the effort was abortive.

"Had this home rule law been upheld, it would have placed the people of New York at the mercy of Tammany Hall and we never could have gotten rid of them. I doubt if we'll ever get rid of them anyhow. Instead of a budget of $450,000,000, we'd have one of a billion dollars inside of five years."

Says Craig Understood the Law.

Mr. Browne said that the only man in the City Government who recognized the full meaning of the law was Controller Craig, and he added that the Controller, because of his capacity as a city official, did not wish to oppose it.

"So far as I am concerned," Mr. Browne continued, "their proposals will have to be submitted to Mr. Marshall, and he is now on his way to Europe. All that he knows of the situation is from cable dispatches notifying him of the decision of the Appellate Division, and if I know him at all, I don't think he is the kind of man to act on anything so important unless he is right there on the ground to weigh the thing carefully. Since he plans to remain in Europe until September, I do not think anything can be done until after his return."

Mr. Browne said that the Citizens Union had no connection with the case whatsoever, and added that, except Mr. Roulstone, no member of that organization knows what it is all about. "The Citizens Union combination," he said, "is made up of a lot of women or dilettante men."

He declared that 80 per cent. of the bills passed by the Legislature are unconstitutional, and said that, so far as legal matters are concerned, that body is made up of better judges of Scotch whisky than anything else. The city Government, he declared, is worse than the Government of Russia, and he concluded: "They were warned in 1923 that the Home Rule law was unconstitutional. They've made their bed; now let them lie in it."

Bonds Valid, Craig Says.

Controller Charles L. Craig returned to his office yesterday morning from his farm in Putnam County. He plunged immediately into the mass of material that had accumulated on his desk in connection with the voiding of the Home Rule amendment. Later he issued a brief official statement to allay any apprehension in regard to the validity of bonds sold by the City of New York. Such apprehension, the Controller declared, is wholly groundless.

Mr. Craig personally made no statement of his position with reference to the cutting of salaries. Through his office associates, however, he permitted it to be known that he does not intend to lift a finger to restore the salaries of the seven commissioners of administrative city departments which have been reduced by the operation of the court's decision from $10,000 to $7,500 a year.

On the other hand, it was declared that with the exception of the Commissioners, whose compensation was illegally increased, the Controller in all probability will permit on July 15 full payment to be made to the hundreds of city employees whose salaries range from $3,000 down, even though they were increased by a process now pronounced null and void.

"Unless some taxpayer should bring an action in court and thus force his hand," one of the Controller's deputies declared, "it will be the policy of the Finance Department, pending a final determination of the issue, not to impose needless hardship upon those employees who are least able to bear it."

Among the hundreds who come strictly under the disability declared by the Appellate Division, it was declared, are all the clerical workers in city departments who have received an increase of salary since Jan. 1, all the inspectors in the five boroughs and in the Controller's office who were raised to $1,608 a year, and hundreds of attendants, messengers and other municipal workers. The per diem men, many of whose salaries were raised to figures close to the prevailing rate of wages, are not affected, according to William Buckley, Director of the Budget. These include bricklayers, masons, carpenters, painters and other skilled workers.

Walter T. Arndt, Secretary of the Citizens Union, made the following statement in regard to the reprinting of the Home Rule constitutional amendment at the legislative session of 1923:

"I was chiefly responsible for handling the Home Rule amendment at the legislative session of 1923, and if there was any 'conspiracy' as the Mayor intimates, I think I should have known something about it. The Mayor is incorrect in saying that the change was made after conferring with Governor Miller and Senator Lusk. There were conferences with the Governor, but it was Governor Smith who was the State Executive in 1923 and not Governor Miller, and it was Senator Walker who as majority leader in the Senate introduced the amendment in this year. The city's own representative at Albany, Mr. W. A. Walling, conferred with us in regard to this change. So did the counsel to the Governor.

"All talk about there being a 'joker' in the amendment is silly. By reason of the slight addition made to the Constitution in 1922 by the Burlingame amendment, we were faced with the alternative either of reprinting that section of the Constitution which we proposed to eliminate incorrectly, or as it had been amended by the Burlingame amendment. The general consensus of all who considered the matter was that the section should be reprinted as it was in 1923. Otherwise we would have been submitting an amendment to the Constitution as it was in 1922 and not as it was in 1923.

"Mayor Hylan should be better posted in regard to his facts. He could find out all these facts by consulting his Corporation Counsel or any of those who had a part in this legislation. He would then know that at a conference held in the office of the Corporation Counsel in 1922 the Home Rule amendment was finally approved as introduced.

"Personally, I am convinced that the reprinting of the amendment in 1923 was a perfectly proper procedure, and was the only one that could have been followed. The text of the proposal was not changed by so much as a comma. I furthermore believe that the Court of Appeals, when it has all the facts before it, will decide that the broad principle of municipal home rule, as incorporated in the amendment and approved overwhelmingly by the voters, shall not be destroyed because of a technicality which was not even irregular."

ASK FOR SPECIAL SESSION.

Community Councils Seek Legislation to Make Home Rule Legal.

The Governing Board of the City Parliament, which is made up of the Community Councils of the five boroughs, adopted resolutions at a meeting in the Municipal Building last night asking Governor Smith to call a special session of the Legislature to remedy the situation caused by the decision of the Appellate Division nullifying the Home Rule law.

The resolutions recite that the Municipal Assembly bills enacted under the voided statute were enacted in good faith, and the Governor is asked to call a special session at Albany "to the end that the necessary legislation be had so that the people of the City of New York, and of all other cities in the State similarly affected, shall be protected in their rights, and that any obligations assumed in good faith by said cities shall be validated."

"It's up to the Legislature to do something," said David De V. Harrison of Great Kills, S. I., First Vice President of the Community Councils. "They quile an awful bonehead play. The Court of Appeals may not be able to hear the appeal until November or December. I think the Governor and the Legislature should be made to know that the people are for home rule. A special session would not straighten out all the chaos, but I think the Legislature could validate certain obligations."

The board also adopted resolutions calling on President Coolidge to take such action, in view of an impending coal strike, "as will insure for the future an uninterrupted supply of coal to the public at reasonable prices."

The President is asked in another resolution to recommend to Congress legislation which will regulate the coal mining industry, or to recommend that the Government take over the mines and operate them for the public welfare. In the event of a strike, the demand is made that an embargo be placed on all shipments of coal to foreign countries.

A resolution sustaining the Board of Transportation in granting authority to subway contractors along Central Park West to erect shacks just within the borders of the park, was adopted.

BLAMES DRAFTERS OF BILL.

Major Cuvillier Says He Warned Machold and Sees Appeal Lost.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., July 8.—Major Louis A. Cuvillier, who is in camp here with the 105th Infantry, N. Y. N. G., declared today that the Bill Drafting Department of the State is blamable for the decision of the Appellate Division which held the Home Rule law unconstitutional.

"When the amendment was introduced," Major Cuvillier said, "I was in the Assembly, serving on the Judiciary Committee. I told Machold and others that there was an amendment pending already and that it was legally impossible to amend an amendment. He replied that it was all right. The fault lies with the Bill Drafting Department. They claimed to have consulted Elihu Root and Morgan J. O'Brien and other legal experts and said that they were told that the law was constitutional. Now they've absolutely nullified the whole thing. If they carry it to the Court of Appeals they'll get the same answer that they got from the Appellate Division."

MAY BAR ELECTIONS IN THIRD-CLASS CITIES

Secretary of Mayors' Conference Asks Opinion on Effect of Home Rule Decision.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 8.—William P. Capes, Secretary of the New York State Conference of Mayors, wrote today to James J. Hoey, chairman of the Home Rule Commission, seeking an opinion as to whether elections in third-class cities can take place this year in view of the Home Rule amendment being held invalid. The amendment provided that these elections should be held in the Fall of odd-numbered years, and many cities were already making arrangements to conduct elections in November, Mr. Capes said.

Action of the Mayors' Conference would be guided, Mr. Capes said, by the course of the Home Rule Commission. The situation may result in a conference of all the Corporation Counsels of the State, but this has not been definitely determined.

The confusion that has been caused in various cities by the Home Rule decision is typified by the situation in Jamestown, where a taxpayer's action was brought to oust Mayor Carlson and the City Council on the allegation that they were in office illegally. No municipal election took place in Jamestown last Fall and the same officials held over.

The reason for this was the special act which decreed that municipal elections should take place in the Fall of odd-numbered years. Attorney General Albert Ottinger gave an opinion in which he held that the officials were legally in office until the Fall of 1925, when their successors were to be elected. Under the Home Rule law, the officials have been in office illegally since 1923.

No information has come relative to what the Court of Appeals will do when it sits for one day next week. Court officials said that application for argument of the appeal might be made to Chief Judge Hiscock at Syracuse, in which case he would doubtless consult with the Associate Judges and he might not announce his decision until they come to Albany July 15.

BUILDING WAR CLOSER AS NEW PARLEY FAILS

CONTRACTORS LOSING HOPE

HUGE LOSSES ARE FEARED

Other Labor Organizations May Be Drawn Into Strife, Which Threatens Whole Industry.

The threatened building trade war, which would vitally affect the nation's four-billion-dollar building program of 1925-1926, appeared to be inevitable yesterday as the result of the bricklayers' union rejecting Secretary of Labor Davis's suggestion that it arbitrate its jurisdictional dispute with the plasterers' union.

Following receipt of the counter demand of the bricklayers from the conference of its officials in Washington, Otto M. Eidlitz, of Marc Eidlitz & Son, who has striven for months to bring the two sides together, went into a conference yesterday with building trades contractors in the rooms of the Building Trades Employers Association, 34 West Thirty-third Street.

At the same time Edward J. McGivern, President of the Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers International Association, and his officers met in another room and conferences began looking toward an agreement under which striking plasterers will return to work on $25,000,000 of operations. An agreement was near last night and it was announced that a final decision would be reached today and made public.

Separate negotiations between the building trades contractors and the plasterers were accepted as notice to the bricklayers that the employers were no longer hopeful of bringing the warring factions together and were determined to take what appeared to them to be the wisest step.

If a final decision is reached at today's meeting, and Chairman C. G. Norman of the employers' board of governors said it would be, the next move will be up to the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union.

Tremendous Losses Foreseen.

With the crafts in the building trades harried between the two unions and with the general contractors recognizing the right of the plasterers to the work, the dispute, unless halted at the eleventh hour, will, in the opinion of builders, lead to chaos and tremendous losses.

The first notice of a definite break between the general contractors and the bricklayers came last night when Mr. Norman, for the employers, announced that the reply of the bricklayers to the arbitration offer had been received.

"The bricklayers reiterated their proposal that the Operative Plasterers and Cement Finishers' International Association withdraw the charters which it had issued in bricklayers' territory since Jan. 1, 1923, and that the two executive boards get together and reaffirm the 1911 Florida agreement.

"Conferences were held today by contractors whose work is affected in an effort to try and arrange, by agreement, some way in which the plasterers could be returned to work. This matter will be further considered tomorrow, at which time a final decision will be arrived at."

Representatives of the Thompson-Starrett Company, the F. T. Ley Company, George A. Fuller Company and the Longacre Construction Company were among those at the employers' conference.

Say Existence Is Menaced.

The plasterers maintain that the very existence of their union as a separate entity is threatened by the bricklayers, whom they accuse of having adopted a resolution at their Saratoga convention in 1924 unanimously instructing the officers to spare no expense "to bring about an amalgamation of the plasterers' and bricklayers' organizations."

It is alleged by the plasterers that the carrying out of this resolution by the bricklayers was started when the building contracts of the country received notice that members of the bricklayers union would not lay brick, stone, marble or tile unless the plastering were done by members of their organization. This, the plasterers say, would result in driving the plasterers' union out of business if the employers acquiesced in the demand.

The bricklayers maintain that the stoppage of work by plasterers in New York City and elsewhere is caused by the attempt of the plasterers to club the contractors into agreement with the proposal that they refrain from giving work to sub-contractors who employ bricklayers to do plastering in Florida.

The arbitration proposal made by Secretary of Labor Davis on June 16 was that the dispute be referred to a board of arbitration of five members, two to be selected by each side and the fifth by President Coolidge or President William Green of the American Federation of Labor. The offer was accepted by President McGivern and rejected by the bricklayers' officials.

COMPEL TRIAL BOARD TO CALL UNION HEAD

Garment Body Officials, Tried as Reds, Charge Perlstein With Similar Activities.

Defendants among the seventy-seven officials of the three garment workers' unions on trial before a committee of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union on charges of "boring from within" compelled the trial board to summon Meyer Perlstein, a Vice President of the International, on similar charges yesterday. Perlstein has been active in pressing the charges against the defendants.

Perlstein, who was formerly manager of the joint board in Cleveland, will be heard today in his own defense. It is alleged that he obtained the support of Communists during a dressmakers' strike in Chicago.

According to the barges, Perlstein invited J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The Daily Worker, a Communist publication; Robert Minor, William F. Dunne and other Communists to address the strikers. Perlstein, it was alleged, also authorized the distribution of The Daily Worker among the strikers.

The charges were corroborated by Frieda Richer, a member of Local 22 and formerly member of a local union in Chicago. Louis Hyman, counsel for the defendants, placed before the trial committee a copy of Die Freiheit, a local Workers' Party newspaper, containing an advertisement of friendly greetings and wishes for the publication's sucess, bearing the name of Perlstein. The trial of the defendants may conlude today at the Hotel Yates.

The members of the three locals whose officials are on trial, 2, 9 and 22, have been invited to attend a mass meeting at the Yankee Stadium at 5:30 tonight. It was erroneously reported in THE TIMES yesterday that the meeting was scheduled for last night.

BOARDS MEET TODAY TO AID COMMUTERS

Jersey Transit Commission to Propose Interborough Service Under Hudson.

More than half the Jersey commuters travel to and from that part of Manhattan north of Chambers Street and more than 45 per cent. of them travel to and from points north of Twenty-third Street, Manhattan, according to A. W. Coffin, Secretary of the North Jersey Rapid Transit Commission.

Mr. Coffin said yesterday that details of a survey showing the destination of New Jersey commutation traffic would be presented at a conference of the New Jersey Commission and the New York State Commuters' Commission at the Bar Association this morning at 10 o'clock.

The New Jersey Rapid Transit Commission and the New York State Commuters' Commission are to have joint conference because they are confronted with the same problem—how to provide transportation for the suburban commuter—and they have decided to co-operate. Today's meeting will be their first. Senator J. Griswold Webb of Poughkeepsie will preside.

One of the most important proposals which the New Jersey representatives will place before the conference is a plan to have Interborough Rapid Transit trains run through tubes under the Hudson River to Jersey City. Back of Jersey City the North Jersey Transit Commission proposes to build a terminal at Bergen Hills to pick up the commuters when they are delivered by the steam railroads now serving the area in a twenty-mile radius from City Hall, Manhattan. That region includes Hackensack, Paterson, Montclair, the Oranges and Elizabeth. Passengers of the Pennsylvania, Erie and Jersey Central Railroads would be picked up by the New Jersey rapid transit system and delivered at the terminal at Bergen Hills.

Members of the New Jersey Commission believe the Interborough would find it profitable to haul the New Jersey commuters from Bergen Hills. They point out that carrying New Jersey commuters is one way the Interborough could fill all the empty trains it now runs north in the forenoon after delivering the downtown morning rush crowds, and vice versa, in the afternoon.

The North Jersey Transit Commission, in a preliminary report to the Legislature of New Jersey last January, showed that the problem of transportation was one affecting approximately 280,000 commuters.

THREE FALL TO DEATH.

Woman Drops From Roof — Child Falls From Window.

Mrs. Lillian Arnold, 31 years old, who is almost blind, fell yesterday from the roof of the tenement where she lived, at 30 West End Avenue, into an airshaft and was killed. Her body was found by neighbors, who told Mrs. Arnold's parents, with whom she lived. Her mother, Mrs. Jean Fletcher, who is also blind, and her father, Colin Fletcher, an invalid, told the police that they thought Mrs. Arnold went to the roof to escape the oppressive heat and walked into the airshaft. She was able to see a little with one eye, her mother said. Her two children, Bessie, 11, and Colin, 6, are at present in an orphanage, the grandparents said.

The police learned that the family of three had subsisted for a year on $300, the gift of a charitable organization.

Clifford Oliver, 2 years, climbed to the window sill of the front room of his home on the second floor of 951 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn, yesterday, fell to the street and was killed.

Injuries sustained a month ago in a fall down stairs in her home at 24 Parkview Avenue, Glendale, Queens, yesterday, proved fatal to Mrs. Marie Mette, 75 years old. She died in the Mary Immaculate Hospital at Jamaica of heart disease induced by internal injuries received in her fall.

Woman Jumps From Window.

Frances Wiltschak, 21 years old, of 66 Louisiana Avenue, Brooklyn, jumped yesterday afternoon from a window on the fifth floor of the building at West Thirty-sixth Street, where she was employed. She died last night at Bellevue Hospital. Before she jumped she had taken some iodine, according to the police, who found eight iodine bottles empty near a cot on which she had been resting. In her bag the police found a razor. Fellow-employes said that she had attempted suicide by gas at her home two daws ago but was saved by her family. She had complained of illness, they said.

Federal Brief Filed in Langley Case.

CINCINNATI, July 8 (AP).—Federal District Attorney Smith filed briefs in United States Circuit Court of Appeals here today in the case of Representative John W. Langley of Kentucky and Milton Lipschutz, Philadelphia. They were convicted in Federal District Court at Covington last year on the charge of violating the National Prohibition law, and were sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary at Atlanta. They took an appeal to the higher courts.

Enright's Auto Knocks Over a Motorcyclist; Victim in Hospital; Police Driver Exonerated

Police Commissioner Enright was returning in his automobile last evening from a luncheon at the North Jersey Country Club, near Paterson, when the car, operated by Detective Anthony T. Schuhose, knocked down a motorcyclist on the State Highway at Undercliff Avenue, Edgewater, N. J. The Commissioner was ahead of about ten friends in two other automobiles, including former Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo, when the accident happened.

The members of the Commissioner's party climbed out of their cars and went to the aid of the victim, Stanley Kowaltzyk, 40 years old, of 77 Broad Street, Ridgefield, N. J. Kowaltzyk was removed to Edgewater Police Headquarters, where he was attended by Dr. C. F. Buckley, the police surgeon of Edgewater. Kowaltzyk was cut and bruised, but his injuries are not serious. Later he was removed to the Englewood Hospital, Commissioner Enright and his party remaining at Police Headquarters for more than an hour, awaiting word of any unfavorable turn in the victim's condition.

The Commissioner and his friends were among 165 persons who gathered at the country club in the early afternoon for the luncheon which H. B. Hafner, owner and publisher of The Paterson Evening News, had tendered to Chief of Police John T. Tracey of Paterson. A. Harry Moore, Democratic nominee for Governor of New Jersey, was among the guests.

At 4 P. M. Commissioner Enright, with Mr. Waldo and several others in his car, started for this city toward the Dyckman Street ferry, closely followed by the other two cars.

The Enright car was coming down the hill on the State highway, and was within 500 feet of the ferryboat terminal when Kowaltzyk shot out of Undercliff Avenue. Detective Schuhose swerved the automobile sharply to avoid striking the motorcycle, but not enough to escape hitting it a glancing blow, sending the rider fifteen feet across the street. Investigation of the accident by the Edgewater police resulted in the detective being declared blameless.

HEAT WAVE BROKEN; 4 DEAD, 8 OVERCOME

Rain Relieved Sweltering City and Sent Thermometer to 71 at 5 P. M. Yesterday.

TWO KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Heavy Electrical Storms Fatal to Girl at Hammonton (N. J.) and to Man at Lynn (Mass.)

The heat wave was broken yesterday by cloudy skies and light rain in New York and by severe electrical storms in New England and New Jersey. A girl was killed by lightning in Hammonton, N. J., and a man lost his life in the same way in Medford, Mass. Four more deaths and eight more prostrations from the heat were reported in the metropolitan district early yesterday and late Tuesday night before the thermometer began to drop.

Those who died from the heat were:

JOHNSON, JOHN, 71, of 44 North Twelfth Street, Flushing, Queens.

BOCKUS, ANDREW, 42 years old, an employe of the United States Metals and Refining Company, Carteret, N. J.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the temperature in New York was 77 degrees, where it had hovered since midnight, but the humidity had risen to 83 degrees. The temperature went up to 78 at 10 o'clock, 79 at 1 o'clock, and 80 at noon. It then began to drop, going down to 71 at 5 P. M. The humidity, after rising to 85 at 10 A. M., dropped to 69 at noon, but rose again to 88 at 1 P. M., after which it dropped to 78 at 5 P. M. Rain shortly after noon made the afternoon more comfortable than the morning.

Margaret Valento, 10 years old, daughter of Angelo Valento of Philadelphia, was struck by lightning while picking berries on a farm in Hammonton, N. J. She was instantly killed, although several persons a few feet away escaped with shocks and bruises. Antonio Sontille, across the street from the girl, was knocked unconscious by the same bolt. A house in Hammonton was struck by lightning and burned down, and roads were torn up by lightning.

Arthur White of Lynn, a motorcyclist, was struck by lightning and killed under a tree in Medford, Mass., according to an Associated Press dispatch. The dispatch said that trolley cars, barns and other buildings were struck by lightning.

The Weather Bureau forecast for today in New York is fair and warmer, but moderate winds are expected to prevent another hot period such as Monday and Tuesday.

PAPAL NUNCIO QUITS PRAGUE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, July 8.—Since the sudden departure of the Papal Nuncio from Prague on Monday night, a rupture between Czechoslovakia and the Holy See has seemed likely.

The Czech Minister to the Vatican has been recalled in order to report to the Government. This appears to confirm reports that a break in diplomatic relations is imminent.

The strain in the relations began following the Czechoslovak Government's demonstrative participation in the commemoration of the 500th anniversary of the Protestant martyr, John Hus, and its just as manifest aloofness from the Catholic celebration in honor of St. Vencesiav, the patron saint of Bohemia.

Last Winter an open break was barely averted as when the Catholic Bishops issued a pastoral letter threatening excommunication to the supporters of "an atheistic and socialistic" Government. At the time matters were mended with difficulty.

The Hus commemoration this year was the first celebration of the new republican holiday, called Czechoslovak Nation Day. The Catholics were greatly annoyed over the hoisting of the Husaite flag over the Presidential Castle and the anti-Catholic demonstrations all over the country.

It is reported that the Vatican will demand a full apology. The Czechoslovak press is furious over the Vatican's attitude while the Catholic papers deplore the incident.

These events, however, were only the immediate occasions for irritation. A conflict between the Czechoslovak Government and the Vatican has been smoldering ever since the foundation of the Czech State.

Although the population of Czechoslovakia nominally is overwhelmingly Catholic, the Republican Government has been anti-Catholic from the outset, partly because the Republic was founded by a group of liberal free-thinkers and Protestants; partly because of the strong national tradition centring around the memory of the founder of continental Protestantism, John Hus, who was burned at the stake by Emperor Sigismund at Bale in 1425, and partly because the Catholic Church in Czechoslovakia had always been allied with the Hapsburg monarchy.

One of the first measures of the Republic was the seizure of Church property. The process of expropriation has been going on ever since, and Rome's discomfiture has been aggravated by the overt attempts of the Government to call into being a Czech National Church.

French Adopt 8-Hour Convention.

PARIS, July 8 (AP).—The French Chamber of Deputies today unanimously ratified the Washington eight-hour convention. It has been pending since 1919, when the powers agreed that it should be adopted within a year or eighteen months, to be in effect for ten years. The Minister of Labor, M. Durafour, urged approval as the best means of hastening German ratification.

INSIST MOTHER TOOK CANADAY BOY AWAY

Relatives Here Deny Press Report That She Is in San Antonio.

ENRIGHT LEADS THE HUNT

Orders All Exits From City Guarded —County Officials Told to Keep Watch.

Commissioner Enright was said to have taken personal charge yesterday of the search for 5-year-old Roscoe Canaday, who was taken from the lawn in front of his home at 7,008 Fleet Street, Forest Hills, Tuesday afternoon and hurried away in an automobile. His father Roscoe H. Canaday of the Canaday Dress Company, 116 West Thirty-second Street, Manhattan, is still convinced that the boy's mother, Mrs. Virginia Canaday of San Antonio, Texas, was one of the persons who enticed the lad into an automobile and sped away with him.

An Associated Press dispatch from San Antonio yesterday said that the boy's mother was at her home there and had declared that she had nothing to do with his disappearance. When this was read to members of the family they declared that it could not be true.

"Mrs. Margaret Canaday, the boy's grandmother, was sitting on the porch," a spokesman for the family said, "and recognized Mrs. Canaday. The boy also recognized his mother. Further than that, other persons, former neighbors of the family, who knew Mrs. Canaday, saw her with the boy the day he was taken away and recognized them both."

Within an hour of his disappearance Tuesday afternoon police and private detectives had been assigned to cover every possible exit from the city, State and county police, as well as the constables of every town and village on Long Island, were notified to watch for the two and received a complete description. Ferries from Long Island to the Connecticut shore were guarded and every measure for their apprehension taken.

Mr. Canaday and his mother conferred yesterday with Magistrate Harry Miller in Long Island City. It was said that Canaday directly charged his wife with taking the boy. During the conference friends of the family had been to Police Headquarters, where they learned that Commissioner Enright had assigned men to watch all the ferries, boats and railroad stations by which the woman might take the boy out of the city.

The police on Long Island and in the city were instructed to scrutinize carefully any private craft they might see, as it was thought that the kidnapper might try that method of getting away. Canaday, after leaving the Magistrate's chambers, accompanied detectives in the search and did not go to his office during the day.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 8.—P. B. Caldwell, father of Mrs. Roscoe Canaday, said tonight that his daughter had received nothing more than press dispatches concerning the reported kidnapping of her son in New York, Tuesday. The family here had received no answer to telegraphic inquiries.

Mrs. Canaday refused to come to the door when a reporter called at the Caldwell home.

Young Roscoe Jr. was kidnapped in San Antonio on April 16, and was later found in the custody of his father in New York.

Charges of kidnapping were filed here against the child's father. Extradition writs for Canaday to appear on the charges in San Antonio were issued but were contested in New York.

"My daughter is here with us now," Caldwell said, "and we expect to continue the fight to establish her claims to custody of the boy. We know absolutely nothing about the purported kidnapping Tuesday. When my daughter gets possession of the boy it will be through the courts."

SAINT-GAUDENS BACK FROM EUROPEAN TOUR

Announces 12 Nations Will Take Part in Pittsburgh Art Show, Coming Here Later.

Homer Saint-Gaudens, Director of Fine Arts of the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Olympic after spending four months in Europe collecting paintings for the twenty-fourth International Exhibition, which will open in Pittsburgh Oct. 15, and close Dec. 6. The European section will be shown later at the Grand Central Galleries here, the Art Club of Philadelphia and the City Art Museum of St. Louis.

"This will be the first year," said Mr. Saint-Gaudens yesterday, "that the entire foreign section will be shown intact in New York and other cities outside of Pittsburgh. It will also be the first exhibition since the beginning of the World War in that will include paintings from Germany and Austria. It will be the first Carnegie International since the great war that will have on the jury of award a European other than French or English.

"That juryman will be Anglada y Camarass, the Spanish painter, who will make his first visit to the United States. He will be accompanied by Ernest Laurent, a French artist of the impressionist school and member of the Institute. The third member of the jury will be Algernon Talmage, who represents the finest qualities of English landscape painting."

Mr. Saint-Gaudens added that the exhibition would be more comprehensive this year than heretofore, representing twelve European nations, each shown as a separate entity. The largest European section will be from England. The American section, Mr. Saint-Gaudens said, will consist of 130 paintings.

GOVERNOR MEETS DAUGHTER ON LINER

MRS. VANDERBILT ARRIVES

Miss Consuelo, Wearing 'Exclusive' Frock, Finds One Like It Here—Lady Decies a Passenger.

The White Star liner Olympic arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg fifteen hours late, owing to fog encountered almost all the way across, according to Captain William Marshall. C. B., R. N. R., master of the ship. There was fog from Southampton to Cherbourg, and solid fog from 6 A. M. to 6 P. M. Tuesday, when it was so thick, Captain Marshall said, that he could not distinguish the fo'c'sle deck from the bridge.

Among the passengers were Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and her daughter, Consuelo, who wore a yellow silk frock with a black hat. She was astonished when she saw one of her girl friends who greeted her at the foot of the gangway wearing a frock of exactly the same style as her own. Miss Vanderbilt turned to her mother and said: "Her frock is the same as mine, and they told me in Paris that mine was the only one of its kind." Mrs. Vanderbilt smiled and said that it could not be helped.

Mrs. Vanderbilt always takes great care in making out her declaration of articles purchased abroad for relatives and friends, and had three pages filled with their description. She told the Customs officials that there had been a fourth page, but that it had been lost on the ship. She could remember the articles listed on it, however, and declared them. The duty amounted to about $3,500.

Lord and Lady Decies were also passengers. Lady Decies was Miss Vivian Gould. It was their first visit to the United States for more than three years. When Lady Decies was informed by reporters of the end of the litigation over the Gould estates, she said, "that's wonderful." Her husband said there was no truth in the report that he had come over to look after Lady Decies's interest in the Gould litigation. "We had arranged to come here before the suit started and expect to remain only a week" he said. "I am going back to look after our young son who has just got his Summer holidays from school." Lady Decies was met at the pier by her brothers, Kingdon and Jay Gould. She said she intended to go on a fishing trip to the Adirondacks to get away from the hot weather in New York.

Governor Alfred E. Smith went down the bay in the Coast Guard cutter to Quarantine to meet his daughter, Miss Katherine Smith, who returned on the liner from a tour through France, Italy and Great Britain. The Governor sat on a campstool by the pilot house on the cutter with his coat off. The pilot of the Italian liner Giuseppi Verdi recognized him as the cutter passed and blew three blasts in salute, which were returned by the Government craft.

Miss Smith was accompanied by her girl friend who made the tour with her, and brought back 100 rosaries from Rome, which she said had been blessed by the Pope.

Miss Smith was asked if the Holy Father had asked after Governor Smith of New York. She laughed and said: "No, he did not. The Pope had never heard of my father until I had an audience with him."

The members of her party were the Misses Isabel Kelly, Virginia Butler, Bridget Keogh, Anna and Mary MacDonnell, Ethel Delahanty, Alice and Anna Maloney, Mary Lou Borden and Anna and Mary Topin. Among other ceremonies the party attended in Rome was the canonization of Sister Barat, the founder of the Order of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ogden Armour of Chicago and Ralph Pulitzer also were passengers. The liner brought 7,000 sacks of mail.

MORSES PLEAD NOT GUILTY.

Date of Trial on Mail-Fraud Charge Not Yet Set.

Erwin A., Benjamin W. and Harry F. Morse, who were indicted with their father, Charles W. Morse, and twenty others in April, 1922, on a charge of using the mails to defraud investors in the stock of the United States Steamship Company, appeared before Federal Judge Winslow yesterday and pleaded not guilty. Erwin was brought here from Washington, D. C., on removal proceedings, and the bail fixed in those proceedings was continued. The other two brothers were held in $3,000 each.

Arthur T. Warner, the special assistant to the Attorney General, who has charge of the prosecution, said he had no idea when the defendants would be placed on trial. He explained that the illness of Charles W. Morse had prevented the setting of a definite date. It was disclosed that the Government had a sealed report from a Government surgeon who had been directed to call upon Morse at his home in this city and make a thorough examination of his condition.

United States Attorney Buckner said that the Morses had been defying the Government for more than three years and that it was time severe methods were adopted to bring them to trial.

3 DIE, 2 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8.—Three men were instantly killed and two others slightly injured at 4:30 o'clock this morning when the automobile in which they were speeding on the main traffic highway near here skidded at a sharp turn and ran into a tree stump.

Bert Schoenberg, 34 years old, a steward on a Munson Line steamship, and two brothers, Vincent and Frank Santori, 32 and 24 years old, respectively, of 400 Manhattan Avenue, New York City, were thrown out on their heads and were dead when the driver of the car, Joseph Santori, a brother of two of the victims, and the fifth occupant of the car, Michael Loyola, of the Manhattan Avenue address, scrambled to their feet to aid them.

Joseph Santori and Loyola were attended later by local physicians for slight hurts. Santori then was arrested on a technical homicide charge by order of Dr. Amos O. Squire, County Medical Examiner, and released in $1,000 bail pending an inquest. The driver said another car, coming from the opposite direction, blinded him with its headlights, causing him to momentarily lose control of his automobile.

3 FIREMEN HURT IN CRASH.

Thrown From Engine When It Collides With a Truck.

Three firemen of Engine Company 21, at 216 East Fortieth Street, were injured last night when the engine, answering an alarm at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue, was in collision with a newspaper delivery truck at Fortieth Street and Lexington Avenue. The truck driven by Frederick Monaghan, of 164 Albertus Avenue, Corona, L. I., was overturned. The driver escaped injury.

The injured firemen, all of whom were knocked from the engine, were Lieutenant John Jaul of 441 East Seventy-fifth Street; John Dalley of 320 East Eightieth Street, and Frank Frederick of 397 Fifth Avenue, Astoria, Queens. They were taken to Bellevue Hospital and after being treated Dalley and Frederick were able to go to their homes. Dr. Squire said that Lieutenant Paul had suffered a possible fracture of the leg.

FERRYBOAT HITS ROCK; 67 PASSENGERS SAFE

With sixty-seven men, women and children who had been spending the day at Coney Island on board, in addition to a crew of twenty-two, the excursion ferryboat Pastime struck a rock near Norton's Point, late yesterday afternoon, and stove a hole in her plates.

Captain William Conovan at once ordered the pumps started and headed his boat at full speed for shore. The Pastime was berthed at a coal company dock in Gravesend Bay and the passengers put ashore. Later in the evening they were taken to Newark on the Observation, another boat of the same company operating the Pastime.

The Pastime is on a regular Newark-Coney Island run in the Summer and had landed about 150 passengers at the island, at Steeplechase Pier. Only sixty-seven passengers were aboard when the return trip to Newark began and the passengers were just beginning to make themselves comfortable when the boat struck the submerged rock. There was no excitement, few of the passengers realizing what happened until the boat was near the coal company dock.

Late last night a wrecking company had lighters and pumpers alongside the disabled boat, pumping her out preparatory to towing her to dry dock to determine the extent of the damage.

PRAISES SCIENTISTS ABROAD

Dr. Mayo Says Europe Is Ahead of America in Medical Research.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., returned yesterday on the White Star liner Olympic with several other American doctors and surgeons from Europe, where they went to attend a conference of the Interstate Medical Association and visit the principal clinics.

"The war has resulted in the establishment of great hospitals abroad," Dr. Mayo said. "The medical men of Europe are ahead of us in scientific research because of their methods, although it cannot be said that we are all backward over here.

"What is needed in the United States is a Minister of Education, such as every progressive European country has, who can supervise and coordinate all branches of education. We also need more concentration of effort in the study of medical science."

Asked for his opinion on the coming Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn., Dr. Mayo said:

"It is an unfortunate thing and yet not without its blessings. It is awakening public interest on the subject of evolution, which is fundamental in all forms of life. It will result, I hope, in a greater attention to this important subject and will give birth to widespread study of plant and animal life. Already the great sales of books dealing with the theory of evolution show an awakening of the public mind."

GIRL ACCUSES TAXI DRIVER.

Her Report That He Tried to Attack Her Leads to His Arrest.

Charged with attempting to attack Dagmar Ericson, 25, of Central Drive, Douglaston, L. I., after he had driven her in his taxicab to a lonely wooded spot outside of Flushing, Max Reimer, 36, of 210th Street and Rocky Hill Road, Bayside, Queens, employed as a driver by the Yellow Taxicab Company, was arrested by Detective David Daly of the Flushing Station yesterday. He will be arraigned this morning in the Flushing Police Court on charges of attempted assault, disorderly conduct and violating the motor vehicle law by giving a wrong address when he applied for a driver's license.

Miss Ericson said that shortly before noon she hired Reimer in Flushing to drive her to her home. He took her as far as the Broadway station in Flushing and there made insulting remarks, she said. After she had threatened to call a policeman, Reimer apologized, she said, and offered to take her to her destination without further annoyance. Instead, Miss Ericson claims, he drove her to the scene of the alleged attempted attack. She repulsed him and walked three miles across fields to Northern Boulevard, where she boarded a bus to Flushing, where she reported the affair to Detective Daly.

PUNCHES ANNOYER IN EYE.

Policewoman Then Drags Him From Movie Under Arrest.

Just as the feature film was being unreeled in Loew's State Theatre, at Forty-fifth Street and Broadway, last night Bernard Kushmer, 32 years old, of 273 Buffalo Avenue, entered and took a seat next to a woman in the rear of the auditorium.

Three minutes later the woman rose in her seat and punched Kushmer in the left eye. Then she dragged him from the theatre and took him to the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station. There she showed her police shield and told the Lieutenant she was Policewoman Sarah Bahr. Kushmer was booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

She said that as soon as Kushmer took his seat he commenced to annoy her, and when she asked him to desist he persisted. She later took Kushmer to Night Court.

PUTS ACID IN HIS EYES.

Victim Tells Police Wife Ordered Him Out of Home.

In a fit of despondency after a quarrel with his wife, James Yoenie, 23 years old, of 42 President Street, Brooklyn, threw acid into his eyes as he stood in front of his home yesterday afternoon. He was not seriously injured. He was taken to the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, where Dr. Bigelow gave him first aid treatment and sent him to an eye clinic.

Policeman Thomas Casey of the Hamilton Avenue Police Station, said that Yoenie told him his wife had ordered him from the house after charging him with being over friendly with another woman.

SMITH AND MILLER TO DEBATE TONIGHT

Opposition To and Defense Of $100,000,000 Bond Issue to Be Broadcast Over State.

BIG DEMAND FOR TICKETS

3,002 Are Divided Between Republicans and Democrats—Meeting to Start at 8 Sharp.

Madison Square Garden, from all accounts, could not hold all who have applied for tickets for the debate tonight at Carnegie Hall between Governor Smith and ex-Governor Nathan L. Miller on the Governor's proposal for a $100,000,000 bond issue.

Early yesterday evening every available ticket had been disposed of and applications were still coming in which could not even be considered.

John G. Agar and Representative Ogden L. Mills, representing respectively Governor Smith and ex-Governor Miller as managers of the debate, asked last night that the following announcement be made as a joint statement:

"The meeting at Carnegie Hall tomorrow evening will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock. Reserved seats will not be held any later than 8:15."

It was announced on behalf of the two managers also that the doors of Carnegie Hall would be closed to all holders of seats on the ground floor after the speechmaking had begun.

In all 3,002 tickets had been provided, of which 250 were for seats on the platform and 200 for standing room only. The tickets were divided equally between the Democrats and Republicans. On the Democratic side, Mrs. Henry Moskowitz and Public Service Commissioner George R. Van Namee jointly managed the distribution. Percy Mickiebacker, assistant to Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, distributed the tickets for Republicans.

It is probable that a million people or more will listen to the debate, for in addition to those attending the meeting a vast radio audience will "listen in" when the two statesmen join issue. The debate will be refered by another former Governor, Charles E. Hughes.

Governor George S. Silzer of New Jersey will occupy a box. Other boxholders will be George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall; John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings; Sheriff Edward J. Flynn, Borough President Maurice E. Connolly and David S. Rendt, Democratic leaders of Bronx, Queens and Richmond, respectively.

The boxes allotted to the Republicans will be occupied by the district leaders from Manhattan and some other Republicans less active but more prominent. Mr. Koenig will occupy one of the boxes.

It was learned that the Board of Managers and the "Boarders" at the Manhattan Club, after an informal dinner at the clubhouse, would proceed to the Carnegie Hall meeting in a body. Both Governor Smith and ex-Governor Miller are members of the Manhattan Club.

After the debate the Board of Managers will entertain the Governor at a supper, at which John Godfrey Saxe, President of the club, will be toastmaster.

15 CHILDREN HURT IN TRUCK

Special to The New York Times.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., July 8.—Fifteen children, returning this afternoon on a motor truck from a picnic of the Volunteers of America were thrown out of the vehicle when it skidded against a telegraph pole on Halstead Avenue and turned over. The accident occurred during a heavy rainstorm. Three of the children, George Hillman, 10 years old, of 114 Willett Avenue; Ellen Barth, 12 years old, of 104 William Street, and May Thornmaite, 14 years old, of Central Avenue, all of Port Chester, were removed in a critical condition to the United Hospital at Port Chester.

The other victims of the accident, including Miss Stillson, an adjutant in the Volunteers of America and Miss Montross, who were in charge of the party, were attended by local physicians for slight hurts and later went home. The motor truck was operated by Clarence M. Goodman of 14 Willow Avenue, Stamford, Conn. He said that he was hurrying to find shelter from the storm when one of the front wheels skidded on the cover of a manhole, causing the truck to slide across the street into the telegraph pole.

Adjutant Stillson, Miss Montross and the chauffeur, ignoring their hurts, worked among the struggling mass of children until they were able to extricate the more seriously injured and carry them to a nearby building.

wrapped in mist, and it was raining lightly when he reached his golf links with several friends from Tarrytown. He played with a Miss Warner of Connecticut. Instead of wearing a cumbersome raincoat he had one of his men on the place, an Italian, carry an umbrella over him as he traversed the course, driving with wonderful power for a man of his age and making excellent approaches.

But he did not try to make nine holes in 48, a feat he accomplished last Monday. According to his caddy, who was pointed out with pride yesterday after the game by his playmates at the railroad station as "Mr. Rockefeller's caddy," it was just a "sociable game."

The game of golf was finished before noon and the aged magnate was soon ready for his midday meal, which was in the nature of a dinner party, with relatives and a few friends as guests, outside of his son and daughter-in-law and their children. During the dinner Mr. Rockefeller cut a huge birthday cake and he enjoyed the fun as his grandchildren looked on.

Although the sun came out late in the afternoon, he did not venture from the house again. His supper was a simple meal and after glancing through the evening papers, he retired at an early hour.

According to those who were with him yesterday, Mr. Rockefeller's health is better this year than it has been for some years. They spoke of the pink glow in his face and his vivacious spirits, which lasted throughout the day.

In connection with his health and birthday celebration he authorized the statement that he was "well and full of cheer and unbounded gratitude for all the blessings of another year."

There was no diminution yesterday of the careful guarding of the Rockefeller estate. The watchman at the main entrance gate denied admission to all who did not bring the proper credentials and pass issued from his New York office, 26 Broadway.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. and his family left yesterday afternoon for Seal Harbor, Me., where they will spend July and August. They remained over until yesterday so they could attend the birthday celebration.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, July 9—If the night be oppressive, "snowy linen and inky worsted" need not weigh upon you like a reproachful conscience. There is the light-weight, skeleton-trimmed dinner suit worn with a white pleated-bosom shirt and without a waistcoat. At Casinos and country clubs, some men dine and dance in the dinner jacket with white flannel trousers. This practice, while perhaps not in the height of style, certainly looks appropriate and feels "comfy" in the height of the heat. Exclusive, but not expensive.

BRITAIN TO INSIST ON ORDER IN CHINA

With That Proviso She Will Agree to Conference Called by Coolidge.

STATUS TOLD IN COMMONS

By Wireless to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 8.—The ratification yesterday by France of the Washington Treaties will, it is recognized here, clear away many difficulties in the way of summoning an economic conference on China. The ratification will have to be deposited in Washington and then it will be up to the United States Government actually to summon the powers to the conference.

Of course Washington will sound the powers as to their views before sending formal invitations, and will find here every disposition to accept, provided there is a reasonable hope of the conference achieving a useful purpose. Manifestly, it is being said here, if China is not only in a state of chaos, but the Federal Government there continues to permit fulminations against the Western powers, Great Britain in particular, as foreign devils, and when some of its leading Generals openly attack foreigners, there will not be much good in holding a discussion on financial affairs.

Great Britain will hold that the Peking authorities should realise the real position of affairs and exert as much influence as they can to restrain their military leaders and to protect peaceful Western traders before agreeing to participate in a conference.

As to extra territoriality, the attitude of the powers is governed by the resolution adopted at the Washington conference in 1921, when it was resolved that a commission be established to inquire into the present practice of extraterritorial jurisdiction, with the view of assisting the Chinese Government to effect reforms which would warrant the powers in relinquishing their respective rights to extra territoriality.

Appointment of the commission was delayed at first upon the request of the Chinese Government itself and later owing to the disturbances in China.

In regard to the question of extraterritoriality a significant statement was made in the Commons by Mr. Chamberlain, who said he was aware that Germany, Austria and Russia have renounced their extraterritorial privileges in China, but that his Majesty's Government is not prepared to follow the example of these countries.

The Foreign Secretary also told Labor inquirers that a commission to examine the Shanghai situation had been appointed by representatives of the treaty powers. "Russia is not represented, he added amid disorder from the Labor benches, because she is not one of the treaty powers.

He also stated that the Diplomatic Corps in Peking is considering a joint reply to the fourteen points in the Chinese Government's recent note, and that he was not aware that the reply was delayed by conflict between the powers regarding the reasonableness of the Chinese demands.

Mr. Chamberlain also reassured Ponsonby, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs in the Labor Government, regarding the relations between England and Russia. No proposal for the severance of diplomatic relations are under consideration by the Cabinet, he declared, although the Government is retaining its liberty of action.

The United States, according to the diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, agree with Great Britain that the extraterritorial conference proposed by President Coolidge cannot take place until some sort of order is restored in China. The Telegraph says:

"Although no formal note on the subject has been presented to the European Governments concerned and to Japan, the American Government has by now expressed to all of them through the usual diplomatic channels, the hope that the extraterritorial conferences foreshadowed by the Washington Treaties shall take place when the present disorders in China have subsided.

"There is now no talk of summoning such a conference to meet at once."

A new rapprochement between Japan and Great Britain has been reached over the Chinese question, The Telegraph asserts. It says that when the apparent anti-foreign agitation in China, now being directed against Great Britain and Japan, broke out, "an important message was sent by London to Tokio. It met with almost immediate and wholehearted response, which epitomized the mutual satisfaction at a spontaneous revival of the proved and valued friendship and collaboration, without in any way prejudicing other British amities."

Other British amities undoubtedly means the United States, it is declared.

CANTON, July 8 (AP).—Continued anti-foreign agitation started an exodus of Canton business houses today to the British colony of Hongkong, ninety-five miles distant. The move was started when predictions were made that hostilities would last six months.

The new South China Government yesterday issued orders forbidding any one to accept foreign currency and it assumed control of the postoffice for censorship purposes.

Thousands of Chinese have abandoned their residences in Hongkong and are arriving here daily.

As a precautionary measure foreign gunboats are proceeding to waterway approaches of Canton to convoy ships carrying foreigners.

Strikers continue to receive foodstuffs and money from abroad. Many clerks, boys and other workers are anxious to be back at their old employments, but are prevented by Chinese strike leaders.

CANTON GOVERNOR WOUNDED

Assassin, Who Also Attacks War Minister, Is Killed by Guard.

CANTON, July 8 (AP).—Wu-Hon-Min, Civil Governor of Canton in the Government recently formed and Hsu Sung-Chi, Minister of War, in the same cabinet, are reported to have been wounded by an assassin, who was killed by their bodyguard.

The assassin, it is said, was recognized as an ex-officer.

SOVIET APPEALS TO FLEET.

By Wireless to The New York Times.

OSLO, July 8.—The Soviet, through its official organ here, the Norges Kommunistblad, has issued an appeal to British sailors in the British navy now in harbor here to refuse to go to China if ordered by their Government. It is printed in English and signed by the Communist League of Youth of Norway.

The appeal urges sailors to say to their Government, "Hands off China." Finally, the appeal predicts that Britain will soon expel the Russian Ambassador from London to prepare for war with Russia.

The sailors of the British navy are likewise asked to start an insurrection rather than fight Russia.

The afternoon papers call the appeal a flagrant abuse of international courtesy and say it may provoke an incident with the Russian Government.

HOHENZOLLERNS HOPE TO BE KAISERS AGAIN

UTRECHT, Holland, July 8 (AP).—Former King Frederick August of Saxony has left Doorn after a three-days' stay at the home of the ex-Kaiser.

William, wearing a uniform of the Prussian Guards at a gala dinner, is reported to have toasted his guest with the wish to see him re-established on the Saxon throne.

Frederick August responded that he hoped to see the ex-Kaiser again at the head of the empire.

POTSDAM, Germany, July 8 (AP).—The republic was forgotten and the Hohenzollerns were again kings for a day when the 100th anniversary of the founding of the non-commissioned officers' school here was celebrated yesterday with military pomp and the unveiling of a monument to the war dead.

Former Crown Prince Frederick William and his eldest son appeared in uniforms of the Guards regiment, and Prince Eitel Frederick in field gray.

Divine services on the parade grounds of the former Guards began the ceremonies, and the concluding feature was a parade before the representatives of the Hohenzollerns.

The fact that the former Crown Prince wore a uniform in public for the first time since his return to Germany occasioned much comment, as did the absence of the republican flag.

MACMILLAN AT HOPEDALE.

Explorer Expects to Leave Labrador Settlement Today for Greenland

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Donald MacMillan in the polar steamer Peary has arrived at Hopedale, an Eskimo village near the midway point of t he Labrador coast. Information from the ship is that the Peary will sail tomorrow for the Greenland coast.

MacMillan reports a fine voyage to Hopedale and tells of some fine trout and salmon fishing in the vicinity of the settlement. The Eskimos made a holiday of the unexpected call of the Peary and MacMillan entertained them aboard both the Peary and the Bowdoin. The Eskimos for the first time witnessed the marvels of radio communication and those on the Peary were permitted to send messages to other Eskimos who were on the Bowdoin.

The expedition is receiving the news every day from the States by radio. So far the wireless service has been practically perfect. It is possible at any time, day or night, to establish communication with the United States and Canada.

To date the expedition has experienced splendid weather.

FRANCE AND SPAIN SIGN BLOCKADE PLAN

Another Accord to Be Signed Today Will Help Further in Riffian War.

BUT OFFENSIVE GOES ON

Special Cable to The New York Times.

PARIS, July 8.—The anxiety in Government circles over the situation in Morocco was relieved to some extent tonight by news of the practical conclusion of the Franco-Spanish negotiations in Madrid with two agreements. One signed today provides for collaboration in a land blockade of the Riff frontiers and the other to be signed tomorrow provides for effective "political" collaboration between France and Spain in Morocco.

The convention which is to be signed tomorrow is regarded as the most important result of the conference. It is expected to contain terms on which the two powers will agree to make a peace offer to Abd-el-Krim.

M. Maivy, head of the French delegation to the conference, who arrives in Paris tomorrow, appears satisfied that the negotiations have been of use. It is understood, however, that no great headway has been made in the project for a combined military action, the conference practically deciding that each country should maintain a separate command and independent control of the operations in its own area.

According to Madrid reports the agreement signed today covers the necessities of joint surveillance by France and Spain of the Riff frontiers so as to prevent any movement of arms, munitions or food supplies into Abd-el-Krim's territories by land as well as sea.

In the meanwhile the news from the front has taken a less cheerful tone. The latest communiqués indicate that the French have decided to continue the evacuation of Taza. Moreover, the repulses of the last few days have not discouraged Abd-el-Krim from deciding upon another great offensive, the first effects of which are already being felt between Majara and Almalicha, where the Arab chieftain is evidently determined to absorb the tribes of that region which are withdrawing southward.

The general plan of the enemy appears to be now to assume a powerful offensive against Fez by the shortest routes from north to south. The French are making decisive efforts to push north of Ouergha the rebel tribes which have infiltrated into the regions between Kalaa-Des-Sless and Ain Aicha. This sector, according to the communiqué, is still in danger.

The French are succeeding in holding the ground recovered in the past few days and the forces of Abd-el-Krim north of the line Bab-Moroudj-Boumhiris and Sidi-Bellck are at present showing great signs of activity.

To the north of Ouezzan fighting is less lively. The enemy has not thus far taken advantage of the retirement of the French from strategic reasons from Zaidour, Oloul Allal and Bricks.

It was reported late tonight that the combined Franco-Spanish peace offers to Abd-el-Krim would include recognition of the independence of the Riff territory (this meaning the Spanish Riff and not including the line of the Ouergha River). Abd-el-Krim would be obliged to pledge recognition of the supreme authority of the Sultan and would govern the Riff as the Sultan's mandatory. Spain would retain the Riff posts already held and small sections of the hinterland.

In the blockade conversations regarding the Tangier question Spain is reported to have proposed the establishment of observation posts at determined points, but this question must be taken up with Britain, because of the international status of Tangier. The whole matter is regarded as unsatisfactory by the French, who hoped for active Spanish collaboration.

Debate on New War Grant Delayed.

PARIS, July 8 (AP).—The renewal of the Communists' attacks on the Moroccan warfare, promised for today, was postponed until tomorrow because the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies did not approve until this evening Premier Painlevé's bill for an additional 183,000,000 francs to continue operations. Previous appropriations, amounting to 95,000,000 francs, have been expended.

The Government is assured of a big majority on the bill, but it presents a problem for the Socialists, who indicated tonight that most of them would abstain from voting.

The Communist interpellation in the Chamber is expected to bring before the Deputies the plans for Franco-Spanish cooperation, which have been arranged by representatives of the two countries at Madrid.

10,000 in New Riffian Drive.

FEZ, July 8 (AP).—Today's French official communiqué says that 10,000 Abd-el-Krim's Riffians and tribesmen, hostile to the French, are pressing forward along the Guergha River and seem determined to strike south for Fez.

Some of the tribes are falling back before the advance of Abd-el-Krim's forces. His leaders are attempting to turn all the tribes against the French.

The communiqué says that this Riffian offensive is menacing to one sector and that the tribes around Taza are being influenced by it. It adds that recent French successes constitute a good counter-influence.

Rumania to Export Oil.

BUCHAREST, July 8 (AP).—The Cabinet has finally agreed to permit Rumanian refineries to export fuel oil, the export tax being provisionally fixed at the equivalent of $5 a metric ton. Stocks of fuel oil on hand at present approximate 250,000 tons, having increased nearly 200,000 tons during the last year. The Ministerial decision states that an increase in domestic prices of fuel oil must not result from the removal of the export ban.

BERLIN BOERSE QUITS OVER BOND VALUES

Leopold Zimmermann of Zimmermann & Forshay, 170 Broadway, in commenting upon the closing of the Berlin Boerse because of the Reichstag Revaluation Committee's report, said that the unexpectedly low figure of 2½ per cent. allowed by the committee to holders of mark bonds since July 1, 1920, was "2½ per cent. of nothing."

Mr. Zimmermann is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the recently formed American Association of German Mark Security Holders, which has protested against the 5 per cent. revaluation proposal of the German Government on the ground that the proposal was a mere subterfuge to enable Germany to escape from her pre-war, wartime and post-war mark obligations.

German dollar securities, such as the 7 per cent. external bonds floated by J. P. Morgan and other bankers here within the past year, were steady yesterday around 97 and 98¾. None of the dollar bonds showed any effect of the conditions at Berlin.

However, the German war loan 5 per cent. bonds, which traded as high as $3,000 or more per million marks last year prior to the 5 per cent. revaluation proposal, declined yesterday from $950 per million marks to $800, or 10 per cent. on the news from Berlin and Amsterdam.

The recent issue of $15,000,000 City of Berlin bonds floated here was apathetically received, due, it is believed, to the opposition of a large number of the German security dealers to the Government's revaluation measures.

German municipal issues were not affected, since the municipalities which brought out the mark securities exercise their own rights in readjusting the value of such issues.

A point made yesterday was that both the Government and the German municipalities had taken advantage of the depreciated mark bond situation to repurchase as many of their outstanding mark securities as possible in order that, when revaluation finally came, there would be little expense entailed in the process.

FOR 4 BRITISH CRUISERS.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 8.—The building of four new cruisers is recommended by the subcommittee of the Cabinet which has been considering the Admiralty's demand for additional naval protection. The Admiralty asked for six cruisers of 10,000 tons, but as the two cruisers which Australia will build are considered to have a bearing on Britain's naval strength, only four are likely to be sanctioned. Their construction will be spread over several years.

Stout opposition to the full naval building program was offered by the British Treasury, and a crisis once appeared possible, but the Treasury apparently has given way.

BRYAN THREATENS NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

whole being was synchronized into a graceful machine for driving home his word, and the chief counsel for the defense, Dr. John R. Neal, seated directly opposite Mr. Bryan at the side of John T. Scopes, listened with intense concentration to what he said.

Mr. Bryan has shown in every possible way since he came to Dayton, in his talks with the people he has met, in his every action and gesture, that he believed he is making the greatest fight of his life. He has worked for two months on the speech which he is to make in the Scopes trial, probably in summing up. It will undoubtedly be his greatest oratorical effort since his famous "Cross of Gold" speech, which lifted him from obscurity and made him a Presidential candidate for the first time. The little red brick court house, hidden behind the trees in Dayton, will be the scene of what he firmly believes to be the crowning achievement of his career. To Mr. Bryan this is a fight for God against the creatures of darkness.

Mr. Bryan's speech made such a profound impression upon Dr. Neal and those associated with him in the defense that he issued a statement today in reply to it.

"We regard Mr. Bryan's speech last night the most remarkable utterance ever made by a lawyer just before his entrance into a trial of a criminal case," said Dr. Neal. "His speech comes as a challenge to the defense not to confine the test of the anti-evolution law to the existing limitations of the Constitution of Tennessee, or even the United States, but instead to put on trial the truth or lack of truth of the theory of evolution; the conflict or lack of conflict between science and religion, having demonstrated, as he apparently expects to do, at least to his own satisfaction, that evolution is untrue and that it is destructive to Christianity.

Calls Bryan's Pleas Ambitious.

"The forecast that he will move rapidly from the lower courts, then to the Supreme Court of Tennessee, then to the Supreme Court of the United States, and, having lost his fight on account of the existing constitutional guarantee of religious and educational liberties, he intends immediately to wipe out these constitutional immunities by a new constitutional amendment, is a very ambitious program, I should say, even for Mr. Bryan.

"We have no objection to his undertaking it, but, however, we shall insist as we did at the very inception of this case that the great issue in this case is not whether evolution is true or untrue, or even whether it conflicts with religion, but whether the Tennessee Legislature has not transcended the limits set upon its powers by the Constitution of Tennessee and the Constitution of the United States in passing the anti-evolution law and thus attempting to control the mind in its struggle after truth."

The people of Dayton almost to a man look upon Mr. Bryan as their champion against the hosts of evil. They listened to his address with rapt attention and pronounced it an unanswerable argument. The town is stirring today with excitement of coming events, for the trial is only one day off. Celebrities are beginning to flock into the city and every spare bit of street front on the way to the Court House is being crowded with soda and hot dog stands. At one of them an old-fashioned bar, resurrected from some forgotten scene of former conviviality, was being installed, and one man aroused the amusement of the crowd by stopping before it and removing his hat.

The windows are covered with signs that reflect the atmosphere of the case. "Shall we be taxed to damn our children?" is one of them and reflects the intense feeling which has been aroused by this case. "Hell and the high school, God or gorilla," are the titles of some of the pamphlets which grace the book stands, and it is an even bet that never before in the history of Dayton has so much promiscuous literature been on display. Whether any one buys it is doubtful.

Townspeople are Puzzled.

The townspeople, however, seem, at times, a little puzzled as to what it is all about. Nobody paid any attention to the anti-evolution law or the fact that evolution was being taught until Scopes was arrested. He taught several weeks after the law was signed. Not a newspaper in Tennessee printed the passage of the law on the front page, and it was many weeks before any one thought the law was of more than local interest. Now that the flood has descended upon them, Dayton folk feel that something momentous is in the air, and that Mr. Bryan is the champion of God, but that about ends their mental reaction. For the rest they are as excited as the small boy at the circus and Dayton has all the atmosphere of a circus town.

Judge John A. Raulston, who is to preside at the trial, arrived with Mrs. Raulston. They motored from Winchester, their home, and got in just before a violent thunderstorm, which crashed about as the Judge talked.

Judge Raulston is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and a few months ago preached at a union revival in Dayton.

Raulston said he had received many letters from people offering him advice on how to run the trial.

Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone of counsel for the defense arrive tomorrow and on the same train will come William Jennings Bryan Jr. to assist his father in prosecuting Scopes. Bainbridge Colby, while he has wired to Dr. Neal that he could not be present because the New York City Home Rule case will detail him there is still of counsel for the defense and will undoubtedly take part in the appeal, if there is one.

Bryan Meets Scopes's Father.

Scopes's father came to Dayton today to be present during his son's trial. He is a liberal Christian who believes there is no conflict between religion and science.

Mr. Scopes the elder is 65 years old, a railroad machinist, who was born in London, England. There is a marked similarity in appearance between father and son. He does not believe in dogmas and creeds, but said:

"I believe I'm a better Christian than the professional Christian. Their Christianity is all a sort of dollar and cents Christianity dealing with Heaven and hell. I don't know anything about Heaven and hell. But I do believe what Christ taught—that God is love and love is God. That's how I try to live."

He is very proud of his son, and said it "looks as if he had set the world upside down."

"If he were a boy in school, would you object to having him taught evolution?" he was asked.

"Not if it were the truth," he said. "That's what makes me dislike Bryan. I can't think that any man who's read as much as he has can believe the things he says."

Just at this moment Mr. Bryan walked out from behind a counter in the drug store where Mr. Scopes was talking rather loudly. Young Scopes looked up, sensed the situation, and went over to Mr. Bryan saying:

"I want you to meet my father."

"So you are Mr. Scopes's father?" said Mr. Bryan. "I am very glad to meet you."

Mencken Studies the Natives.

H. L. Mencken, to whom all things Southern are subjects for ridicule, who in his magazine takes particular delight in poking fun at the South and its ways, dropped into town today. He went up and down the street, buttonholing the natives and asking questions which were answered with unfailing courtesy. To his surprise they knew all about him.

"Why, Mr. Mencken, we are mighty glad to meet you," they told him. "We have heard of you and read your magazine."

But the crowning blow was when F. E. Robinson, who runs the drug store, "where it all started," rushed up to Mencken and introduced himself.

"Mr. Mencken, I heard you were here and wanted to meet you," he exclaimed. "I have lots of magazines in my home, but yours is the only one of which I take home two copies. My wife and I each have to have one because we can't wait until the other has finished it."

Mr. Mencken left town a short time later, to spend the night in Chattanooga, but promised to return tomorrow.

Dayton never expected to hold the horde of people who have crowded into it, demanding food and shelter, and there has been some difficulty in finding room for them all. But the unfailing courtesy and hospitality of the people of the little town have more than made up for any deficiencies in equipment. W. W. Morgan, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, has found a place for every one to sleep and eat, and there are dozens of quiet homes which have been thrown open to people who click at typewriters or fuss with cameras and plates and to those who have other connections with this famous case.

One Boston Yankee looking for a room was introduced by Mr. Morgan to a man who was willing to take him in. The man fished into his pocket, took out the key and gave it to the Yankee.

"There's the key, the house is yours," he said.

That is the sort of treatment everybody has had from the Fundamentalists of Dayton, who delight in showing courtesy to people from the North.

Dr. Neal's Hunt for a Judge.

Now that it is all over the midnight chase of Dr. Neal to find a Federal Judge who would listen to him for five minutes on the Scopes trial may be told. Dr. Neal and young Scopes spent two days trying to dodge reporters and find a Judge who was not afraid to listen to them.

When the injunction proceedings were determined upon Dr. Neal realized that he would have to move fast to catch his Judge. He tried to keep his movements as secret as possible and got into Nashville just two hours before Judge Xen Hicks was scheduled to leave by another train.

Somehow the Judge also determined upon rapid movement, so he sent his bags to a station some distance from Nashville, slipped out of town in an automobile, and caught the train up the line, leaving Dr. Neal full of arguments and with no place to drop them. That was on a Friday night, so the Judge went to Knoxville on his way to Cookeville, where Federal Judge John Gore was spending his vacation fishing. He got to Knoxville too late to do anything Saturday, and put up at a hotel. Here the reporters caught up with him, and Dr. Neal felt the game was up. He had mental pictures of himself advancing up the streets of Cookeville at the head of a procession and Judge Gore retiring to a mountain top. So he invited all the reporters to breakfast Monday morning, and after ordering an elaborate meal, excused himself for a moment, got into an automobile and vanished over the mountain roads to Cookeville.

It was sometime before they discovered his ruse, but all he wanted was half an hour's start, which would give him a few minutes alone with Judge Gore.

In the meantime young Scopes had been told to start for Cookeville in a hurry, and he got behind the wheel of his flivver and started over roads that only a mountain goat or his brand of car could negotiate. He left all the reporters behind by enough margin to have some time alone with Dr. Neal and Judge Gore, and then started back for Dayton. He drove all night, down hills that were almost impassable, over fields, when he lost the road, around rocks, doing everything but hurdling fences. The reporters cars all broke down, and five of them slept on a mountainside, but Scopes got to Dayton.

That was the reason why during Mr. Bryan's questioning of prospective jurors at the dinner of the Dayton Progressive Club young Mr. Scopes kept nodding. Mr. Bryan's enthusiasm passed him by even when he jocularly mentioned that capital punishment was not to be inflicted in this case, and left out the word "unfortunately," and Dr. Neal laughed and rubbed Mr. Scopes sunburned neck.

"I was so tired, I didn't hear him," drawled Mr. Scopes.

Scopes was, however, much interested in Mr. Bryan's dinner. The Commoner has always been a valiant trencherman, as his bulk might testify, but just now he is on a diet. He has stopped eating white bread because it contains starch. But he ate potatoes and corn, and put lots of sugar in his tea, and Mr. Scopes, with his modern knowledge of science, was much interested.

"Why, he didn't know that there is three times as much starch in potatoes as in bread," he exclaimed.

MALONE AND HAYS START.

Dr. Potter Also Leaves for the Scopes Trial in Tennessee.

Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hays, who form part of the defence's legal forces in the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn., left for that place from the Pennsylvania Station yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Charles Francis Potter of the West Side Unitarian Church, who styles himself "a Champion of Evolution," also left on the same train for the same destination. Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, of senior counsel for Scopes, did not go along. Earlier in the day it became known that Mr. Colby had withdrawn from the case, giving as his reason the fact that the decision of the Appellate Division making void the Home Rule amendment would compel him to remain here for some time.

Only a small crowd gathered in the Pennsylvania Station waiting room to see the lawyers depart for the scene of the evolution trial, and these were attracted because camera men had backed Mr. Malone and Mr. Hays to a well-lighted corner of the room and were rapidly "shooting" them.

"This is going to be a much more serious affair than most people realize," said Mr. Malone as he seized his luggage and started for the train. "It is going to settle a whole lot of things."

COLBY EXPLAINS WITHDRAWAL

Mr. Colby's telegram follows:

I am sending tonight the following telegram to Mr. Neal:

"I regret to advise you that I cannot be present at the trial of Mr. Scopes in Dayton. Antedating responsibilities have been brought forcibly upon me by a decision rendered today by our intermediate Appellate Court in a case in which I am one of the counsel for the City of New York, declaring invalid an amendment recently adopted to our State Constitution providing home rule for the city.

"It brings into question an extensive amount of municipal legislation based upon the amendment and a very confused and critical situation has arisen involving the closest study and requiring numerous and immediate conferences with city officials and others. You know my views thoroughly as to the conduct of the Scopes trial and what I deem to be involved in the case and what I am equally positive is not involved and the few and simple points which are presented by the constitutional aspect of the case, which in the last analysis must prove decisive.

"I am grateful to feel that the interests of the defendant are amply protected by the strong array of counsel who will be present at the trial. I assure you of my deep regret that I find myself in this situation and also of my entire willingness to render any assistance in my power for which you may call upon me at any stage of the case. With best wishes,

"BAINBRIDGE COLBY."

SCHOOL SEEKS SCOPES'S SISTER

Tarrytown Institution Offers a Position to Ousted Teacher.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 8 (AP).—Offer of a position to teach mathematics and possibly some science at Highland Manor, an exclusive country boarding school for girls at Tarrytown, N. Y., was received today by Miss Lela W. Scopes, University of Kentucky graduate. She failed to get her former position in the Paducah, Ky., public schools because she would not renounce her belief in the evolutionary theory held by her brother, John T. Scopes of Dayton, Tenn.

The position offered would be a resident one, paying about $1,000 in addition to maintenance, according to the telegram received by Miss Scopes, who said that she was interested in the offer and had so telegraphed to the school authorities.

PRESBYTERIANS ASK AID FOR THE BUDGET

Council Announces Plans to Avert a Financial Crisis in the Church.

A BUSINESS BODY NAMED

Director Says Only $9,722,529 of the Projected $15,000,000 Came in Last Year.

Plans to avert what was characterized as a financial crisis in the affairs of the Presbyterian Church were announced yesterday from the offices of the Presbyterian General Council's Committee on Program and Field Activities, 156 Fifth Avenue.

The Rev. James G. Bailey, field director, said that in the last fiscal year the Presbyterian Church had given only $9,722,529 of its projected budget of $15,000,000. This was a decrease of $699,000 from the year before. Two of the boards were left with deficits of more than $700,000. From the old Interchurch debt there remains $390,200 to be paid, and with the old New Era debt of $148,000 the total indebtedness of the Presbyterian Church is $1,240,000.

To meet the situation an appeal will be made to all members of the Church to "lift the level" for 1925-26 to at least $12,000,000. A committee of five business men has been appointed by the General Council and the Assembly to consider the problem of the debts and deficits of the boards. The committee members are J. Willison Smith, George S. Barber, Ralph W. Harbison, J. J. Ross and S. Frank Shattuck.

"The Board of Christian Education," Mr. Bailey's statement says, "which incurred a deficit of $252,000 last year, is facing the necessity of discontinuing important lines of work and will still be obliged to raise the amount of its debt over and above the receipts of last year. Likewise, the Board of National Missions must curtail its work and still raise a larger sum than last year to prevent further deficit.

"The Board of Foreign Missions, while incurring no debt this past year, actually retreated in its work. Eighty-five missionaries were lost last year by death, resignation and retirement, and only seventy-four have been commissioned to fill their places. More than $700,000 worth of building operations, including homes for missionaries, which were in the operating budget, were not realized because the board did not receive the amount of its budget as voted by the General Assembly.

"Even the Board of Ministerial Relief and Sustentation, while it made a gain over the preceding year, fell far short of its allotted budget and was obliged to cut its appropriation far below the standard authorized by the General Assembly.

"It is apparent the Church does not seriously face the realities in the $15,000,000 budget, which is in amount less than the actual askings of the boards as presented to the Budget and Finance Committee of the General Council."

FINDS CHURCHMEN INACTIVE.

Episcopal Board Asks Clergy to Arouse Laymen.

Laymen of the Episcopal Church are censured for lack of interest in church work in a report by the Commission on Increased Lay Activities, whose conclusions were made public here yesterday.

The report finds indifference on the part of the laity to be a nation-wide evil and appeals to the clergy to organize and inspire the laity in order to bring about a more effective discharge of their religious obligations.

Burton Mansfield of New Haven, Conn., one of the authors of the report, said over the telephone from that city last night that the report did not specially relate to New York City or any other section.

"We had a general condition under discussion," he said. Regarding New York City, he said that he understood that the laymen of the Episcopal Church had manifested commendable zeal in the matter of raising funds to build the cathedral.

The other signers of the report are John Stewart Bryan of Richmond, Va.; Irs W. Stratton, former Mayor of Reading, Pa., and Willard Warner of Chattanooga, Tenn.. The report will be submitted to the Triennial General Episcopal Convention, which meets at New Orleans from Oct. 7 to 23 of this year.

"The adequate solution of the problem of maintaining and increasing the active and effective interest of the laity in the work of the Church is essential to the continuance of the life of the Church itself," the report says.

"No Church, not even though it were the admitted repository of the pure faith once delivered to the saints, can perpetuate itself beyond a single generation except by the accession of new members. No liturgy, no matter how satisfying its expression and no matter how compelling its appeal, can purify the minds and lift up the hearts of those who never hear its words. No discipline, no matter how sound it may be in psychology nor how powerful it may be in practice, can mold the lives and strengthen the souls of those who do not come under its influence.

"Without the enlistment of the active enthusiasm, without the release of the spiritual zeal and without the employment of the missionary impulses of the laity, the Church must inexorably live a maimed and halting life."

HURLED FROM FAST AUTO.

Man Found Unconscious Where Car Made Turn—Driver Arrested.

Detective Levine of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station was walking through Thirty-first Street last night when he saw a man hurled out of an automobile at Fourth Avenue. The motorist continued up the avenue to Thirty-third Street and Madison Avenue, where he was caught by the detective.

Levine took his prisoner back to the Thirty-first Street corner. He found the man there unconscious and took him to Bellevue Hospital. There the detective learned that the man, Edward Cassidy, 35 years old, of 351 Eighth Avenue, had a fracture of the skull. The prisoner said he was Fred Savage, 30 years old, of 247 East Seventy-seventh Street. The detective said that Cassidy was thrown out of the automobile when Savage took a short turn at high speed into Fourth Avenue. He charged Savage with reckless driving.

AIDS OLD THEATRE FUND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 8.—The Carnegie Trust has offered £14,200 to the fund to restore the historic Sadler's Wells Theatre as a home for Shakespearean plays in North London. The scheme is being developed on a national basis and altogether £60,000 is required.

Sadler's Wells Theatre opened in 1765 and was conspicuous in English stage history of the nineteenth century. It was greatly beloved by Charles Dickens. The theatre was named for Mr. Sadler, who built the orchestra in 1683 to entertain invalids who used the local waters medicinally. The orchestra, afterward was enclosed and the building used for dramatic performances.

Delegates of 12 Prison Societies Finish Three-Year Survey of State Penal Institutions.

FAVOR FARMS AND CLINICS

Would Classify Inmates on Needs Rather Than Offenses—Parole System Is Attacked.

Seventy-five per cent. of the prisoners confined in the county jails and penitentiaries of New York State are suffering from mental and physical disabilities and disorders that are fundamental factors in their careers of social failures and crimes, according to a three-year survey which has been completed recently by a joint committee, of which former Attorney General George W. Wickersham is Chairman, representing twelve bodies interested in prison reform.

The report, copies of which are being sent to Governor Smith and the Legislature, is based on a study of thirty-four penal institutions outside New York City. Besides criticism of the present penal systems of the State, it offers a number of constructive suggestions for changes. The committee proposes that county jails be replaced by farms, clinics and other institutions at which it will be possible properly to classify and handle offenders, basing this classification upon their needs rather than on the offenses for which they have been convicted.

A prisoner placed on parole and even at the conclusion of his parole is a convalescent, the report says in its summary. Suitable employment should be found for him and skilled and understanding supervision on the part of a psychiatric social worker should be maintained for a time after his return to the community.

In great measure, according to the findings of the committee, the institutions are handling the same material over and over again, locking up and turning out the same individuals.

The indeterminate sentence and definite sentence and the parole system, which has been an object of especial study by the Prison Association of New York, one of the organizations engaged in the study, are severely criticised. The report says:

"It is hardly intelligent for a Judge who knows nothing of a prisoner (the chances being three to one that he is feeble, psychoneurotic with mental disease or a pathological personality) except that he is guilty of a certain offense to prognosticate that by an incarceration for three months or six months the prisoner will have been sufficiently punished to have 'learned his lesson' or in some miraculous way in the process of sitting idly about for a similar period he will have been sufficiently 'reformed' to wish to live a socially acceptable life."

Many of those imprisoned enter upon life seriously handicapped, and this handicap has been increased, the report says, by the treatment they have received from home, school, church and court to an "almost impossible degree."

"Each presents a problem peculiar to himself. Some are proper patients for hospitals for mental disease. Some would profit by vocational training if the training were properly devised. In most cases, probably the chief hope of success lies in a combination of psychiatric and social treatment."

TWO POLICEMEN CLEARED.

Extortion Case in Bergenfield Fails —A Lawyer Gets No Apology.

Most of the 600 men and women who crowded the Borough Hall at Bergenfield, N. J., last night for the trial of Policemen William Keidel and Robert Knenbel on an extortion charged urged Mayor George Warren to "stand pat" when he refused to recognize the demand of the policemen's lawyer that Miss Justa Bennett, one of two complainants, apologize for saying the attorney was "a very small part of a gentleman." The crowd cheered when the policemen were declared not guilty and reinstated.

Joseph H. Gaudielle, the lawyer, had asked the girl a question which she called "extremely offensive." Then came the remark for which Mr. Gaudielle demanded an apology. Mayor Warren, who presided ignored the lawyer's demand and Mr. Gaudielle said it was the Mayor's duty to comply. Mayor Warren retorted: "You go along with your defense. I'll not be bluffed by you into compliance." Cheers greeted this announcement.

Miss Bennett and Matthew E. Jones, a graduate of Darthmouth College, of 626 Lancaster Avenue, Syracuse, testified that they were seated in an automobile in Ivy Lane, near the main highway on the evening of June 24, waiting for friends in another car, when the policemen drew up in an automobile and got $5 from Mr. Jones under threat of arrest.

The policemen denied that they had demanded or received the money.

CRIMINALS FLEE ROUND-UP.

Exodus Begins as Police Sweep City to Stop Hold-Ups.

An exodus of known criminals from the city was reported yesterday by the police as the result of an order issued several days ago by Deputy Chief Inspector Thomas M. Fay to detective captains to make wholesale arrests to put an end to hold-ups, burglaries and crimes of violence. Five suspects were arrested in the late afternoon, however, four of them being corralled by Detectives Donnelly and McDonough of the West 100th Street Station and a uniformed policeman arresting another in the east side subway station at Brooklyn Bridge after he had become suspicious of the man's actions in the rush of evening homegoers.

Eight suspects arrested by detectives on Tuesday were held without bail for examination Friday by Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday. Seven others arraigned before Magistrate Appleton in the Tombs Court were discharged.

Woman Takes Poison in a Theatre.

Mrs. Marie Bridando, 24 years old, of 125 Taylor Street, Brooklyn, swallowed carbolic acid last night while attending a performance at the Marcy Theatre, 302 Broadway, Brooklyn, according to the police. Her subsequent screams caused some confusion in the darkened auditorium. The woman was removed to St. Catherine's Hospital. Her condition is not serious. She refused to make any statement to either police or hospital officials.

"Don't wear your heart on your sleeve" is one of the oldest of admonitions, but nothing is said about wearing your favorite polo player over your heart.

In fact, it's quite all right and the very smart thing to do, especially when the polo player adorns so chic a sport jersey as the "Polo Pullover".

The "Polo Pullover" is the newest of summer jerseys, exclusively created by Peck & Peck. It may be had in a wide range of colors, including white, natural, Copenhagen blue, Nile green, coral, pink, fuchsia, cocoa, henna and yellow.

DRIVE PUTS PADLOCK ON 'DINTY' MOORE'S

Restaurant Is Shut for 2 Weeks With Court Jurisdiction for 6 Months.

15 INDICTED, 4 ACQUITTED

Raid on Raven Club Puts Owners Under Conspiracy Charge by New System, Says Buckner.

The mid-Summer harvesting of violators of the prohibition law yielded yesterday one padlock and the indictment of fifteen offenders, besides the acquittal of four others.

The padlock was placed on the restaurant at 216 West Forty-fifth Street, operated by William Moore and his mother, Annie Moore, and popularly known as Dinty Moore's. The padlock is to remain for two weeks by order of Federal Judge Winslow, who also directed that jurisdiction be retained by the Court for six months, and issued a restraining order preventing these two and several other defendants from selling liquor in this district for the rest of their lives. If any one of the defendants offend again, they will have a padlock placed on their business for a year, and will be in contempt of court and liable to a year's imprisonment without a jury trial.

Federal Prosecutor F. C. Bellinger proved that prohibition agents had found ten half barrels of beer in the cellar of the restaurant which contained 4.10 per cent. of alcohol. He also proved that a policeman and a policewoman, on June 12, had ordered Scotch whisky in the place and had their order filled.

The indictment naming fifteen defendants had been handed down about a week ago and had remained sealed until yesterday. One of the defendants was Walter T. Wieder, President of the Raven Club, 20 East Twenty-third Street, who pleaded not guilty before Federal Judge Garvin to the charge of conspiring to violate the law and was held in $2,500 bail. The others indicted were Catharine M. Brinton, said to be Wieder's wife; James Ryan, Michael J. Gallagher, James O'Brien, Paul Melrose, John J. Callahan, George Brown, Lawrence Wooldridge, Ralph Brown, Thomas McVicker, Frank Gaffney, Herman Ginsberg, Arthur Brown and John Kennedy.

United States Attorney Buckner explained that the indictment followed an investigation of the club and a raid on the premises on June 1. He said that under the new system of concentrating upon the men "higher up," the owners of the club now have to face a conspiracy charge. Under the old system the ends of justice apparently would have been met, he explained, by the arrest of a few waiters or bartenders.

"We will get nowhere on prohibition," Mr. Buckner pointed out, "until people who make money by breaking the law begin going to jail."

The jury which heard the evidence against Romeo Forlini, Pietro Marrazzo, Thomas Cassese and James Craponzano, accused of having forged permits for the withdrawal of twenty barrels of whisky from the Vandam Warehouse company, brought in a verdict late yesterday of not guilty.

ARGUES BORDER 'DRY' ZEAL.

Counsel for Two Held for Resisting Officer Scores "Yanking" From Car.

Special to The New York Times.

MALONE, N. Y., July 8.—United States Commissioner Moses H. Burno, after listening to testimony that lasted for more than eight hours, today reserved decision until July 16 in the cases of Thomas J. Fitzpatrick and Francis J. Foran, attorneys of Chateaugay, who are accused of resisting Federal dry officers.

The hearing, in which Assistant United States District Attorney Donald P. Gorman of Syracuse represented the United States, developed into a legal controversy during which Assemblyman George J. Moore, counsel for the accused, attempted to obtain from border officials their definition of their duties and the rights of citizens.

Harold W. Fox, United States Customs Inspector, testified that he stopped Foran's car, in which no liquor was found, and pulled Foran from the seat when he did not obey his command to leave the car at once.

"Is yanking tourists out of cars along the Canadian border part of your duty?" demanded Mr. Moore.

"It is," Fox answered.

"How many have you yanked out?" asked Mr. Moore.

FOR 40-MILE SEARCH AT SEA

Deputy Valude Says France Would Thus Aid American Liquor Hunts.

PARIS, July 8 (AP).—Deputy Pierre Valude, reporter of the Chamber of Deputies Committee on Merchant Marine, has prepared an article to be published by the Journal of the Merchant Marine, in which he asserts that the French Parliament is disposed to give the United States the right to search vessels for liquor even forty miles off shore, provided a definite limit is established.

The committee has been considering modification of the treaty signed at Washington on June 30, 1924, by Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Jusserand, designed to prevent the illegal importation of intoxicating liquor, in which the search limit is fixed at one hour's steaming distance. M. Valude declares the French Parliament is ready to extend the limit much beyond the three or twelve miles sanctioned by present international law, but insists upon the principle of a fixed limit.

Under the "one hour's steaming distance" provision, M. Valude asserts, French nationals who might contest the legality of a search "would be obliged to defend themselves before American courts, which, as every one knows, are not gentle toward adversaries of their nationals."

Three Held When Wine Is Seized.

One hundred barrels of sacramental wine were seized yesterday by prohibition enforcement agents in a wine shop at 153 Forsyth Street. The wine was taken to the Knickerbocker Warehouse, at First Street and First Avenue. Morris Berkowitz, Wolf Berkowitz and David Sofes were arrested and held in $1,000 bail.

Yonkers Police Bill Not Taken Up.

Safety Commissioner Alfred Iles's request for an ordinance that would permit him to appoint three more Lieutenants and eight Sergeants in the Yonkers Police Department, to which some taxpayers have objected, were not brought before the Board of Aldermen at yesterday's meeting.

retary Andrews to announce soon the names of the administrators for the twenty-two new Federal districts. These positions will carry higher salaries than are now received by State and regional directors, although the maximum will be $7,500 a year instead of $10,000, as recommended by Secretary Andrews. The Controller General held that the Treasury was not authorized by law to pay any of the administrators in excess of the $7,500, and accordingly that will be the top salary in the new organization.

Further evidence was given today of the intention of Secretary Mellon and Assistant Secretary Andrews to minimise the authority of Commissioner Haynes in the work of the prohibition unit. Of the appropriation of $11,000,000 allowed by Congress for the enforcement of the dry laws in the current fiscal year, Commissioner Haynes planned to expend $50,000 in a poster campaign setting forth the evils of strong drink and the baneful influence of the bootleg trade. He proposed to do this under a provision in one of the appropriation bills which authorized the dissemination of information and appeals for observance of the Volstead law.

Under Mr. Haynes's direction artistic posters bearing slogans dealing with alcoholic beverages were designed and submitted to Assistant Secretary Andrews for his approval. It was said today that Secretary Mellon as well as General Andrews are opposed to such a campaign of education, arguing that the money could be more effectively used in other directions. They are understood to take the position that private agencies like the Anti-Saloon League should educate the public on the desire for a more general observance of the law and that at the same time the Treasury should be ahead with enforcement.

While General Andrews has so far taken no action on the poster or billboard campaign advocated by Commissioner Haynes, the general belief is that the recommendation made by the Prohibition Commissioner will be disapproved. Some doubt is expressed as to the legality of the Haynes poster program. At any rate, General Andrews is expected to recommend that the posters be thrown into the waste basket and that the $50,000 that Commissioner Haynes wanted to expend on them be covered into the general fund and spent in active endeavors to enforce the law.

Commissioner Haynes today reiterated a statement he made yesterday that he had no present intention of quitting the Federal prohibition service.

Charges Banker Did Not Pay Tax.

PITTSBURGH, July 8 (AP).—An income tax lien for $25,382.70 against John A. Bell of Carnegie was filed here today by the Internal Revenue Collector, D. B. Heiner. The lien, said Heiner, was for non-payment of income tax for 1917. Bell is President of the Carnegie Trust Company, which was closed by the State Department of Banking on April 27.

went to the suite occupied by the Baroness and Mrs. Welen.

Thompson and Comley went home and returned about 11:30 o'clock. As nearly as those present could fix the time, it was between 12:30 and 1 o'clock when the Baroness entered her bedroom and then fell. Police Inspector George C. Liebers and Detective Burns found two diamond earrings and a four carat emerald from Baroness zur Muehlen's lavaliere on the roof of the Italian Garden. They had been dislodged by the fall.

It was said at the Ritz-Carlton that the Baron and Baroness zur Muehlen had stopped there on several occasions during the last two years. Before her marriage she was Miss Helen Carothers, daughter of J. W. Carothers of San Antonio, Texas, who was formerly proprietor of a laundry there. She attended a finishing school here and it was after her graduation that she met and married the Baron.

Mother Collapses at News.

Her mother, Mrs. Estelle Carothers, came to New York from San Antonio to see her daughter during her visit, and Mrs. Carothers was at the Ritz-Carlton Tuesday evening, returning at an early hour to 150 East Forty-ninth Street, where she has been occupying an apartment. She was called to the hotel immediately after the Baroness's death and collapsed upon her arrival. Mrs. Carothers would see no one yesterday. At her direction James F. Winterbottom, funeral director, took charge of the body.

Edmund L. Durkin of Rhinelander, Durkin & Perkins of 120 Broadway, counsel for the Ritz-Carlton, gave out a statement which said:

"Baroness Helen zur Muehlen and her husband, Baron zur Muehlen, have been most respected guests of the hotel and have been coming there for stays for approximately five years. They come from Java in the Dutch East Indies, where Baron zur Muehlen is engaged in banking and exporting. He also is in the diplomatic service of Holland.

"Any intimations as to the Baroness being in strained financial circumstances are inappropriate and unfounded, as her credit balance at the hotel company is so substantial in itself as to refute any such statement or intimation.

"The hotel company has caused its chief house officer to make a thorough investigation, and he has made a report to the management clearly showing that this very sad occurrence was unquestionably accidental.

"The Baron and Baroness have been in recent communication, as the cables at the hotel company show, and I am informed by the hotel company that the Baroness sent the Baron a cable on the day of the accident informing her husband of her sailing."

Mr. Durkin said the Baroness was 28 years old. Mrs. Welen, he said, was an Englishwoman of about the same age and had long been on intimate terms with the Baroness and the Baron.

HERTZOG BEATEN IN SENATE

South African Government's Bill on Asiatic Labor Is Rejected.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 8—The Hertzog Government suffered an uncomfortable reverse today when the Senate rejected the mines work bill legalizing the ban on the employment of Asiatics in certain capacities in the mines and thus putting up a definite color bar throughout the Union.

The bill aroused much opposition because of its alleged injustice and the provocation such a law might give to agitators in the country.

General Smuts, former Premier, who opposed the bill when it was before the Legislative Assembly, charged Premier Hertzog with bringing the hatred of the whole of Asia down on the Government's head. The bill, he said, would embarrass rather than establish white civilization in South Africa. The bill successfully weathered the storm in the Legislative Assembly, although the opposition to it was so warm that it was shelved twice.

However the Senatorial opposition to the measure, led by N. J. Dewet, Senator for the Transvaal and former Minister of Justice in the Smuts Administration, refused to be placated and rejected the bill.

But Return Under Full Taxation Would Be 7.786% — Did Not Count on Empty Apartments.

Apartments can be built in New York City to rent for $9 a room and pay a fair return on the investment, it has been demonstrated by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in its housing experiment in the Borough of Queens.

The experiment, which involved $7,000,000, was inaugurated to relieve the after-war congestion.

The report, issued yesterday by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company officials, follows:

"The Legislature of the State of New York at the session of 1923, at the suggestion of the Lockwood committee, enacted an amendment to the Insurance laws of the State permitting life insurance companies to purchase land and build apartment houses to a limited extent, provided the rents to be charged did not exceed $9 per room per month. While it was not specified in the bill that bathrooms were not to be counted as rooms, or that heat, hot water service and janitor service were to be furnished, there was a general understanding that bathrooms were not to be counted as rooms and that heat, hot water and janitor service were to be furnished.

"The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company had promised the Lockwood committee and the joint committee of the Legislature that it would prepare plans and obtain bids for the erection of apartment houses to the extent of about $2,500,000, and if it was found that it seemed probable the houses could be erected at a cost for land and building that at $9 per room per month would certainly produce a net return on the cost of not less than 8 per cent. net, the company would undertake the operation.

"The amendment was passed, and the company, after having obtained bids that seemed to make it reasonably certain that 6 per cent. net would be obtained on the investment, started the erection in the Borough of Queens of fifty-four apartments, involving the expenditure of over $7,000,000. The buildings were all completed in May, 1924, and all were rented faster than they could be completed. The space provided homes for 2,125 families, and many thousands of families who desired to rent could not be accommodated. Care was used by the agent in charge of the property to rent only to families of limited incomes who really needed lower rents than were possible to obtain anywhere else.

"The company is now able to report the financial result of the operation of the properties for one year viz.: from July 1, 1924, to June 30, 1925. The total cost to the company of land and buildings including builders' costs and fees, architects' fees, taxes during construction, in fact, every expenditure of money made by the company was $7,363,168.84.

"The rent collected for the twelve months from July 1, 1924, to June 30, 1925, was $1,040,196.06.

"The expense of operation for the twelve months, including every expenditure made for and on the property, was $330,014.64.

"Leaving net for the twelve months, $681,181.42, which is a net return on the total cost of 9.251 per cent., or 1¼ per cent. more than the company considered would be a satisfactory return when the operation was started.

"During the six months Jan. 1, 1925, to July 1, 1925, the company has been paying taxes on the basis of the tax-exemption laws governing taxes on such such houses. These laws do not expire until Dec. 31, 1931. If, however, full taxes were paid for 1925, the net return would be reduced to 7.786 per cent., or less than one-quarter of 1 per cent. below the company's original estimate of what would be a satisfactory net return.

"It is usual with real estate men, builders and investors to allow something for vacancies and loss of rent.

"The company made no such allowance, believing that the low rentals and the desirability of the houses would practically eliminate this item. The results have proved that the company was right in this assumption for there has been lost only $406.54 from this cause.

"The company intends at the end of each year to figure 6 per cent. on the then book value of the properties, this amount to be used for income. Any amount that is earned over 6 per cent. is to be credited to the cost of the properties, thereby making a considerable reduction each year. This will enable it to meet the full taxes beginning in 1932 and still maintain about the same ratio of reduction of cost."

LONG FIGHT FOR ESTATE.

Woman, 86, a Step Nearer in Contest for Share of Father's Wealth.

With the entering of judgment of affirmation in the Supreme Court yesterday upon the order of the Appellate Division, which upheld the decision of Justice R. H. Mitchell on Feb. 13 last, Mrs. Louise C. Ellis, 86 years old, came one step nearer to obtaining her share of the estate of her father, George W. Chapman, a fur dealer, who died many years ago. The estate is said to be worth more than $1,000,000. The case now goes to the Court of Appeals for a final decision.

Mrs. Ellis began nine years ago to establish her rights as the legitimate daughter of Mr. Chapman. The Title Guarantee and Trust Company, executor under the Chapman will, has fought Mrs. Ellis up to the Appellate Division on two occasions and will now continue to the Court of Appeals, despite the fact that the lower courts and the Appellate Division have decided in her favor. Harold R. Medina and Eugene A. Sherpicke, of the firm of Medina & Sherpicke, 165 Broadway, who entered the affirmation of judgment, are prepared to keep on fighting to the last court. The firm has represented the woman throughout the entire litigation.

HERRICK SAILS FOR HOME.

HAVRE, July 8 (AP).—The American Ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, sailed today on the liner Paris for his annual vacation in the United States.

With him went "Abd-el-Krim," a lanky wirehaired terrier, whose bearded jowl and congenital grumpiness are said to give him a striking resemblance to the Riffian chief who is causing the French so much trouble in Morocco.

The canine Abd-el-Krim is genuinely fond of Ambassador Herrick, but he is a terror to the dogs of the diplomatic set in Paris.

Mikado's Son in Britain to Study.

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—Prince Chichibu, second son of the Mikado, who has arrived in England for several years' study at Oxford University, told interviewers today that while the Anglo-Japanese alliance had ceased, "its spirit exists. It is today as virile as ever and permeates the whole Japanese people," declared the Emperor's son.

What a setting for the Brunswick Radiola—the instrument that brings to you a diversity of music and entertainment gathered from the four corners of the earth!

"What! Asleep in his trunk!"
exclaimed the astounded porter—

"And it's not such a bad bed either," said its occupant, rousing. "Especially when a convention of the Noble Order of Blah Blahs fills the hotels and makes it impossible to get a room."

The genius who in 1861 invented this bed-trunk undoubtedly had just such contingencies in mind. By the time the bed was folded in, however, there was little room left for clothes. But why fuss about a small matter like that!

This 1925 McCreery "Bench Hight" trunk will hold many clothes. It has a tray with hangers which tips up. The bottom section is subdivided. The whole trunk takes up no more room than a steamer trunk. 68.00

TO BUILD 5 SCHOOLS IN THREE BOROUGHS

Education Board Finally Approves Brooklyn and Queens Institutions.

HIGH SCHOOL FOR RICHMOND

Building on Staten Island to Cost $835,150—Plan Two Elementary Schools.

The Board of Education sitting in committee of the whole yesterday provided for the addition of five new schools to the city's educational facilities, by giving final approval to the building of two schools in Brooklyn and Queens and ratifying new plans for a high school in Richmond and two additional elementary schools in Brooklyn and Queens.

One new Brooklyn building will house a trade school for girls. It will be built on a block between Third and Fourth Avenues and Pacific and Dean Streets and will provide for 1,500 students, who will have opportunity to study almost everything in the way of women's trades. There will be five power shops in which will be taught the operating of machines for making garments, embroidered articles, and straw hats. Besides eighteen shops for dressmaking and sewing, there will be rooms for manicuring, shampooing and laundering. A salesroom, cafeteria and tea room are also included in the plans.

Public School 127 will be the new Queens school, now fully approved for erection. It will be built on Twenty-fifth Avenue between Ninety-eighth and Ninety-ninth Streets, Elmhurst.

Plans for the three other schools approved by the Board of Education yesterday involve the expenditure of nearly $2,000,000. Richmond, which now has only the Curtis High School, will get a second high school to be located at Innis Street and St. Joseph's Avenue, Port Richmond. It will accommodate 1,158 pupils and cost $835,150.

Another elementary school, to be known as Public School 219, will be constructed, according to the plans, on Clarkson Avenue between East Ninety-third and East Ninety-fourth Streets, Brooklyn. It will provide for 2,510 students and cost $1,009,125. A temporary elementary school, Public School 146, is also planned for Howard Beach, Queens, where 220 children will be taken care of. The cost is estimated at $22,250.

Upon recommendation of the Board of Superintendents, it was decided that fifteen rooms in Public School 77, the Bronx, should be assigned as an annex to the James Monroe High School. Twenty rooms in Public School 216, Brooklyn, were assigned as an annex to the James Madison High School.

The subject of overcrowding in the four vacation high schools, which have been forced to turn away hundreds of applicants, was not brought up at the meeting and it is understood that nothing can be done about the matter this year. Eugene C. Gibney, director of the vacation schools, said plans for opening two additional high schools next Summer would be considered at the budget hearing next Monday. He said that a group of 500 Manhattan students, who had been refused admittance this season, had offered to pay the salary of teachers if any could be assigned to them.

MAY DEPORT MOTHER OF 4.

Elizabeth (N. J.) Woman Arrested for Evading Immigration Ruling.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., July 8.—Mrs. John Sickel, 29 years old, of 180 Front Street, was arrested today on a deportation warrant and taken to Ellis Island. She came to this country from the Ukraine in 1912, married here, and is the mother of four children, all born in America. When she arrived she suffered from ill health and was ordered to report regularly to the immigration officers. The warrant for her deportation was issued because since 1920 she has failed to do this.

According to Mrs. Regina Tedesco of the Department of Labor, at whose order the warrant was issued, it is unlikely that Mrs. Sickel will be deported, because of her four children.

Henry H. Curran, Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, said last night that a decision in the case of Mrs. Sickel would be made this morning.

Jersey County Bans Picric Acid.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 8 (AP).—Within a month County Solicitor Richardson expects Middlesex County to be free from picric acid, which caused the explosion on March 3, 1923, at the Nixon Nitratic Works, in which eighteen were known to have been killed. Richardson said today that 100,000 pounds remain of 2,500,000 pounds of picric acid stored on the meadows near here at the time of the explosion. The acid is being shipped to a point in Northern New York.

$500,000 TAX CHARGE CAUSES ARREST HERE

E. Constantin, owner of oil wells in Tulsa, Okla., was arrested yesterday afternoon by agents of the Department of Justice, on a brief complaint charging him with attempting to defraud the Government out of income taxes aggregating $500,000. Information concerning the charge against Constantin came from Tulsa in a telegram merely stating the facts and asking that agents be sent out to make the arrest because it was believed that the defendant was about to sail for Europe.

Maxwell S. Mattuck, head of the Commercial Frauds Bureau of United States Attorney Buckner's office, turned the matter over to the Internal Revenue Unit. Agents of the bureau made a hurried examination of sailing lists and then began a search of the hotels. The second hotel where inquiries were made was the Biltmore and it was learned that Mr. Constantin had registered there with his wife and daughter. He was taken into custody and arraigned before United States Commissioner Cotter who released the defendant in $3,000 bail. Mr. Mattuck said last night:

"We know nothing about the details of the matter beyond the fact that the taxes alleged to be due the Government were on income alleged to have been earned by Mr. Constantin in 1920 and 1921. The defendant waived examination and agreed to return to Tulsa and face the music. I understand that he will begin his return journey tomorrow morning."

BOY DRIVER JAILED.

Business Man's Son Held After Injuring Boy With Auto.

Gerell Lagerloef, 17 years old, of 30 Hudson Place, Weehawken, N. J., son of Hans Lagerloef, President of the Lagerloef Trading Company, 62 Vanderbilt Avenue, Manhattan, spent eleven hours in the Weehawken jail yesterday before he was released by Recorder William Maher to be arraigned this morning on an assault charge for injuring an 8-year-old boy with the automobile he was driving.

Young Lagerloef, with only a "learner's" certificate, was driving unaccompanied by the required licensed chauffeur through Highwood Avenue shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning when he knocked down George Strom of 22 Palisades Avenue, Union City, at Liberty Place, who, Lagerloef told the police, was riding on a scooter on the sidewalk and suddenly shot into the street in the path of his car.

At the North Hudson Hospital surgeons said that the boy was in a serious condition. The police then held Lagerloef, and it was not until 8 o'clock last night that he was released.

When they attempted to ride across the tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Newport, N. J., in an automobile, yesterday, Carl Howard and Frank Decinque of Cedarville were hurled out of the car by a freight engine. They were removed to a hospital at Bridgeton in a critical condition.

USE PLANE FOR RUSH JOB.

Doubleday, Page & Co. Get Needed Machine Part in a Hurry by Air.

When either railroad or automobile would have been too slow, an airplane was chartered by Doubleday, Page & Co., publishers, of Garden City, L. I., yesterday to bring a piece of machinery from Hartford, Conn.

Early in the day, while an important piece of work was under way, part of the binding equipment broke down. The replacement part could not be had in New York, and by the time it could have been shipped from Hartford the whole schedule of the shop would have been thrown out. Donald McDonald, foreman of the bindery, declared that by chartering an airplane, the plant was enabled to resume work with a loss of only an hour and a quarter.

Boddy's Widow Gets 10 Years.

Dora Clark, 22 years old, of 50 West 139th Street, Manhattan, who said she was the widow of Luther Boddy, a negro who was executed at Sing Sing Prison for the murder of two detectives, was sentenced to ten years in Auburn Prison by Judge R. L. Haskell in the Kings County Court yesterday. The woman was convicted of first degree grand larceny as a second offender for the theft of $1,200 in jewelry from Mrs. Anna Spear of 1,952 East Eighty-first Street, Brooklyn, where she was employed as a servant.

TRUCKMEN APPEAL CRUELTY CONVICTION

RAISE A DEFENSE FUND

Ask If Women Know More of Horses' Health Than Owners or Veterinarians.

Through the filing of an appeal in Special Sessions yesterday from the conviction of a truck driver in a Magistrate's Court on a charge of inhumanely overloading his horse, the Merchant Truckmen's Bureau of New York, comprising the majority of the employing truckmen of the city, took a stand to learn "whether housewives and society women are better judges of horses and their health than their owners and veterinarians."

The appeal was filed by Charles M. Hall, attorney for the boss truckmen, in the case of Frank Sposito, a driver employed by the Ruggiero Trucking Company, 148 West Twenty-third Street. Sposito received a suspended sentence from Magistrate Thomas A. McAndrews in the Yorkville Court on June 23 on the complaint of Mrs. May McCord Thatcher, wife of a Major in the Marine Corps, that Sposito had inhumanely treated his horse the day before by compelling the animal to draw a load of 2,500 pounds in hot weather.

At the hearing Sposito's lawyer brought out that the horse was capable of pulling three tons, but the Magistrate accepted Mrs. Thatcher's assertion that the horse had been overheated and the load too much for it, and declared Sposito guilty. The decision aroused the members of the truckmen's organiation, and complaints were sent to Mayor Hylan and Chief City Magistrate McAdoo. A defense fund for Sposito was also raised by the truckmen.

On the filing of the appeal Thomas F. Barry, Executive Secretary of the Bureau, issued a statement which read, in part: "For many years it has been the custom of certain well-meaning persons with humanitarian complexes to go dashing around the city taking exception to the appearance of horses owned by men in the trucking industry and merchants. This bureau does not particularly object to complaints of cruel and inhumane treatment of animals when made by authorized agents of humane organizations because, in some instances, these complaints are founded on fact.

"But it does vigorously object to humane free lances holding up vehicles in the streets, causing crowds to collect and using threatening language to drivers, who, after all, irrespective of the condition of the horses they drive, are merely doing what they are paid to do. These cases of activity have grown so numerous recently because of the hot weather that they have actually become a menace to business and commerce in the city.

"When these cases come into court many magistrates, not particularly cognizant of the ways of horses and knowing more about automobiles, immediately find drivers guilty of whatever cruelty they are charged with without considering that no horse owner and seldom a driver, will intentionally mistreat a horse because it represents capital and the actual livelihood of the owner and the driver."

Barry also announced that the bureau would fight all such convictions in the future.

ACCUSES TWO DETECTIVES.

Man Held for Receiving Stolen Goods Says He Was Assaulted.

When arraigned before Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud in the Harlem Court yesterday, charged with criminally receiving stolen goods, Peter Millet, a restaurant keeper of 452 East Seventy-ninth Street, through his counsel, Assemblyman Frederick Hackenburg, asked the Magistrate to have action taken against the detectives who made the arrest, and who, he alleged, assaulted Millet in Police Headquarters.

Detectives Brown and McNulty, attached to Inspector Thomas M. Fay's staff, who arrested Millet on Monday night, told the Magistrate that on Dec. 31 last Millet sold a $1,000 Pennsylvania Railroad bond for $1,127 to Paine, Weber & Co., brokers, of 85 Cedar Street. The bond, according to the detectives, was part of the property stolen from a safe in the Municipal Sanatorium at Otisville, N. Y., on Christmas Day. Millet told the Magistrate that he had bought the bond for $300 from two unidentified men after he had tried to find out whether or not the bond had been stolen. Millet was held in $5,000 bail for examination July 15.

Neither Inspector Fay nor the detectives who made the arrest could be reached yesterday to reply to the charge that Millet had been assaulted after his arrest.

SQUIER DENIES LOVE NOTES.

Says He Gave, at Wife's Behest, $15,000 Check.

Frank Hendrick, attorney for Charles Burnham Squier in the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Olive Rae Squier, in which Miss Phyllis Ann Keenan was named as corespondent, said yesterday that a misapprehension had arisen concerning a statement in an affidavit by Squier that he handed $15,000 to a woman for the return of love letters.

The attorney said that no love letters were ever written to the woman in question and that Squier made out a check for $15,000 to the woman and got a general release from her "at the solicitation of his wife." Squier asserted that the woman tore up the check and handed the pieces back to him.

SLASHES EYE WITH KNIFE.

Eleanor Brunkal, 4 years old, of 512 Twelfth Street, West New York, N. J., was the victim of an unusual accident last night when she drove the blade of a paring knife into her left eye. She was taken to the North Hudson Hospital, where it is feared she will lose her eye.

She was seated on a bed with another girl of her own age with the knife in her hands while her mother was in an adjoining room, ironing, when suddenly a large moth flew in through the open window. The moth struck the child in the face and involuntarily she raised her right hand to brush the moth away. In doing so she drove the blade into her eye.

Babe Ruth's Chauffeur Fined.

Babe Ruth's chauffeur, Thomas F. Harvey, 25 years old, of 401 West Forty-eighth Street, was fined $25 in Traffic Court by Magistrate Alexander Macrery yesterday when a friend, Bernard Clinton of 781 Eighth Avenue, appeared for him and pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding at twenty-five miles an hour at Franklin and Pearl Streets on July 4. Clinton, explaining that Harvey had to leave the city last night to drive Mrs. Ruth to Scranton, Pa., paid the fine. Neither Ruth nor Mrs. Ruth was in the car when Harvey was given the summons.

LOW SUMMER VACATION FARES

If you owned your dealers' stores would your present advertising suit you?

SURVEY after survey proves that retail merchants want newspaper advertising to back up the products they stock and sell. Whenever their vote is taken, their answer is, "Give us newspapers."

The manufacturer may take issue with this verdict. He may say that dealers do not understand his sales and advertising problems. He will admit that the dealer has the opportunity to know, first hand, what kind of advertising mediums create the largest number of sales over the counter.

But, the manufacturer may ask, what about dealer influence, prestige, expense, coverage?

Answer These Questions from the Viewpoint of Your Dealers

Then wouldn't the only kind of advertising that counts be the kind that his experience had proved would sell the most merchandise? Wouldn't consumer demand be the yard stick by which he measured the prestige of his advertising?

Wouldn't common sense urge him to confine advertising circulation to areas where he had established retail outlets?

Wouldn't he build his business faster and more safely by concentrating his stores within rich areas instead of spreading them over wider territory? Wouldn't this make possible more powerful and intensive advertising at a lower cost per store than if distribution was spotted?

Many manufacturers have been asking themselves these questions, and finding the correct answer. The latest tabulations show that the country's fifty-nine leading advertisers, with annual appropriations ranging upwards of a half million dollars, spend $3,400,838 more for national advertising in newspapers every year than they spend in thirty-one leading magazines.*

Smaller advertisers also are finding newspapers to be the most profitable mediums they can use. For example, three manufacturers, with scattered distribution in three different fields of selling, decided against stretching a limited advertising budget across the country. Instead, they would pick compact, rich areas and concentrate their sales and advertising efforts on them —building them up one at a time.

For their first drive, these three manufacturers selected The Chicago Territory—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan. Their reasons were definite and four-fold: (1) It has 17% of the country's population. (2) It makes 19% of the total income tax returns. (3) Yet it covers less than 9% of the country's area, and (4) A single newspaper dominates and influences the entire five states.

The first year, The Chicago Territory sales of these manufacturers (which totaled in the millions before the drives began) jumped 57%, 72% and 175%. Their dealer forces were increased during the same period in this area, 89%, 43% and 414% respectively.

Isn't This the Kind of Prestige and Dealer Influence You Want?

There is nothing intangible about that kind of dealer influence. Here is prestige put into the concrete form of amazing gains in sales volume and profits.

These are but three examples from a volume of evidence proving that the kind of advertising you would choose if you were in your dealer's place is the kind that will pay you best as a manufacturer.

If you are interested in advertising that will sell your goods in a larger volume at a lower cost per unit of sale, a Chicago Tribune man has a story that will interest you. He has a sound, workable plan to put before you that is producing astonishing results for other manufacturers. It may be as profitable to employ in your business. Why not send for him?

GEST, SAILING, TELLS HIS SEASON'S PLANS

'THE MIRACLE' IN SALZBURG

Says 4 American Cities Are Guaranteeing Production of Spectacle as a Civic Enterprise.

Morris Gest, who sails on the Olympic tonight for a European trip in connection with his theatrical enterprises, yesterday announced his plans for the coming season. They are concerned chiefly with the proposed American tour of the Moscow Art Theatre Musical Studio and further productions in other cities of "The Miracle," first presented at the Century Theatre here.

One of the conferences of Mr. Gest abroad will be with Vladimir Nemirovitch-Dantchenko, creator and director of the Moscow Art Theatre Musical Studio in Salzburg, Austria, about the middle of next month. The Russian regisseur will by that time have in hand the definite reply of A. V. Lunatcharsky, Minister of Fine Arts, to the petition signed by thousands of Americans requesting leave of absence for this company from Russia and permission for it to come to America under Mr. Gest's direction for two months next Winter. In case response to this petition is favorable, Mr. Gest will send from Salzburg the definite news that the company will come.

"The Miracle" in Salzburg Aug. 15.

Mr. Gest's meeting with Dantchenko in Salzburg will come simultaneously with the first presentation of "The Miracle" in Reinhardt's home city. The Salzburg première of the spectacle will take place Sunday evening, Aug. 16, as the outstanding event of the fifth annual Summer festival, and the performance will be repeated seven times in the course of the following fortnight. Lady Diana Manners plans shortly to arrive in Salzburg to rehearse her rôle of the Madonna, and Rosamond Pinchot, the Nun of the New York and Cleveland productions, is sailing this week to participate also in the rehearsals and play her original rôle.

Guarantee funds totaling over a million dollars have been subscribed in four American cities to make possible the presentation of "The Miracle" as a civic enterprise in those communities next season, Mr. Gest announced as a result of recent negotiations. In every case the profits will be devoted to charitable or civic purposes. From St. Louis some weeks ago came the definite announcement of a four weeks' engagement beginning Christmas Eve, for which a guarantee fund of $325,000 has been arranged. In Cincinnati, too, an enormous fund has been underwritten.

On his return from Europe Mr. Gest will hold a conference with a group in Boston to conclude the arrangements for presenting the spectacle in the Boston Opera House. He will also confer with a similiar group in Chicago to make plans for presenting it at the Auditorium there, following the completion of the Chicago Opera Season and following "The Miracle's" own engagement in St. Louis. In addition to these four American cities, negotiations for producing "The Miracle" in Canada are under way. Lady Diana Manners and Rosamond Pinchot will resume their rôles for these engagements of "The Miracle."

Actors' Equity Waives a Rule.

For the first time in its history, Mr. Gest announces, the Actors' Equity Association has agreed to waive for "The Miracle" one of its most important rules, which calls for the continuous booking of a production throughout the season. The Equity council recently wrote to Mr. Gest through its Executive Secretary, Frank Gillmore, as follows:

"In view of the fact that 'The Miracle' is a stupendous spectacle; that it has been generally praised as a work of high artistic merit; that it has been endorsed and supported by groups of prominent citizens who are guaranteeing the production in their respective communities; that it in no way coincides with the ordinary theatrical production; therefore, the Actors' Equity Association will waive its rule covering consecutive employment and agrees to let 'The Miracle' go on tour as per the dates and lay-offs outlined."

En route to Salzburg, where he will be the guest of Max Reinhardt at Schloss Leopoldskron, Mr. Gest plans to visit Paris, London and Berlin. In Paris he will confer with Nikita Balieff, whose Chauve-Souris is once more at the Theatre Femina, in regard to a tour of the Russian company to the Pacific Coast next Winter.

From Venice, where he will spend a few days, Mr. Gest will motor to the home of Gabriele d'Annunzio, at a secluded spot on Lake Garda, to attempt to induce him to visit the United States next year.

EUROPE WILL TEST NEW WAVE LENGTHS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 8.—The plan drawn up today by the Technical Committee of the International Radiophone Union, which is meeting under the auspices of the League of Nations Transit and Communications Section, is to try out in the month of September a new schedule of wave lengths among about one hundred broadcasting stations in Europe.

The experiments necessarily will depend upon the permission of the various Governments, which, in all instances in Europe, indirectly control broadcasting.

In preparing the new experimental schedule, which as yet is kept a secret, the general principle of giving preference to wave lengths of older stations has been observed.

The experiments will be made after broadcasting hours and reports will be sent to headquarters of the International Radiophone Union here.

A. R. Burrows, Director of the Union, will make the necessary changes in schedule, and further experiments will be effected after several weeks. The information obtained from the final experiments will serve as a basis for discussion and revision of the schedule by a second conference of technical representatives of the Union.

Broadcasting in Central and Northern Europe is growing at an astounding rate. Nearly two score stations have sprung up in the past several months and about forty others are projected.

Luncheon in D. W. Griffith's Honor.

In honor of David W. Griffith's starting the production of his first picture under his new contract with Paramount Pictures, a luncheon was given yesterday at the company's studio in Astoria. It was served on the first "set" Mr. Griffith is to use in his picture, adapted from Edwin Balmer's story, "That Royle Girl," which the director expects to make an epic of modern jazz life. Motion picture editors of newspapers and magazines were the guests and the members of the cast were present, including Carol Dempster, James Kirkwood and Harrison Ford. Mr. Griffith spoke briefly and afterward the guests saw him begin rehearsals of the piece.

THE SCREEN

A "Western" Slightly Different.

Either you like "Westerns" in your movie fare or you do not. If you like them, you will probably like this one; if you do not like them, you will probably dislike this one a little less than the ordinary. It has some features that are not ordinarily found in pictures of its type. One of them is that it appears occasionally to be "kidding" Western pictures. At the outset Betty Foster (Ethel Shannon) is shown to have romantic ideas about what a man with a gun can do and is considerably disgusted with Pete Grainger (Harry Carey) when she finds him being held up by three road agents and surrendering the money he carries without a struggle. She tells him she hadn't expected to see that sort of thing—and these are her own words—"out where men are men." Later, when she finds Grainger arrayed in the limit of cowhand finery, and remarks that he is a beautiful thing, he replies that as to those clothes he had "lifted them off our Catalogue Cowboy." Furthermore, they dress Harry Carey up in women's clothes. Things like that imply a commendably light-hearted spirit in a picture whose type is generally oppressed by the sense that life is very real and earnest.

There is no use worrying too much about the story of the picture, which concerns the theft of $10,000 in cash in a hold-up, the recovery sending various people dashing about the countryside on horseback, and chasing each other up and down hills and all that sort of thing. That comes toward the end of the film, but is quite in the orthodox manner, as is the fight on the brink of the cliff.

Harry Carey is as always one of the most agreeable exponents of this kind of material. One of his excellences is that he doesn't trouble himself about "acting," but just walks through what he has to do—when he is not riding. Ethel Shannon is one of the best leading women you could imagine for this type of photoplay.

OPERA DEFICIT IN LONDON.

Syndicate Loses Financially, Despite Season's Artistic Success.

LONDON, July 8.—Grand opera does not pay in London. Even the apparently successful season of German and Italian opera now concluding at Covent Garden, which was marked by the first appearance in London of Jeritza, Rethberg and Del Monti, resulted in a loss to the syndicate promoting it. It is not a crushing deficit, however, and the syndicate, reviewing its attempt to reestablish international opera after an interruption of eleven years, declares that the result does not rule out another season next year.

VIENNA OPERA WAR ENDS.

Olszewska, Who Spat at Jeritza, Reinstated by the Management.

VIENNA, July 8.—Several weeks' warfare between Marie Olszewska and the management of the Vienna Opera, due to the singer's dismissal after her violent quarrel with Jeritza, was ended today by an agreement before the court.

Olszewska, who, during the performance of Wagner's "Walkuere," spat at Jeritza because the latter disturbed her with loud talk and laughter in the wings, sued the opera for reinstatement and back pay. The agreement, which was reached before the case was called, restores to the singer her lost engagement and part of her back pay, which she agrees to turn over to charities.

25,000 AT CONCERT IN HOLLYWOOD BOWL

MUSIC HEARD FOR MILE

By OLIN DOWNES.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 8.—An audience of considerably more than twenty-five thousand people, including prominent musicians and artists in various fields from all parts of the United States, listened last night to the first of the thirty-two symphony concerts, which will constitute the fourth season of symphonic music in the superb natural amphitheatre known as the Hollywood Bowl.

Fritz Reiner conducted the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra. Conductors to come are Sir Henry Wood of London, Ethel Leginska, Ernest Bloch, Walter Henry Rothwell, Rudolph Ganz, Alfred Hertz.

Last night's program consisted of the "Meistersinger" overture. Richard Strauss's "Don Juan," Liszt's Second Rhapsody and Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony. The Los Angeles Symphony is a body of generally excellent quality and some leading players who are exceptional. The quality of the tone of the different chords to be compared with other orchestral bodies would have to be heard in a concert hall, for the unique sonority of the "bow" formed by the hills and the clarity of the atmosphere give the orchestral tone a transparency and carrying quality seldom heard in a concert hall.

The audience, which choked the roads leading to the bowl for hours before the concert, and occupied literally acres of ground when seated, was garbed with a color and frequent picturesqueness not seen in the East. After a speech of welcome and a description of the aims of these concerts by Mrs. J. J. Carter, President of the Hollywood Bowl Association, all lights save those on the stage were concealed and the concert proceeded under the stars. The unparalleled conditions under which these concerts are given obtain exceptionally artistic results.

The audience not only listens at ease to the music, without any distraction, under a Summer sky, but hears it distinctly. Those higher up on the hillside hear perhaps even better than those lower down. I went to the top of a slope directly back from the stage, at a distance of nearly a mile from the players. From there a poetry that it would be hard to surpass sounded clearly and beautifully—the solo horn and clarinet in the slow movement of Tchaikovsky's symphony—and not only these solo voices, but the soft chords of the strings which introduce the movement.

There will be occasion later to discuss in detail Mr. Reiner as a conductor and programs that are varied and highly modern in general context, and the tastes of audiences which support and make profitable Summer seasons of thirty-two symphony concerts for which the seats cost twenty-five cents apiece.

The performance last night was one of singular impressiveness, an earnest of the quality of concerts of which the reputation is rapidly spreading. Concerts, indeed, which must be accredited with a special distinction in the musical development of the United States.

Homer in Third With Combs On Starts Hugginsians on Way to 6-4 Victory.

JONES LASTS TILL EIGHTH

By HARRY CROSS.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, July 8.—Babe Ruth and the heat were the leading topics of conversation here this afternoon. When he slammed out a home run in the third with Combs aboard, the baseball population here found it difficult to believe that Ruth had ever been sick. Ruth's big bang did much in encouraging the Yanks to beat the Browns, 6 to 4.

It was so hot in the ball park that the peanuts were badly burned before the fans could eat them. Ice has taken on the same value as uncut diamonds.

Besides losing the ball game, the Browns collectively lost 50 pounds. The Yanks lost plenty of tonnage, too. That was enough to lose for one day, so they hung on to the ball game tightly.

Melancholy Sam Jones lasted until the eighth, when the Browns started to get way with him, and Urban Shocker came to his relief. Shocker's sore finger isn't itself yet, and Waite Hoyt had to come in and save the situation. Dixie Davis, who is usually bad news to the Yanks, couldn't hold them today, and the revival of Ruth in the third took much of the gumption out of the St. Louis deceiver.

The Yanks were so pleased at winning the game that they may go out tomorrow and try to win another. They're liable to do it, too, if the spirit moves them.

Miss a Chance in First.

The Yanks passed up a sweet chance to score in the first. Dugan and Combs singled and a walk to Ruth filled the bases with no one out. Meusel hoisted a fly to short centre and Gehrig hit into a double play.

After Dugan had fouled to Dixon in the third, Earl Combs belted a triple between centre and right. Ruth brought forth the plaudits of the crowd when he hammered a home run against the scoreboard in left where the bang automatically hung up a big 2 in the run column.

Just before he hit his homer Ruth hoisted a high foul near the left field line. Williams intentionally let the ball fall without trying to catch it, so that Combs could not score on the sacrifice fly. It looked like smart baseball at the time, but didn't look so keen when the Babe punctured the atmosphere with his seventh circuit smash of the season.

Joseph Dugan compiled nifty fielding in the St. Looey third. He romped far over to the bleachers in left and got Robertson's foul as it was about to kiss the wooden wall. After Davis got an infield hit, Rice larruped a high liner, which Dugan stabbed with one finger and doubled Davis off first. A fruitful inning for Dugan.

Errors Help Yanks to Two More.

St. Louis errors encouraged the Yanks toward another brace of runs in the fourth. Ward doubled to centre and went along on Bengough's sacrifice. Lamoltte fumbled Wanninger's roller and Ward counted. Jones pushed Pee Wee along with a sacrifice, and when Robertson missed Dugan's grounder Wanninger hopped lightly over the plate.

The Browns harvested a unit in the fourth. With one gone Sisler singled to right, went to second on Williams's out and scored when McManus tapped a double close to the left field foul line.

Bengough singled in the sixth with one out, went to second on Wanninger's out, took third on Davis's wild pitch and scored on Sam Jones's stunning two-base spank against the left field barricade.

The Browns got one for a change in the seventh. Sam Jones suddenly became wild and walked McManus. Jacobson doubled to right, sending Mac to third. He scored on a sacrifice fly by Bennett, who went up to pinch hit in place of Dixon.

With Van Gilder pitching in the eighth, Lou Gehrig sent the ball into the deepest corner of centre field for a three-bagger. With a bit more alertness, the Columbia boy could have made the circuit. After Ward fanned, Veach batted in place of Bengough and drew an intentional pass. Ernie Johnson, batting for Wanninger, singled to right and scored Gehrig. Veach was out trying to stretch his way to third.

The Browns Become Menacing.

The Browns unraveled a dangerous looking rally in the eighth, but it was squelched before too much danger ensued. Rice doubled to right and went along on Lamotte's out at first. Sisler's single to centre scored Rice. That was the end of Sam Jones, and Shocker, who had been laid up with an injured hand, went to the mound.

Williams flied to Meusel and McManus hit to left sending Sisler to third. Jacobson was safe on Johnson's fumble, Sisler scoring. Hargraves batted for Rego and Shocker walked him, filling the bases. Huggins then yanked Shocker out of the game and sent in Hoyt. Hoyt pitched one ball to Robertson and he grounded out to Gehrig.

WIFE DENIES MATTY HAS HAD A RELAPSE

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—Reports widely circulated today that Christy Mathewson, President of the Boston National League Baseball Club, had suffered a relapse and was in a serious condition were branded as "absolutely untrue" tonight by the wife of the former baseball star.

"There is no foundation in reports of his serious illness," Mrs. Mathewson said. "You can quote me as saying that these reports are absolutely untrue." Mrs. Mathewson said that her husband has been visiting at Saranac Lake at various times for treatment during the last five years.

PIPP RESTS COMFORTABLY.

Condition of Yankee First Baseman at St. Vincent's Improving.

Wally Pipp, the veteran first baseman of the Yankees, who is in St. Vincent's Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain as a result of being hit on the head by a pitched ball in batting practice Thursday morning, was resting comfortably last night. The nurse in charge said that Pipp was improving but could not say when he would be able to leave the hospital. Babe Ruth was a patient in St. Vincent's for several weeks following his return from the Spring training trip suffering from a breakdown.

Pickups and Putouts

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, July 8.—The advent of Shocker brought forth a chorus of merry jeers and when Urban failed to stem the tide the fans doubled their efforts. Shocker laughed it off with a tip of his cap.

It looks as if Herbert Pennock and Joe Bush would exchange compliments tomorrow.

When one mentions the fact to a native St. Louisan that it is hot, they come right back with that old one about, "Oh, this isn't hot. We don't take off our coats until the sun starts to blister the paint on the houses."

Ruth looked something like his old self at the bat today. The rhythm of his swing is returning and he is getting the weight of his body into his efforts.

Gehrig clouted one to centre field today which in actual yardage was the longest whack of the series. It went to deep centre, but he missed his chance to make the circuit.

N. Y. HITS DRENCH DETROIT FIREMEN

Local Department's Run-Making Apparatus Turns Back Invaders, 8-4, in First of Series.

15,000 BOYS SEE BLAZE

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

The Detroit Fire Department found a blaze that it couldn't extinguish until considerable damage had been done at the Yankee Stadium yesterday. Mayor Hylan, Mayor Smith of Detroit, high officials from both cities and 15,000 howling youngsters, who were impartial in their applause, were attracted by the conflagration which the New Yorkers started in the first inning. The blaze of base hits became so heavy that a second alarm was sent in by the Detroit fire fighters before the inning was over, but Pitcher Burrell, who came to Kayewaki's rescue, was unable to check the flames until New York had made enough runs to win. When the smoke of combat finally cleared away, the visitors from the West were found to be overcome in the first of the three-game series, 8 to 4.

Even a shower of rain that drenched the fire from the New York bats and many of the spectators before they could reach shelter failed to stop the red flame of runs that mounted higher and higher on the New York side of the score board. It held up proceedings for forty-five minutes and for a time it seemed as if the elements had come to the rescue of the visiting firemen, as the flood came in the middle of the third inning, which would not have made it an official fire. But the heavens at last decided to let Detroit wage its own battle and the struggle was resumed.

There was one casualty. Fireman John A. Welsing of New York Hook and Ladder Company 29 was hit by a pitched ball when he came to bat in the first inning and sustained a broken wrist. He received first aid treatment and then was taken to Bellevue Hospital in an ambulance.

Mayors Start Ceremonies.

Mayor Hylan and Mayor Smith started the ceremonies by making a majestic entry through the gate in centre field and marching with their most dignified tread across the diamond behind the Fire Department band. Both Mayors made themselves heard above the tumult of young America, impatient for the game to begin. They were finally spared, to their seats and Gillies started mowing down the Detroit batsmen as they came to the plate waving bats.

The blaze burst forth in the first inning. Maurer started the fireworks with a single off Kayewski, who answered the first alarm for Detroit, and then Welsing was hit on the wrist by a burning brand, forcing him to retire, but putting two men on base with none out. Kinsley poked out a single, filling the sacks, and then Buckley started the real damage with another scorching drive that sent two New York runners across the plate. Seger sacrificed his own safety in order to help two comrades along, and both scored when McGovern rocketed a hit to left.

At this juncture a second alarm was sent in and Pitcher Burrell answered the call, taking up where Kayewski had left off, badly damaged. Burrell curbed the flames by striking out two of the next three batters to face him without further mishap on the bases, but it was only a temporary cessation of the conflagration, and the New York blaze burst forth afresh in the second when Kinsley poked out a home run to deep centre field with Beatty on base, bringing in two more runs.

After that Burrell had the situation pretty well under control. In the fourth inning New York pushed over two more runs on a base on balls and two singles, but enough damage already had been done and a little more didn't matter.

Gillies Checks Detroiters.

In the meantime Gillies was checking every attempt that Detroit made toward recovering the lost property. He allowed only eight hits, but these blows were grouped in three innings, and the Westerners managed to get back four of the runs that they thought burned forever. Two of them came in the second on four successive hits, the first two of which were doubles, and the other two came in the seventh on three singles and a sacrifice.

But most of the time Gillies rushed in strongest where the smoke was thickest, and eight other brave New York firefighters gave him errorless support. In five of the nine innings only three Detroit batsmen stepped to the plate. Twice Gillies walked the first man to face him, but each time a lightning double play followed, quelling the threatened outbreak. In the sixth Thomas started a rally with a double, but he never got further around than third, as Burkley came tearing in to take care of Fisette's fly, Gillies fanned Koleato and Licht's whistling drive to short was grabbed up and the runner tossed out at first.

So it went. The New York firemen plunged in when danger was nigh and killed off Detroit attempts to kindle a little light for themselves. Even when the Westerners had things going nicely in the second inning a double play brought a sudden end to the progress they were making. Again in the seventh, with men perched on second and third, a perfect throw from Burkley in centre field headed off a run temporarily, although Burrell came through with a sharp drive to the same sector in an attempt to win his own game, but it was a hopeless cause.

British and American College Track Stars Visit President Coolidge at Swampscott

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 8 (AP).—College athletes of two nations, preparing here for the international track meet at the stadium on Saturday, interrupted their training today long enough to pay a visit to President Coolidge at the Summer White House at Swampscott. It was agreed late that the Harvard-Yale and Oxford-Cambridge squads again would work out together tomorrow in order that the men might become better acquainted.

Since the English team arrived Sunday, there had been little time for fraternizing and Captain Douglas Lowe and his teammates had no opportunity to improve their acquaintance with their American rivals. Although both squads have made their headquarters at Swampscott they had their meals apart and worked at the stadium at different hours.

Tomorrow, before the afternoon practice, there will be a luncheon for the combined squads at the Harvard Club in Boston. On Friday the English athletes will go to Braves Field to see a game of the Boston-Cinnati series. Most of the Englishmen have seen baseball games at home but they are looking forward to seeing a major league contest. After Saturday's meet, which will start at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, there will be a combined dinner at the new Ocean House at Swampscott where medals will be awarded.

The scoring system will be the same as in past meets. The team getting the largest number of first places will be the winner. If the first places are evenly divided, which is more than a possibility this year, the greatest number of seconds will determine the result.

The Englishmen will be handicapped by the fact that Arthur Porritt of Oxford, their star sprinter, and his teammate E. H. Campbell, quarter miler, will not land in this country until the day before the meet. They are due in New York on Friday, and will have practically no chance for a workout on land.

ATHLETICS DIVIDE TWO WITH INDIANS

Lose Opener by 14-3 Score, but Take Second Game, 7-5—Uhle Knocked From Mound.

CLEVELAND, July 8 (AP).—Cleveland and Philadelphia broke even in a double header here today, the Indians winning the first game, 14 to 3, and losing the second, 7 to 5. Four Philadelphia pitchers were hit hard in the opener, the Indians scoring ten runs in the fifth inning.

The Athletics drove Uhle from the box in the third inning of the second game. Byron Speece held the visitors scoreless after that inning.

BOSTON, July 8 (AP).—Boston's winning streak of five games was broken today when the St. Louis Cardinals scored five runs in the early innings and won, 5 to 4. Mails shut out the Braves until the ninth, when a four-run rally started by pinch hitters fell one short. Two brilliant stops by Bell in this same inning saved Mails from defeat.

Manager Rogers Hornsby was in uniform after being laid up with a leg injury, but did not get into the game.

MARCONI FINISHES SECOND

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Mad Play added the seventeenth running of the Empire City Handicap to his fine string of victories this season when he cantered home in front of four others in the featured number of the opening day's card at the Empire City course at Yonkers yesterday afternoon. The chestnut son of Fair Play and Madcap gained added glory by his impressive victory and added $7,100 to the coffers of the Rancocas Stable. Shouldering the heavy burden of 129 pounds and conceding from twenty-seven to thirty-one pounds to his opponents, Mad Play won with the greatest ease, running the mile and a quarter in 2:08 flat over a sloppy track.

Laverne Fator had the mount on Mad Play, who likes the mud better than does his older brother, Mad Hatter, and who did not seem to mind his crushing impost. He was under double wraps for most of the journey, took command when let out a bit and won eased up. It was an extremely popular victory and the great crowd which turned out despite the inclemency of the weather cheered horse and jockey when they came back to the scales thoroughly plastered with mud. The winner was the odds-on favorite. He opened at 1 to 3, went to 2 to 5 and was backed to 7 to 20 at post time. It was Mad Play's fifth stake victory of the season, his others in order having been the Long Beach, Floral Park, Brooklyn and Queens County Handicaps.

It was not an auspicious opening for the twenty-day Summer meeting of the Empire City Racing Association. There were intermittent showers at the pretty race course on the hilltop, beginning shortly after midday. These increased, and for the last half of the afternoon's racing the track was sloppy. Those who braved the showers and followed form were well rewarded, as four favorites won. Three, however, were at odds on.

Rain Before Big Race.

There was a heavy downpour just before the bugle called the horses to the post for the Empire City Handicap, and the track, which had been soaking up a lot of rain, became sloppy. Mad Play had the post of honor in the parade and also drew the post position on the inner rail for the start, a sixteenth beyond the turn into the homestretch. H. P. Whitney's Reminder was outside him, with James Butler's Bright Steel at No. 3, the Belair Stud's Marconi at No. 4 and the Log Cabin Stud's Resolution, an added starter, on the outside.

The field was at the post only two minutes, and Mars Cassidy sent them away to an excellent start. Mad Play was away running and was the first to show in front. Fator took him under double wraps, easing him back for the half-mile run down the homestretch. The others closed over on the rail, so that Mad Play was soon running last, with Reminder in front of him, but on the outside.

Marconi went into the lead at the paddock turn, with Reminder lapped on him. Fator looked for a chance to get through, but found no opening and elected to save ground by holding the rail at the expense of position. Straightened out down the backstretch, Reminder took command, with Marconi lapped on him all the way.

Fator now let Mad Play run a bit and he quickly closed up on the leaders and at the far turn was lapped on Marconi, whose head was at Reminder's throatlatch. Bright Steel was some three lengths back, leading Resolution by two lengths. The race was decided around the final turn, where Mad Play just walked away from the others, opening up three lengths on Marconi.

Mad Play Coasts Home.

Down the homestretch Mad Play was merely galloping, with Fator just sitting still and coasting to the winning post. At the end he eased his mount to a canter. Mad Play winning by two lengths. Marconi had only a head advantage over Bright Steel. Reminder stopped after his first burst of speed and trailed the field at the end, a length behind Resolution. The fractional times of the race were as follows: :0:24, 0:50, 1:14 2-5, 1:41, 2:08. Mad Play conceded twenty-seven pounds to Marconi, twenty-nine to Bright Steel and thirty-one to Reminder, while Resolution was in receipt of thirty-seven pounds.

General J. A. Buchanan's four-year-old gelding Mungo, which hadn't been out since he won the Olympic Claiming Stakes at the Jamaica meeting, made it two straight victories in as many starts when he easily accounted for the Vulcain Claiming Handicap, a dash of about six furlongs for three-year-olds and upward, in a field of nine.

WORTHY HARVESTER SURPRISES IN TROT

TENNIS ALSO AN UPSET

CLEVELAND, July 8 (AP).—Under a masterful drive by Marvin Childs of Omaha, Worthy Harvester, an outsider in the betting today, defeated Gordon Dillon, odds-on favorite, in the Fasig Sweepstakes, first race for three-year-old trotters in the Grand Circuit this season. The gelding took the first and third heats, the second going to Gordon Dillon, which led all the way. The favorite tired in the other heats.

After making a break in the first heat and trailing far out of it for a quarter of a mile, Driver W. S. Garrison sent him to the front, Gordon Dillon trotting the last half in 1:02 3-5 and finishing third only heads behind Worthy Harvester and Lucille Wright.

Tennis, driven by Tom Berry of Flemington, N. H., furnished another upset when he defeated Dr. Strongworthy, odds-on favorite in the 2:12 trot, in straight heats.

The Junior Drivers' race, the secondary feature, developed into the prettiest racing of the North Randall meeting. The boys, relatives of Grand Circuit drivers, kept their horses well bunched, the event going to Czarina Gale, driven by Eugene Edman, son of Fred Edman, after three heats.

Norman Grattan and Lily the Great made it a double victory for the meeting by winning the 2:12 and 2:10 pace, respectively. It was the first start of Norman Grattan for James Gleason of Williamsport, Pa., who purchased him this week at a price reported at approximately $10,000.

Announcement was made that W. T. Crozier of Hartford, Conn., had been suspended for the remainder of the meeting.

Bowling and rifle have been dropped from the list of recognized minor sports at Yale, according to an announcement made tonight by H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic Association. The athletic authorities have decided to discontinue them, Mr. Woodcock said, because competition is by telegraph and the keen interest manifest in the other nineteen branches of sport under the jurisdiction of the Athletic Association is lacking for that reason.

This means Yale's withdrawal from the Intercollegiate Bowling Association. There is no association of university rifle teams of which Yale is a member.

Post and Paddock

It is seldom that an opening day goes by without the white silks with cherry sash, sleeves and cap showing in front. Mr. Butler had a starter in five of the six races, but got only one second and two thirds.

All tracks look alike to Mad Play. He is a chestnut, the favored color for the get of Fair Play. He will undoubtedly go to the stud at the Rancocas Farm when his racing days are over.

Among the many turf notables who turned out were Colonel Matt J. Winn and Colonel Andrew J. Vennie of the Kentucky Jockey Club.

John J. McGraw was the most prominent among the baseball delegtion and Al Jolson among the theatrical lights.

There was an unusual, though not unique, happening in the Empire City Handicap. Frank Kelly had named Sleepy Head as an added starter and then scratched him again when the rain came. It was carrying the unpopular practice of adding starters and scratching to the ridiculous limit.

HOLMAN IS VICTOR; PUTS OUT SHIMIZU

Yale Player Downs Ingraham—Tilden and Wiener Win and Miss Browne Advances.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 8 (AP).—Cranston Holman, California, eliminated Zenzo Shimizu, former Japanese Davis Cup star, in the third round of the men's singles at the Rhode Island lawn tennis championships, Agawam Hunt Club, this afternoon after a gruelling three-set battle, 6—6, 2—6, 6—4.

The Westerner outlasted the Japanese, broke through the latter's service in the ninth game of the third set to take a lead of 5—4 and polished off his opponent in the next game, allowing him only one point. A shot from Holman's racquet which struck the top of the net and rolled over on the Japanese's side of the court ended the struggle.

The courts were wet from a morning of rain, which held up play until 3:30 in the afternoon, and the going was not to the liking of many of the players. Shimizu, who was bothered by the low-bounding balls, was outsteadied by Holman. T. Harada, the only Japanese remaining in the singles, won an impressive 6—3, 6—1 victory over Josiah Wheelwright of Boston.

Mrs. Elizabeth Corbiere of Southboro, Mass., gave Miss Mary K. Browne of California, who is second in the national ranking, a score in the third round of the women's singles and the latter was lucky to win in two straight sets, 6—3, 9—7. Miss Eleanor Goss of New York also had difficulty defeating Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., the defending Rhode Island State champion, 6—1, 7—5. Miss Browne plays Miss Goss and Mrs. Molla Mallory meets Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup tomorrow afternoon in the semi-finals.

William T. Tilden and Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia were the only doubles team to reach the semi-finals bracket today. They defeated Sam Hardy, former Davis Cup team captain, and Thomas Sturgis, 6—3, 6—4, and then quickly disposed of Hillis and Stratford of California, the intercollegiate doubles champions, 6—2, 6—3.

Arnold Jones of Yale defeated W. W. Ingraham of Harvard, 7—5, 2—6, 6—1, and then the two joined hands in the doubles to win from the strong Boston team of Gardiner and Guild, 6—4, 6—1.

BOWMAN IS VICTOR IN N. Y. STATE PLAY

Lang, Martin and Von Bernuth Also Survive—Reid Advances on Syracuse Court.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 8 (AP).—Eight men remained in the running for the New York State tennis championship in singles when the last match was completed late today on the courts of the Sedgwick Farm Club after a day's program packed full of good tennis. Of the players seeded in the singles, only Tom Raleigh, Syracuse city champion, was eliminated today. Vanderbilt B. Ward, Syracuse; Kirk Reid, the champion from Cleveland; Jack Castle and Clifford Marsh of Buffalo, and Herbert L. Bowman, Paul Martin, Anton Von Bernuth and Jerome Lang, all representatives of metropolitan tennis, are the survivors.

Reid, Bowman and Von Bernuth were the only players to obtain straight set victories in the third round. The others all had to work overtime at top speed to hold their places.

Tom Raleigh fell before the good all-court game of Paul Martin of the University Heights Club, New York. Raleigh won the first set, 6—3, after a torrid struggle in which the turning point came in the seventh game, with the score 3-all. Raleigh was serving and the points ran a dozen times to deuce before he could take the game. Then he ran out the set in short order.

The final singles match of the afternoon was one of the most brilliant and distinctive of the whole day. Jerome Lang of Columbia University and John Van Ryn of East Orange fought it out through three hot sets. Lang has had more tournament experience than Van Ryn and that told in his favor. He won by 3-6, 6—3, 6—3.

Bowman won from Richard Lewis, former Princetonian, also in straight sets, as did Reid from J. K. Wilson. Bowman and Reid, as a team, won their second round match in the doubles with ease, disposing of Worthwein and Tracy by 6—2, 6—1.

The summaries:

Singles—Second Round—Kirk Reid defeated R. Haynes, 6—1, 6—0; J. K. Wilson defeated Worthwein, 6—3, 6—2; Clifford Marsh defeated Leonard W. Knox, 6—2, 2—6, 6—1; R. L. James defeated Theodore Marsh, 7—5, 6—2; Jerome Lang defeated L. W. Palmer, 6—4, 6—0; John Van Ryn defeated Harry Wolf, 6—4, 6—1; Anton Von Bernuth defeated Ted Weihsmiller, 6—1, 6—1; Herbert Lewis defeated Ed Garbisch, 6—2, 6—3; Herbert L. Bowman defeated Howard Barth, 6—2, 6—0; Richard Lewis won from J. Wyrmington by default; Thomas L. Raleigh defeated John Parr, 6—4, 6—1; Paul Martin defeated V. FULKERSON AND SON ARE TIED AT GOLF

Turn In an 81 in Long Island Play, but Knapp and His Son Have Same Score.

MYERS PAIR TAKES LOW NET

CEDARHURST, L. I., July 8.—Tying for the chief prize in Father and Son tournaments seems to be a popular pastime these golf days. Only a short time ago the Homanses and the Jameses were deadlocked for the metropolitan Father and Son trophy, and today the Knapps and the Fulkersons tied for the honors in the event sponsored by the Long Island Golf Association, which was held as a preamble to the junior championship which starts tomorrow over the Rockaway Hunting Club course.

Only two points at issue were decided here today. The Myers pair of Laurelton succeeded in carrying off the low net prize with the aid of a twenty-stroke handicap allowance on top of a very creditable score of 86, giving them a low net score of 66. This was three strokes less than the Fulkersons, less generously handicapped, were able to accomplish. The other decision reached was that the Hollinses, who won the tournament last year, were unable to repeat this year. Their 80 put them far out of the running for either the gross or the net prizes.

The card of the Myerses:

BOARD MAY SETTLE WALKER CASE TODAY

Will Question Champion's Plan to Meet Shade in Bout in California.

TO TAKE UP WILLS'S PAY

Boxing Commission to Decide If His Purse Shall Be Cut Five Per Cent.

Boxing matters of considerable moment are scheduled for decision today at the meeting of the State Athletic Commission. Whether Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, will be permitted to impose his will on Dave Shade, California challenger, and make Shade go to California for a bout for the title, and whether Harry Wills will be compelled to take a 5 per cent. decrease in the amount of his emolument for his recent bout with Charlie Weinert on the Italian Hospital Fund card, are scheduled for debate. These are the outstanding events on a calendar which also holds much of routine importance for this last meeting at which Chairman James A. Farley will preside for another fortnight.

Walker has been ordered before the commission for a discussion of the Shade challenge. Walker will be there alone or accompanied only by his former adviser, Joe Degnon. Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, will not be permitted at the meeting, because the commission, as a consequence of Kearns's ineligibility, refuses to deal directly with the new manager of the welterweight champion. Shade will be there with his manager, Leo P. Flynn, and it is expected that some definite agreement will be reached in regard to the long-awaited Walker-Shade match.

The Wills check situation presents a knotty problem to the commission. Secretary Dan Skilling yesterday announced receipt of the check, for the sum of $50,876, which was forwarded to the commission after Paddy Mullins refused to accept it because it represented but 15 per cent. of the fund bout receipts instead of the 20 per cent. for which Mullins signed on behalf of Wills.

GREENWICH GOLF ON TODAY

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 8.—One of the most brilliant fields of the season is expected to tee off at the Greenwich Country Club tomorrow for the qualifying round of the annual invitation tournament. Among the candidates for the Julian W. Curtiss Cup, said to be one of the handsomest trophies in existence, will be Jess W. Sweetser, former national champion, who recently captured the metropolitan golf crown; Lauren Upson, the University of California, star who came East for the intercollegiate and Canadian championships; W. H. Taft of Dartmouth, winner of the tournament last Summer; Richard A. Jones Jr. of Westchester Hills, Donald Bowman, winner of the interscholastic championship, and Larry M. Lloyd of Greenwich, runner-up for the metropolitan title.

CRICKET TEAMS IN DRAW.

Crescent A. C. and Columbia Oval Play an Even Match.

Good batting was the order of the day in the association cricket match between elevens of the Columbia Oval Cricket Club and the Crescent Athletic Club played yesterday at Pelham Bay Park, the result being a draw, slightly in favor of the Columbia Oval side, which was leading by 135 runs at against 108 for the loss of six wickets.

CROWD SEES WILLS OFF ON TRIP ABROAD

Negro Heavyweight Plans to Be Gone Six Weeks—Dempsey Leaves for Home.

Accompanied by his wife, Harry Wills, New Orleans negro contender for the world's heavyweight title, sailed for Europe on the Berengaria of the Cunard Line yesterday, leaving behind all worries about his pay for the Italian Hospital Fund bout with Charlie Weinert and thoughts of a title match with Champion Jack Dempsey. These responsibilities have been assigned to Paddy Mullins, manager of the man who is directly responsible for the elimination of Dempsey and the latter's manager, Jack Kearns, from participation in boxing in this State.

Wills will be gone for six weeks. He plans a four weeks' tour of Europe and intends to take the baths in France and Germany in an effort to rid himself of an inflammation of the right hand which, he said, was the result of an injury he suffered in his bout a year ago with Luis Angel Firpo. That he will not don a glove while abroad was the flat declaration made by Wills as he stood on the deck before the steamship left.

Wills and his wife are making the trip second class. A crowd of admirers swarmed on the pier to see the boxer off. Aboard ship Wills was the magnet for a great crowd, and before the steamship departed Wills smilingly posed for almost half an hour for photographers, who clicked stills and movies of him in various poses.

Jack Kearns was among the crowd which saw the Berengaria off, but, whether by design or accident, did not see Wills. The manager of Dempsey was on hand to wish bon voyage to Carl Laemmle, moving picture producer, and took occasion again to deny that he and Dempsey have severed business relations.

ROSENBERG OUTPOINTED.

JOCKEYING FOR THE MAYORALTY.

Mayor HYLAN has now added bootleggers and Tammany Hall to the list of his inveterate enemies. Soon the traction criminals may take second place in it. Information has evidently been conveyed to the Mayor that the Democratic organization will not renominate him. Primary petitions are already in circulation with his name not on them. But he told the City Hall reporters yesterday that he would run for the Mayoralty anyhow. "I will be there on election day, whatever happens." This may not mean ultimate defiance of Tammany; it may be only a preliminary threat. When Judge OLVANY declared that Tammany would not submit to dictation from the City Hall, the Mayor approved that attitude, saying that he never "interfered." Months ago he had gone to a Tammany meeting and vowed that he always had been, and ever would be, the most "regular" of Democrats. But all this was when he thought Tammany would take him for another term. The Mayor is not too devoted to consistency to alter when he alteration finds. So he has changed to the hectoring mood, and has allowed his imported jurist from Oregon to open up verbal assaults on Tammany and its leader.

Such attacks on "the organization" can have no effect except to make it close up its ranks and stiffen its discipline. A Tammany that would submit to menaces from the outside would think of itself as on the way to suicide. Tammany can endure defeat, but could not outlive abject surrender. Probably it will be more amused than terrified by the Mayor's threat of running independently, but even if it had to face a serious defection and a bitter contest, it could not hesitate when the very principle of its being was at stake. Its present attitude will doubtless be that the Mayor's announcement is only a move in a political game; and it will know how to make the appropriate countermove.

What we are witnessing today is the office of the Mayor of Greater New York being jockeyed for. The Democratic boss of Brooklyn is striving for a good position in the race, and party leaders in the other boroughs are keenly on the watch for an opening. It is an old political sport, but becomes no more inspiring with the lapse of time. Looked at as it really is, it can only be thought of as a disgrace to this metropolis. Here we have seven millions of people, constituting a very principality, with a population greater than that of any State in the Union except two or three, with revenues and expenditures approaching $400,000,000, with the most intricate and pressing civic and social problems to be solved, involving the comfort, the happiness and the future of a great multitude of men, women and children, yet the methods employed in selecting administrators of this vast public trust are much the same as would be used to pick out a leader for an Assembly district! That these things ought not so to be, every thoughtful and disinterested resident of this great city knows in his heart.

FEDERAL AND STATE COSTS.

General LORD invited, to some degree, the little lesson in verbal precision read to him by Governor SMITH at the conference in Maine. The Director of the National Budget Bureau repeatedly spoke as though the new agency were entitled to the main credit for the slashing of Federal costs by billions of dollars. No such claim was really in his mind, and his meaning would be mistaken only by the careless reader. But there are many careless readers. Governor SMITH is a sufficiently human Democrat to resent the impression that Republican economy in the space of three years after WOODROW WILSON cut Government outlay from more than five billion dollars to three billions.

A reduction from swollen war appropriations was inevitable under any Administration, as General LORD frankly admitted. Precisely because there was so much slack to be taken in, and automatic economies were bound to show impressive billions of dollars saved, the Government might be tempted not to draw the rope too tight. The Budget Bureau is an earnest of the determination at Washington to save all that can be saved. The fact that a return of the army and navy to the peace basis effected a saving of $1,100,000,000 is no reason for overlooking the chance to slice isolated millions and half-millions. Just as General LORD cannot mean that the Budget Bureau is primarily responsible for the huge slice in Federal expenditure, Governor SMITH cannot wish to be interpreted as sneering at the futility of budgets. He has been fighting too long for the very thing at Albany.

From the Governor's own analysis of Federal and State appropriations it appears that Washington has been doing well. Mr. SMITH finds that, eliminating Federal appropriations for interest on the national debt, the Shipping Board, railroad control, the Veterans' Bureau and other sequelæ of the war, the expenditures for what might be called the normal administrative functions of government have increased at Washington by 88 per cent. over 1914. During the same period appropriations at Albany have increased 106 per cent. The latter figure Governor SMITH obtains by eliminating State contributions for public schools and highways, which is fair enough, and service of the State debt, about which one is not so sure. The national debt is largely the result of war. A State debt comes closer to reflecting the normal activities of government.

If the Director of the Budget will speak of retrenchment from a war basis instead of implying retrenchment from a Democratic basis, Governor SMITH in turn should admit that savings have been effected beyond the mere liquidation of war conditions. His own figures show that out of a total of reported economies of $2,081,000,000 between 1921 and 1924, the war factor will account for $1,882,000,000, leaving a "maximum" of retrenchment of $198,000,000.

FRANCO-GERMAN COMMERCE.

There will be little surprise that Germany and France have postponed for two months their negotiations for a commercial treaty. For a year or more this project has been under discussion, but so intricate are the questions involved that progress has been slow. The most significant thing about the latest delay is that it amounts to an agreement not to disagree—that is, the two nations undertake not to make any drastic changes in tariffs, nor otherwise to interfere with the present temporary arrangements of trade intercourse until the discussions are resumed. Apparently there is a friendly feeling between the negotiators, coupled with a sincere desire to discover a basis for permanent cooperation.

At the root of the business is the desire to establish an understanding between French and German iron and steel industries. The formation of a Continental steel "bloc" would have far-reaching political as well as economic effects, and it is not to be wondered that the negotiations take time. The plan is bound up with the payment of reparations in kind, and also with the problem of security. Anything having to do with the control of steel and iron, and hence of arms and munitions, necessarily reacts on the military situation. France is naturally reluctant to make concessions which may strengthen Germany's capacity of production unless and until she is sure that she has adequate protection against possible German aggression. It is not improbable that the more satisfactory the security treaty, the greater will be France's liberality toward Germany in matters of trade.

In Germany as in France the steel and iron industry is divided into two camps. One group in each country has favored close cooperation amounting to the formation of a huge cartel, organized on strictly economic bases with little regard to boundaries. The other has been opposed to such sweeping provisions and has sought instead to reach an agreement for the exchange of raw materials. This is the less ambitious program, as it means, in effect, little more than restoring the interflow of materials which formerly were in the hands of the Germans. It has been estimated that France now has some 4,000,000 tons a year of surplus iron ore to dispose of. Germany is buying ore from Scandinavia and seeking it elsewhere throughout the world, including Brazil. France, on the other hand, needs large quantities of coke each year, despite the coal resources which she possesses in her northern departments. The Ruhr coal has always been particularly useful for coking purposes. During the last year France has been receiving some of it as a payment in kind.

That the French ores and German coal will in the end get together again seems inevitable. Access to cheap fuel is usually the determining factor in the location of steel and iron works. The ore from the great open mines above Duluth is transported to Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania for manufacture. So in Europe it is easier, as a rule, to carry the ore to the coal than to reverse the process. In due time, to be sure, the development of electrical appliances may change this. Already the French plan to utilize water power and build large transmission lines. That, however, is a development hardly to be consummated till after a number of years.

TAXATION CONVERTS.

There seems to be almost a "craze"—at least on paper and in interviews—for cutting down taxes. In all parts of the country public men are announcing their firm purpose to slash, equalize, rearrange, abolish and otherwise maltreat Federal taxes. And the surprising or amusing thing is that some of these statesmen were a little while ago violently opposed to doing anything of the kind. Perhaps the chief Saul among these prophets is Senator COUZENS of Michigan. As if supposing that people had conveniently forgotten his controversies with Secretary MELLON, and his long fight against the Mellon plan, he now comes forward with projects of his own much more drastic than anything the Secretary of the Treasury had ventured to urge in 1923. However, he is a welcome accession to the mourners' bench. As Senator PEPPER remarks, we can't have too many who are agitating for the reduction of taxation.

Whether these changes of heart indicate a change of economic conviction, it is a bit doubtful. Nor is there any certainty that the eminent converts have been by "bravery's gravitation drawn." They saw the President, it is true, standing up resolutely for what he believed the sound policy, whether Congress would hear or forbear, but it was not until they perceived how popular Mr. COOLIDGE's course had been that they joined the rush to get on the band-wagon of lower taxes. What it has been conclusively shown that the people desire, a Congressman, especially if he is soon coming up for re-election, at once desires to give them.

Yet it must not be assumed that the fight is won. While some Senators have seen a great light, others remain in the gall of bitterness. Senator CAPPER, for example, has lately been arguing that the income-tax returns prove Secretary MELLON to have been entirely mistaken, and that the higher the surtax the larger will be the revenue. Besides, it is doubtful if all the slow pupils among the Democratic Senators have yet learned their political lesson. Judicious and scientific tax reduction at the next session of Congress is by no means assured. But, after what has happened, Congressmen will be ashamed to bring forward again all the discredited arguments of a year ago. They will have minds more open—at least to the extent of admitting that if tax reduction is highly popular, then they are for it.

WHY WE LOVE DR. FELL.

I do not love thee, Doctor FELL;
The reason why I cannot tell,
But this I'm sure I know full well,
I do not love thee, Doctor FELL.

"TOM" BROWN'S epigram, a parody of an English parody of one of MARTIAL'S, has curiously preserved in many memories the name of a once famous seventeenth century Dean of Christ Church and Bishop of Oxford. According to the legend, the Dean, a disciplinarian and reformer, was going to expel undergraduate "TOM" for those "irregular habits" which were his regular habits all his life. "TOM" ate humble pie; and the Dean said he would pardon him on condition of translating extempore MARTIAL'S gibe at SABIDIUS. With all respect, that won't wash. JOHN FELL entered Christ Church at 11. As Dean he insisted on compulsory attendance at lectures. He was a "person of great morals and virtues"; exactly the kind of person to be objectionable to "TOM," a persistent satirist, whose hot head sometimes got his heels cooled in jail. He was an amusing, if somewhat crude, Bohemian. In due time he wrote Bishop FELL'S epitaph. No doubt he thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity and the subject.

Probably the epitaph was written in that boozing-ken in the Minories which was long his capital. FELL was a great restorer and builder. Even more than at the stately commemoration the other day of the quadricentennial of WOLSEY'S foundation, we should have liked to be present at the smaller subsequent praise-meeting in honor of JOHN FELL and his great and various benefactions to the university. We have been fond of the old chap ever since we read EVELYN'S account of his preaching before the King "in "blank verse, according to his man-"ner." Even those of us who are but scanty worshipers of sermons, except by radio, would be attracted by that manner. And now we have a trade reason for loving Doctor FELL. The Dictionary of National Biography tells us, but only cursorily and without detail, of his services to the University Press and to printing at Oxford. A well-informed correspondent of The London Times calls him "the second founder" of that famous press.

He not only regained privileges which it had surrendered, but he gave it the material equipment which it needed after the distresses of the Civil War and the Commonwealth. He sent a man to Holland to buy type. He and his friends spent £4,000—a mastodon of money in those days—in "furnishing an Imprimery with all the "necessaries thereof." Though Dutch in its source, FELL'S type "is remarkably like the type in general use in "seventeenth century Europe, and it "seems to have been the model for "those cast by CASLON half a century "later, which have been claimed by "Englishmen as a product of national "art. It has been noticed, moreover, "that the lovely Fell 'flowers' are "virtually identical with printers' or-"naments used in Italy in the six-"teenth century." FELL'S types are unique "at least in England." They are older than any other English printer than the University Press can command:

They are besides immortal. The actual types, indeed, are quite modern; you may see an agile veteran casting them any day in a corner of the Press Quadrangle in Walton Street. But FELL was not content to buy a perishable type; he bought also the matrices from which the types are cast, and even the hard steel "poncheons" with which the matrices are struck. These punches and matrices fell into disuse in the course of the eighteenth century; but fortunately they survived the removal, about 1830, from the Clarendon Building to Walton Street. There, after a century and a half of oblivion, they were discovered, collected, classified and put in operation by HORACE HART, Printer to the University, with whose zeal and learning their revival will always be connected. With his name will be associated the names of DANIEL, Provost of Worcester, and Dr. ROBERT BRIDGES, whose interest and enthusiasm encouraged HART to laborious research and heavy expense.

So every friend of printing does love thee, Doctor FELL. Thou art immortal at Oxford. The Poet Laureate has helped revive thy laurels. The ancient in that corner of Press Quadrangle, him too we salute. Oxford can't be too "Old World" or stick too long to handsetting. Justice to Doctor FELL, however, doesn't imply that we have any crow to pick with "TOM" BROWN.

WOMEN WHO FAIL.

Speaking at Dallas before the Federation of Professional Business and Women's Clubs, its national Vice President listed nine reasons why women fail. It is a formidable array. Upon serious contemplation the marvel grows that any women succeed—if any do. There is only one ray of hope. With possibly a single exception, it is precisely for the same reason that men fail. If male and female are sunk in the slough of despond, at least they are there together.

Women, it appears, lack seriousness, lack vision, lack initiative. Also, they lack outside interests. It would be difficult to picture more vividly a cerebral region with nobody home. It seems scarcely necessary to add that women lack confidence in other women, even that modicum of tolerance which is needful to cooperative effort. Nature's abhorrence of vacuums is a mild and negligible phenomenon when compared with the way one vacuum abhors another. And withal women lack self-control. It is the marvel of the ages, obviously, that they form clubs, convene in national conference, and hear what they are from the lips of their Vice President without rising in tumult and riot.

The ninth reason why women fail is that they use too much rouge. Herein, it appears, lies man's only indisputable title to superiority. It would be a hardy champion of his sex who claimed for it high vision and eager initiative combined with a catholic outlook upon the interests of other men, or the broad faith in humankind that begets tolerance and self-control in cooperation. He would be nonplused in finding one example that did not fade into insignificance when compared with the forbearance of the women at Dallas who did not mob their Vice President. But it is otherwise with rouge. Since the days of the dandies, men have not used it too much or at all. The cheeks of the bilious are sallow without shame. The blue lips of the heart-depressed know no inspiriting fleck of carmine. Toddy blossoms burgeon untouched by poudre de riz.

Possibly an injustice was done to Miss FLORENCE SANDS by the brief report of her speech. In such a presence she can scarcely have ignored the "vision" of the suffragists and their power of successful cooperation. Nor can she have forgotten the invasion of industry by so many accurate and indefatigable secretaries, so many original and masterly executives. And it must be admitted that, if the object is a permanent business career, much feminine adornment is out of place. But is that the object? Bobbed hair and skirts of precisely the right length have a way of reminding one of eloquent, if crude, notices of Cupid's Messenger which end with "Object Matrimony."

RETIREMENT FOR AGE.

Lord DERBY'S announcement as Chancellor of Liverpool University that all its professors are to be asked to retire at 65 makes more than a local disturbance. The shock is felt throughout university circles in the British Isles, and also touches with disagreeable tremors throughout the whole globe the sound intellects of those whose years are in the neighborhood of 65. To impute incapacity to a man in the realm of the intellect simply because of age, and so to condemn him to idleness and atrophy, is to rob the race of its best counsel and the choicest fruits of experience.

Life is becoming so complicated that the years of apprenticeship are ever longer and harder, so that we are exhausted ere we become master workmen in our craft, as has been said by Dr. G. STANLEY HALL, who wrote with a greater discernment than CICERO concerning old age. Then there comes the "rapid age turnover" at the other end. As a result mankind in general in the modern world is not "grown up." In ancient times the public usually went to old men for counsel, and, if things turned out badly for a people, it was generally recorded that it was because they had not followed their counsel. In some cases it was put affirmatively, because they "followed the counsel of young men." An American philosopher, looking out over history from the summit of his years, charges the blunders which make up so large a part of history to immaturity. What with prolonging intellectual coddling at the one end and cutting off intellectual contribution and counsel at the other, the grain does not come to full ripeness before it is harvested.

In challenge of the Earl of DERBY'S ruthless decree, an answer, as old as PLATO'S, contends for age that since it is in more earnest and competent quest of first principles than is ingenuous youth, it is performing the highest function of the intellect, having withdrawn from the specific and particular toward the "vastness and generality of the absolute." A philosopher of more modern speech insists that never has the world been "in such need of Nestors and Merlins," never in such need of the wisdom which mere specialized learning alone cannot give, never so much in need of true supermen who "are old, "very old, with the sapience that "long life alone can give" as to the latent value of things beneath the patent value. There is "a new dis-"pensation at the door which only "graybeards can usher in." We have in America a hale example of the new idea of old age in a great teacher who despite the "curse of fatigability" continues to give wise counsel at a quarter of a century beyond the years at which the Earl of DERBY would have professors barred from teaching.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Poor Case Made a Fine One.

Having made at Dayton the carefully prepared "entrance" which, as the natural-born actor he is, Mr. BRYAN so much enjoys, he found himself at home and thoroughly happy. Congenial people met and welcomed him—people who think as he does and were glad to give him credit for being a great as well as a good man.

Dayton brought back old times to his mind—times when he spoke with authority to docile followers and rarely had to speak more than once. On the familiar stage again, he proceeded to exude oratory. He revealed how logical and judicial is his mentality by changing the issue in the case he has undertaken. Such a simple question as whether a high-school teacher has violated a Tennessee statute was not enough to satisfy him. Knowing his auditors, he had no hesitation in telling them that not the unimportant SCOPES was to be tried, but evolution, and the verdict was to decide whether evolution or Christianity was to survive.

So for Mr. BRYAN it was an almost perfect day. All who heard him agreed enthusiastically with his words, and reporters to take them down and spread them abroad were numerous.

The one flaw in the otherwise perfect crystal was made by a fiend in not too human form who intruded in the Bryan procession a wagon covered with placards lauding Tampa real estate! That in itself was shameless, particularly as nobody had been thoughtful enough to overwhelm the Tampa plotter by providing several larger vans preaching the true realtor doctrine—that Miami is a heaven on earth and that lots there double in value regularly over every night.

That other cart was a shameless evolutionist's trick, worthy of its origin. Tampa, indeed! A town on the wrong side of Florida—a mere clutter of cigar factories sitting in the sand!

He Meant What He Said.

Didn't EVANGELINE BOOTH take dangerous chances when, in the letter printed on this page yesterday, she wrote that "SOLOMON could not have meant, literally, a stick" when he said that to spare the rod was to spoil the child?

When one remembers the multitude of parents, in many countries and through many generations, who never had a single doubt that the Wisest Man did mean a literal stick, and not a metaphorical "rod of correction, reproof, reason and discipline, applied firmly, kindly and justly from the cradle up," it hardly is possible to escape the conviction that her interpretation of the text has no basis except that she wants it to mean something compatible with her own judgment of what is wise.

Her syllogism seems to have been something like this: The beating of children is wrong; SOLOMON, having been the wisest of men, would not have advised an indefensible policy in the bringing up of children; so his words meant the opposite of their apparent meaning.

It is not recorded how many children SOLOMON had, but they must have been numerous enough to make it highly probable that he would have used the simplest method of keeping them in order.

It was little longer ago than yesterday that any parent doubted his or her right to beat children at discretion. Even now Magistrate GRAMATAN is far from being alone in holding to the almost unlimited exercise of that ancient privilege. And, as the human race somehow has managed to survive it, the effects cannot have been so terrible as some of its present-day opponents assert. Indeed, parents incapable of the better procedures advised by Mrs. BOURNE hardly can avoid the infliction of occasional whippings, and it is a great consolation for them to have SOLOMON'S warrant for the rod.

Copyright Laws Are Queer.

Some of the many questions to be considered by the Committee on Copyright Revision are described as delicate and difficult. They involve reconciliation of conflicting interests and must be answered without much direct help from precedent, since they arise from inventions made since the prevailing copyright principles were established. But there would be no problem if it were not for the fact that not so many years ago there was no recognition at all of a property right in a literary, artistic or musical production.

The admission of such a right has been slow and grudging. Authors and composers—artists of every sort—have had to fight hard for admission that their work is even a little like other work in creating a value that belongs to themselves and to nobody else. Even now there is no serious thought of granting permanent ownership to the artist any more than to the inventor.

The latest of copyright quarrels has been due to the assumption on the part of broadcasting managers that they could take for nothing anything they wanted to use. They make the absurd contention that there is no profit for them in these appropriations—that with noble disinterestedness they are giving to the public what is good for it to have, and that the public pays nothing. These statements are all grotesquely false, but for a while they were made with surprising solemnity as if they obviously were true.

That position has been abandoned by the broadcasters now, or at least considerably modified. In time they will have to do their business in a business-like way, paying for what they take, and finding out some device for making their customers pay for what they want, as they should, directly instead of indirectly.

Precaution Against a Ghost!

A brief dispatch from Mexico, Mo., yesterday, stated that a county court there has decided that a negro convicted of murder should not be hanged in a convenient barn, as the authorities had proposed, but in an enclosed back yard, near the jail. The reason given was the almost incredible one—incredible, that is, as coming from a court—that if the sentence of the law were executed in a barn, the structure henceforth would be haunted by the murderer's ghost.

There the information now available ends, but it is not necessary to assume that the decision implies that the court believes in ghosts. It may only believe that it is a nuisance to have in a town a barn where the eyes of superstition can see a ghost, as such eyes undoubtedly can whenever they look hard enough and with sufficient faith.

A yard, though hauntable, is not quite so easily hauntable as a barn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our city, I know, is full of kindness and philanthropy. Anybody, anywhere, who thinks differently doesn't know New York. But, with all the good work that is being done, it strangely happens that one of the very greatest needs thus far has been entirely overlooked. I refer to the serious problem that faces elderly men in respect to getting employment.

I have such a case in mind now—an educated, well-bred man, slightly over 60, in good health, clean morally and of upright commercial and personal record, who lately through no fault of his own lost his business connection. He answers advertisements, he walks our streets day after day looking for work, yet he constantly meets the heart-breaking verdict, "You are too old."

He tells me that he will take any job, no matter at what wages—not that he is indifferent to money, but because he feels that, after all, his great need is not to continue to sacrifice his self-respect and even his standing in his own home by not being able to find something or other to do because he is "too old."

This ban against elderly people is one of the most cruel pieces of thoughtless savagery under the sun. The men of whom I speak are not objects of charity. They are high-minded and self-respecting. All they ask is what all normal men of whatever age regularly ask—an opportunity to support themselves by honest work.

The President and Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since one of your correspondents has intimated that there exists some thought of politics in the Presidential mind, or that politics is not wholly excluded in the joys of a Summer vacation, Mr. Ralph S. Bauer has taken you to task in order to demonstrate that President Coolidge never thinks about politics except when engaged in a political campaign.

Of course, Mr. Bauer is quite right and your correspondent altogether wrong; but Mr. Bauer makes this statement, which is a bit startling, to say the least:

"I believe if Senator Lodge had held the New England delegation together, as he could have done at the Chicago convention, and had been loyal to the then Governor Coolidge, there would have been no doubt about Calvin Coolidge having been elected (sic) President at the Chicago convention."

Mr. Bauer then quotes Senator Lodge that he (Mr. Bauer) "did not understand national politics," whereupon Mr. Bauer adds:

"I admit this to be so."

If this admission be admitted, I fear some of your readers will persist in giving your correspondent the benefit of the doubt, if any such may arise.

WOODS IN SUMMER.

When Summer marks the city street
With limping prints of listless feet
In asphalt, and the flower beds,
Before her challenge, bow their heads;
When Summer dries the country way
And paints the pink wild roses gray
With dusty pigments, beckoning
Near by, the woods remember Spring.

The Summer's hot hands cannot break
The barricade that birches make;
Her sultry shoulders cannot push
Past maple clump and alder bush;
While twining tendrils weave a screen
Of ferns she may not force between
To parch the chickadees that sing—
The restful woods remember Spring.

Green mosses cherish tender rain
That fell last week, and green vines stain
'Twixt hemlock root, in boulder cleft;
Great green frogs glisten, sleek and cool,
Beside a greenly quiet pool;
And ruthless Summer cannot bring Regret—the woods remember Spring.

TO BUILD UP IRELAND.

An Appeal to Cultivate the Nation's Constructionists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A comparison of the types of correspondence which Americans of different European and, indeed, Asiatic stocks have established with their countries of racial origin would, we are sure, be fruitful for improvement in the way of broadening and deepening the social and economic relations between Ireland and America.

While conditions have required a disproportionate amount of political argument and activity on the part of Irish-Americans, it is only mistaken and deluded opinion which has practically limited their intercourse with Irish public life to the more sensational aspects and disputes of inter-racial politics. This has delayed rather than hastened a democratic and just settlement of Ireland's claims, and has frequently been responsible for lapses from the plane of ordered discussion and pacific struggle which are essential to the stable unity and liberty of Ireland.

Irish-Americans, losing sight of this fact, have been remiss in inviting and welcoming those real nation makers, the men of letters, actors, explorers, scientists and artists who are most eagerly acclaimed by fellow-Americans of other extractions. Thus Yeats and recently James Stephens have passed comparatively unnoticed by Irishmen through the United States, while English and divers European lecturers have been greeted by vast audiences of their compatriots.

Irish-Americans, however, keenly desirous of the settlement of Irish questions, have not yet begun to utilise the methods of non-partisan debate and discussion. The narrow banks of partisanship and sectarianism have excluded the luminous contributions which industry, education and scientific thought would bear upon their solutions. For this important reason alone it behooves us to employ the best brains in frankest discussion on every province of Irish interest.

One-sided argumentation and propagandist newspapers appeal only to converted and intolerant sections. They have become a bore and a nuisance to modern Irishmen, who perceive them as means both of defeating the good and forwarding the discreditable portions of what they advocate. Unfortunately, the Irish universities and schools, which should be leaders in the promotion of orderly debate, have hitherto done nothing by interscholastic meetings to forward the exchange of ideas in Ireland. Yet Trinity College has invited American students to spend this Summer at its schools, and Ireland, North and South, has men of republican, Free State, labor and imperialist opinions capable of engaging in informative discussion. Literary journals, notably the Irish Statesman, are destroying the barriers of obscurantism and giving play to the intellectual solution of national problems and to the progress of Irish art.

We learn from several Irish societies that the feeling grows that the correct representation of Ireland in America now demands a broader and more inclusive expression than can be secured from men of party or creed. The chance of a sounder understanding among Irishmen will be immensely improved by Irish societies everywhere creating facilities for a fuller expression of the nation's life than has heretofore been obtainable.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The yearly complaint about pollution of our waters is with us again, and your editorial on the subject treats the matter about as seriously as most of us do and offers no effective remedy for this menace.

New Yorkers, accustomed to breathing and eating germs since childhood, do not fear those produced by the garbage and offal in the waters in which we bathe—witness the crowds in the filthy water every day—and the scavengers of the sea and land soon dispose of the rotting vegetable and animal matter.

As a child, in the outlying section of Brooklyn, I remember my Saturday bath in a washtub filled with cistern water. No celluloid toys then to divert my attention while mother scrubbed me down, but I amused myself trying to catch the tadpoles during the operation. These little creatures no doubt kept the water free of germs from decaying matter which we know was there, not being cleaned out more than once a year.

So I lived to a time when I could learn to swim, and this was attempted in the waters of Jamaica Bay, then being polluted by the sewage of the growing City of Brooklyn, but cleaned up daily of germ life by crabs and eels.

I lived to marry and settled in the Bath Beach section of Brooklyn, and there my three children learned to keep themselves above the polluted waters of the bay. On this shore, with sewers emptying in the water, the City of New York established a recreation park.

Now in the Summer we are located at Long Beach, and the watery germs are still with us. New York officials say the refuse is thrown from passing steamers, but the evidence on our shores indicates the source of the supply by the finding of sales slips and labels indicating New York origin, and, further, I have seen in one day more electric bulbs washed ashore than all the steamers in the world could supply in one year.

You suggest incinerators to burn the refuse, but none of us want one of these in our vicinity, and the incinerator will not dispose of the part of the refuse which causes us the most concern—electric bulbs, bottles and cans.

It is an uncanny feeling to have a dead body of a dog, sheep, chicken or cat roll against one's legs while in the surf, but a more serious blow to one's nerves to get a crack on the head from a bottle on the crest of a wave, and still more painful to cut one's feet while walking to and from the surf, and this is a daily occurrence in our community.

To eliminate this latter evil I suggest a request to all New York citizens to break all bottles and remove all covers from cans before placing them in the rubbish receptacles.

In this we can help ourselves; but in the matter of dumping close to shore, I have no hope that this will ever be stopped.

Some of us may escape the evil by saving our shekels, postponing our baths until Winter and going with the politicians to the shores of Florida, which are too far from New York to be polluted by New York garbage; but most of us will continue to wade through the filth and die under a taxi.

Honor Bradford in South.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The South always observes a Memorial Day, in some States on different dates. In the State of Georgia and some others April 26 is the day on which we recall with tender memories the heroes of 1861-1865. As April 26 came on Sunday this year, we held our exercises on the 27th.

An incident occurred here this year that is worthy of mention, when a picture of a Northern historian, Gamaliel Bradford of Wellesley Hills, Mass., was placed in the centre of a large art store window alongside those of Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and our own celebrated Sidney Lanier, who is honored everywhere in song and story. OLIVER ORR.

COOLIDGE AGAIN AIDS BUTLER'S CAMPAIGN

MANY AFTER VACANT SEAT

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 8.—President Coolidge's influence in Massachusetts politics, preparatory to harmony deals between the Lodge and Butler factions, was effective today when Frank W. Stearns, the President's confidential adviser, persuaded Henry L. Bowles of Springfield to enter the contest for Congress in the Second District to succeed the late George N. Churchill. It was explained later, however, that Mr. Stearns did not act as the President's representative.

Mr. Bowles is regarded as the most popular man in Republican politics in the district. He was opposed to seeking political honors, but today agreed to become a candidate so as to prevent a scramble in the Republican primary that might leave the party badly divided and disorganized next year, when Senator Butler seeks election in what promises to be one of the closest Senatorial contests in Massachusetts in a generation.

Mr. Bowles came here last night accompanied by Tom White, the Coolidge State leader. Mr. White told Mr. Bowles that it was his duty to become a candidate. He was still hesitating this morning, but after Mr. Stearns had breakfast with him and Mr. White at the Hotel Preston, his final decision to seek the Republican nomination became known.

May Mean Butler Victory.

His entry into the primaries, according to Republican leaders here, may be the deciding factor in the election of Senator Butler. If the Republican voters in the district had been split in this primary, friends of Senator Butler feared that there would be a loss of several thousand votes to Mr. Butler next year, perhaps enough to defeat the Chairman of the Republican National Committee for the Senate.

There was no indication here that President Coolidge was manifesting any interest in the dispute in the Federal Trade Commission over the making of investigations ordered by one Chamber of Congress. The majority members asked President Coolidge to get from the Department of Justice an opinion as to whether a resolution of one Chamber was legal. No such opinion has been sought, it was said here today.

The commission, following out its new policy, according to reports coming from Washington, has decided to discontinue its investigation of the General Electric Company, the "power trust" and other proposed investigations which they assert were inspired for factional political purposes.

This action, which apparently has the approval of President Coolidge—certainly it is not done without his knowledge—may lead to a move on the part of the Senate to abolish the commission. Senator Borah recently declared that if the commission declines to investigate, there is no reason for its continuance. He and others are expected to lead a fight for the repeal of the law authorizing its creation.

Quiet Day at White Court.

This was another quiet day at White Court. President Coolidge received the track teams representing Oxford and Cambridge and Harvard and Yale on the lawn, where he was photographed with the athletes who will participate in the international contest on Saturday. The captain of the English team proposed "three cheers for the President of the United States" as they departed.

In the afternoon President and Mrs. Coolidge again inspected the camp of the marines, taking with them Rob Roy, the white collie and playmate of Paul Pry, the Airedale. The latter has been given to the marines and is being disciplined by them to overcome his viciousness. He was tied up when Rob Roy arrived at the camp. He was unleashed and played about some time with the collie, but did not return to White Court.

Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey and Mrs. Edge called to pay their respects at White Court this afternoon while en route for Maine.

SMOOT SEES BIG TAX CUT.

Expects Reduction of $300,000,000, and 20 Per Cent. Surtax.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—A tax reduction of at least $300,000,000, and possibly $350,000,000, by the next Congress was predicted today by Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee.

He based his estimate on the indicated surplus as shown by Treasury figures. The cut in surtaxes he predicted would be to 20 per cent. from the present rate of 40 per cent., but in advance of a clear indication of what would be done with miscellaneous taxes he would not estimate the cut in normal income taxes.

Should it be decided to utilize all the present sources of revenue raising, Mr. Smoot looked for a normal tax reduction greater than would be possible if some of the sources were eliminated.

WHITNEY WON BY 31,986.

TRENTON, N. J., July 8.—The formal statement of the result of the Gubernatorial primary election announced by Secretary of State Thomas F. ELIZABETH DAY RETURNS.

Soprano the First to Sing in German in Brussels Since the War.

Elizabeth Day, mezzo-soprano, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Olympic after making a forty weeks' concert tour through Europe, and will return next month to sing at the Mozart Festival in Baden-Baden. She said that the only two countries in Europe where music was cultivated by the people as it was before the war were Belgium and Austria. In Italy, the singer said, the people appeared to have lost their interest in music and opera except the old favorites like "Traviata" and "Trovotore."

"When I was in Brussels," Mrs. Day continued, "I was the first artist to sing in German at a concert since the war. I started first with French songs, then Italian, English, Spanish and old Hebrew, and finally gave two German numbers from my repertoire, which were received with great applause by the Belgian audience who are great lovers of good music. In Vienna the rich and poor alike attend the classical concerts and will go without food to buy the tickets. From Baden-Baden I am going to sing at Berlin."

Mrs. Day was met by her husband, Mason Day, who is the President of the International Barnsdall Corporation.

FINE STADIUM PROGRAM.

Audience Is Enthusiastic Over the Philharmonic Concert.

The Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Willem van Hoogstraten, played to an enthusiastic audience at the Lewisohn Stadium, City College, last evening. The reason for the enthusiasm was not far to seek. Orchestra and leader were in an unusually expressive mood, which communicated itself to the listeners. Mendelssohn's Overture, Nocturne and Scherzo to "A Midsummer Night's Dream" seldom have been given with more smoothness and polish, especially the Scherzo, which aroused unwonted animation. The encore was Liszt's "Liebestraum."

Mr. van Hoogstraten conducted Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite with a sure touch. He drew from his instruments all the tragic grief on "Aase's Death." The second encore was "Valse Triste," by Sibelius.

After the intermission Mr. van Hoogstraten ran the change from Russia to Finland and back again. He gave the overture-fantasia from Tchaikovsky's "Romeo and Juliet," Sibelius's tone-poem, "Finlandea" and Borodin's "Polovetskian dances."

SENATOR BONI NEAR DEATH.

By Wireless to The New York Times.

ROME, July 8.—Senator Giacome Boni, archaeologist, whose excavations in the Roman Forum won him fame throughout the world, is in a grave condition owing to the stroke of cerebral apoplexy suffered Monday. His numerous friends have practically abandoned all hope. Extreme sacraments have been administered.

This is the second stroke Senator Boni has suffered in the last few years. The first almost completely paralyzed him. Since he was first stricken he never has left his house on the Palatine Hill, except to go to the Senate and take the oath when Mussolini nominated him Senator two years ago. On that occasion, being unable to walk, he was carried to the President's bench in the Senate on the arms of two colleagues.

A short time ago, Senator Boni, who besides excavating in the Forum, had dedicated much energy to reviving ancient Roman traditions, was created Honorary President of the Fascist Party. Lately he had gained considerable notoriety, which at times almost surpassed his renown as an archaeologist, for being one of the very few open advocates of prohibition in Italy.

BATHING COSTUMES SHOCK.

Southampton Committee Revising Rules at Cottagers' Request.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, July 8.—Owing to much discussion concerning some bathing costumes seen here this Summer, worn usually by strangers, the Southampton Bathing Corporation has appointed a committee which is drawing up rules forbidding the appearance of any one on the beach, the property of the corporation, unless the bather wears stockings and cape while walking down to the water. The rules will apply especially at week-ends and during tennis week.

Some of the suits worn on the beach last Sunday caused cottagers to gasp, and stringent measures will be taken from now on.

HOSPITAL RECEIVES NEW HARKNESS GIFT

HAS DONATED $800,000

Plans for the Edifice Are Now in the Hands of Architect—Entire Building Fund Is $3,704,297.

Receipt of a gift of $250,000 from Mrs. Stephen V. Harkness, completing the $1,000,000 fund raised by the Presbyterian Hospital nurses for the new school of nursing at the Presbyterian-Columbia Medical Centre at 165th Street and Broadway, was announced yesterday by the Board of Managers of the hospital. Mrs. Harkness's cash gifts to the medical centre now total $800,000.

She previously had given $500,000 as her part of a joint donation of $1,500,000 with her son, Edward S. Harkness, to build the private patient pavilion of the hospital. Those gifts were in addition to one of $50,000 she subscribed to the general building fund. Mrs. Harkness and her son also donated the twenty-two-acre site for the medical centre.

Mrs. Harkness made what was described as the largest gift to Yale up to 1917, when she agreed to build the Harkness Memorial group of dormitories. The cost of construction at that time was estimated from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. She built the dormitories in memory of her son, Charles W. Harkness, Yale, '83, who died in New York City in 1916.

Other Liberal Donations.

In 1922 she gave $750,000 toward a new seven-story parish house of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, conditional upon other members of the congregation raising an additional $250,000. Last March Mrs. Harkness gave $100,000 toward a $4,000,000 additional endowment fund for the Union Theological Seminary. She also gave liberally to the Y. W. C. A.

In announcing receipt of the latest gift of Mrs. Harkness, the Board of Managers of the hospital said:

"This gift completes the $1,000,000 sought by the nurses and approximately covers the cost of the proposed edifice, revised plans for which are in the process of development in the office of James Gamble Rogers, architect of the centre.

"Mrs. Harkness's gift also make available a second, of $25,000, from Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, which was contingent upon reaching the goal. Together, the two Harkness gifts increase the total of the nurses' building fund to $1,038,006. Of this amount $500,000 represents the sum realized from the sale of Florence Nightingale Hall, the present residence of the nurses. The remaining $538,006 was raised in six months by students and graduates of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing, led by Anna C. Maxwell, founder of the school, who came back from retirement in Europe to direct the effort."

List of Contributors.

Contributions bringing the total in the Presbyterian Hospital building fund to $3,704,297, less than $800,000 below the original goal of $4,500,000, have been received since the formal close of the campaign on May 28. These gifts include the following:

WOOLWINE, FAMOUS PROSECUTOR, DEAD

FOUND DYNAMITERS GUILTY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 8.—Thomas Lee Woolwine, known nationally as a former District Attorney of Los Angeles and twice candidate for Governor of California, died today at his home here. Through his efforts the first "recall" of a Mayor in the United States was invoked and was brought about. It was he who convicted the conspirators in The Los Angeles Times dynamiting case.

Mr. Woolwine was born in Nashville, Tenn., on Oct. 31, 1874, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shanklin Woolwine. He was educated in private and public schools at Nashville and admitted to the Tennessee bar in 1899. In 1903 the degree LL. B. was conferred on him by the University of Tennessee and in 1904 by the George Washington University.

Attacks Bucket Shops.

On Nov. 7, 1900, he married Miss Alma Foy of Los Angeles, and thereafter practiced law in this city. He became Deputy City Attorney in 1907, serving for two years. From 1915 to 1923 he was District Attorney, gaining a wide reputation by the conviction of bucket shop keepers and enforcement of excise laws. He next brought charges of vice protection against the Mayor and the police head, causing the "recall" of the Mayor and the election of his successor.

In 1918, Mr. Woolwine was Democratic candidate for Governor in the primaries and in 1922 Democratic nominee for that office. Though a Democrat in State and national politics, he was an independent in local affairs.

From the day that the Ku Klux Klan was revived Mr. Woolwine strongly opposed the hooded order. When he denounced the Klan at a public meeting in August, 1922, a riot ensued.

Offer of Blood From Ex-Convict.

While in Paris in December, 1922, Mr. Woolwine was stricken with an internal hemorrhage. At the time Scotty Reppel, who had been sent to San Quentin Prison eleven years previously by Mr. Woolwine, volunteered to submit to a blood transfusion. In August, 1924, although still gravely ill, Mr. Woolwine returned to Los Angeles. His condition continued to improve thereafter until recently, when a relapse followed.

Mr. Woolwine was interested in literature and wrote one book, "In the Valley of the Shadows."

He was a member of the Los Angeles Bar Association, the University Club of Los Angeles and the Wilshire Country Club and Past President of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity's alumni.

TWO CONCERNS QUIT GRAIN MERGER PLAN

RE-INCORPORATION HINTED

Director of Dissolving Cooperative Says Project May Be Attempted Under Minnesota Law.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Dissolution of the Grain Marketing Company apparently became a certainty today when the Armour Grain Company, the largest unit in the merger, and Rosenbaum Brothers applied for the right to do business in their own names again on the Board of Trade. Permission was granted at a special meeting of the directors.

The Armour Grain Company, it was announced, will take over all the Grain Marketing Company's open grain contracts, amounting to about 3,000,000 bushels.

George E. Marcy, head of the Armour Grain Company and an executive of the Grain Marketing Company, virtually admitted as much.

The Grain Marketing Company will return to the Armour Grain Company, the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation and Rosenbaum Brothers properties it has been operating under lease for a year. The company has made a good profit and no loss is expected. Stock subscriptions will be refunded, it is believed, and the grain companies probably will obtain $4,000,000 they advanced for working capital.

All doubt that the dissolution of the company as now constituted will take place on July 28 was set at rest by this statement issued by representatives of the grain companies merged:

"From an authoritative source it has been learned that the Grain Marketing Company, a cooperative enterprise concerning which many conflicting rumors have been in circulation during the last ten days, will, because of its inability to comply with the provisions of the Capper-Volstead act, under which it was incorporated, liquidate and dissolve, returning to the component companies which made up the Grain Marketing Company the properties and business contributed by them as provided in their contract. It is also stated by the same source that the bank debt and other indebtedness of the Grain Marketing Company will be paid as it matures."

However, the Grain Marketing Company may be re-incorporated under the Minnesota law after July 28 if the present situation is cleared up, John F. Reed, a director of the Grain Marketing Company, said. The directors will meet Friday, when this matter probably will be taken up.

Valuations put on elevators owned or leased by the Armour Grain Company, the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation and Rosenbaum Brothers are $10,000,000 too high, said Newton Jenkins, counsel for the American Wheat Growers' Association, Inc., today in analysing the predicament of the Grain Marketing Company. Moreover, he asserts, the farmers are asked to pay for "going value" that does not exist and for "good-will" that is purely fanciful.

Operations of the Grain Marketing Company in the last year have in no way lessened the evils of speculative marketing, Mr. Jenkins said. The avowed "co-op" has functioned just as the Armour and Rosenbaum companies functioned before the merger, with the buyers' rather than the sellers' interests foremost, according to Mr. Jenkins.

3 DEAD, 25 HURT IN STORM.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 8. (AP).—Three persons were killed and at least twenty-five others were injured when a wind, rain and electrical storm, approaching the proportions of a tornado, swooped down on Minneapolis tonight.

The fatalities occured when the wind tore the roof off a section of a pavilion at Lake Harriet burying a score under the debris.

As the wind rushed through the city the floor in a South Minneapolis café gave way beneath a half-dozen dinner guests, throwing them into the basement. None was seriously hurt, however.

Store fronts were caved in by the wind, several houses damaged, trees uprooted and traffic was tied up by flooded streets as the sewers were unable to carry off a heavy rain. Basements of many homes were flooded.

Education Commissioner Sees Need for Cooperation.

Special to The New York Times.

OCEAN CITY, N. J., July 8.—The greatest difficulty in the educational system of this country is lack of cooperation, declared Dr. J. J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, addressing the morning session of the second day of Schoolmen's Week here at the high school auditorium. He said that teachers ignored the help offered them by the Government.

Lewis A. Wilson, State Director of Vocational and Extension Education, speaking on vocational training, said that not only was cooperation to be desired between individuals, but also between the States. He added that New York, at the present moment, appeared to be the pioneer in the vocational scheme of education. Mr. Wilson also addressed the afternoon session at the Hotel Flanders on viewpoints in administering and financing vocational education. He said that politicians, realising the danger of the well-educated voters, fought all ordinances proposing the establishing of adult vocational night schools.

GOV. FULLER INTERVENES.

Calls Conference to Prevent Trolley Strike in Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 8.—Governor Fuller is determined that Boston shall not experience another trolley strike if anything he can do will prevent it. He regards the overwhelming vote of the 6,000 members of the Carmen's Union in favor of a strike and the ultimatum sent by the union to the State trustees of the road as serious enough to warrant his taking a hand in the situation.

Accordingly the Governor had the full Board of Trustees at the State House this afternoon for a conference. While the trustees had nothing to say after the conference Governor Fuller announced that he would have a statement ready for them tomorrow.

The entry of the Governor into the controversy is expected to bring the issue sharply to a head. The issue involved is whether the present method of arbitration is adequate under the present contract between the company and the employes.

POSTAL HEAD SEES $40,000,000 DEFICIT

POINTS TO REVENUE IN JUNE

Congress Figured Revised Rates Would Add $68,000,000 Needed for Salary Increases.

HALF THIS PREDICTED NOW

Postmaster General Says, However, the Estimates for Fiscal Year Are "Merest Guess."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Postmaster General New said today in making public figures of postal revenues in June, that while it was the "merest guess," these figures "would indicate a deficit of something like $40,000,000 in postal revenues in the fiscal year which will end June 30, 1926. The Postmaster General added that this big difference between receipts and expenditures "is due, of course, to the legislation passed by the last Congress affecting both pay and rates."

In other words, the action of Congress in granting increases in the salaries of postal employes and attempting to get money to meet them by imposing higher postal rates on newspapers, magazines, parcel post, souvenir and other private post cards and registered letters has been a failure.

On the basis of pay increases amounting to about $68,000,000 Congress provided for additional rates on mail matter that were expected to realize that amount. It now appears from Postmaster General New's statement that the additional revenues necessary to meet the heavy increase in salaries of those employed in the postal service probably will fall short $40,000,000, or nearly 59 per cent. of the $68,000,000 which Congress assessed to be able to see flowing into the Federal Treasury under the advanced charges on mail matter.

The drive in Congress for an increase in the pay of postal workers resulted first in the passage of a bill providing for the increases. This measure made no provision for obtaining the revenue that would be necessary to meet the drain on public funds and President Coolidge vetoed it. The bill was thereupon revived, with the addition of provisions for higher rates on various classes of mail matter and was approved by the President when it had passed both houses.

Deficit of 1924 Cut to $5,000,000.

The Postmaster General's estimate of a deficit of $40,000,000 pertains to the Government fiscal year ending June 30, 1926. In the last fiscal year, which ended and in which the postal salary increases and advanced rates were partly operative, the deficit in postal revenues was estimated at $23,000,000.

In the prior fiscal year—that ended June 30, 1924—the Postal Service had a deficit of about $12,000,000, but this had been so overcome that when the increased pay for postal employes went into effect it had been reduced to about $5,000,000, with confidence felt that in the normal processes of postoffice business it would be turned into a surplus of about $1,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925.

The Salary Increase bill, however, upset all this, and it is now apparent to the Postmaster General and his fellow-officials that the new rates are falling short of estimated production by more than half the amount that was expected to accrue from them.

The $23,000,000 deficit in the fiscal year 1925 was taken care of through payments from the surplus that the Treasury was accumulating and which is to be the basis of President Coolidge's program for further reduction of direct taxes. The original estimate of the surplus for the fiscal year 1926 was $384,000,000, but in President Coolidge's statement at the Federal budget meeting in Washington on June 22 his estimate of the surplus for the fiscal year 1926 was given as $290,000,000.

For the fiscal year which ended on June 30 last the surplus in sight, according to the Government's figures, was apparently about $250,000,000. The estimate of a surplus of $290,000,000 for the present fiscal year apparently takes into account the reduction that will be entailed by the failure of increases in postal rates to meet the $68,000,000 additional expenditure imposed upon the Treasury by the raise in pay of postal employes.

Says June Gains Are Misleading.

The Postmaster General gave out figures yesterday showing that in June the revenues of the fifty largest cities of the country—designated "selected cities"—were 14.73 per cent. greater than their revenues in June, 1924. He contended, however, that this showing was misleading in that June, 1924, had been a month in which postal receipts were abnormally low.

Mr. New gave out today figures of postal revenues in June for fifty cities classed as "industrial cities," with the showing of an increase of 10.45 per cent. over revenues derived from the postoffices in these cities in June, 1924. In furnishing the figures he again declared that the large increase in revenues in June of this year was due to abnormally low revenues in June of the previous year.

In making public today's figures the Postoffice Department said in a statement:

"Although the receipts of the fifty selected postoffices for the month of June, 1925, show an increase of 14.72 per cent. over June, 1924, and those of fifty industrial cities, with 16.45 per cent., show even a better average, it is fair to state that June, 1924, with which the comparison was made, was a very poor month, and showed a loss of 1.17 per cent. in receipts of June, 1923. In contemplating the increase this fact must be taken into consideration, as well as the further fact that in June, 1925, there was one more business day than in June, 1924."

Sees Two Gratifying Circumstances.

In commenting on the statement Mr. New said:

"There are two most gratifying circumstances in connection with these figures, the first of which is the fact that every one of the larger cities shows an increase; and the same is true of all but one of the fifty industrial towns. The month's business is, therefore, quite satisfactory from the standpoint of the postoffice.

"Of course, any estimate based on these figures as to how nearly the postal receipts will balance expenditures for the current year is the merest guess. But the figures quoted would indicate a deficit of something like $40,000,000, which is due, of course, to the legislation passed by the last Congress affecting both pay and rates."

Sioux Falls, S. D., led all the industrial cities with 41 per cent. increase. Tampa, Fla., closely followed with 40.35 per cent.

EXPECTS RESUMPTION SOON

Stock Exchange Said to Favor Plan of Ending Bankruptcy Without Long Litigation.

William F. Unger of Gilman & Unger, attorneys for Dean, Onativia & Co., 11 Wall Street, the stock, grain and cotton brokers who failed for $36,000,000 last Friday, announced yesterday that customers and friends of the firm had signed agreements to supply $1,835,000 of the $2,500,000 needed to enable the firm to meet its obligations, lift the receivership and resume business.

"The $1,835,000 is covered by actual signed agreements—$1,000,000 in New York and $835,000 in Chicago," said Mr. Unger. "The remaining $665,000 has been assured to us by word of mouth, telegram and letter, and we only require the actual signatures covering this balance before we can go before the court and ask to have the receivership lifted.

"Signatures are coming in as quickly as humanly possible, and we hope to have the entire amount legally contracted for in a day or two. This morning we sent out 400 telegrams to customers of the firm, as follows:

"'In order to put through the plan described in this morning's TIMES regarding Dean, Onativia & Co., it is essential to your interests that you come to their office at 11 Wall Street at 2 o'clock today. If impossible to be there, wire acquiescence to plan.'

"The telegram was signed by William F. McGuire, Chairman of the Creditors' Protective Committee.

"These telegrams were sent to customers in all parts of the country. Many who live in New York came to the office, while others sent telegrams agreeing to the plan as outlined.

Signatures Essential.

"We wish to impress on all customers who have agreed to accept the plan that their signatures to the formal agreement is essential. No matter how much support is assured us informally, we can not go to court and show our solvency until we can produce legal evidence in the shape of agreements which commit their makers to turn over the aggregate of $2,500,000 to the firm. We have sent copies of the agreement by registered mail to customers willing to accept the plan, and have asked them to return the documents with their signatures immediately."

Irving L. Ernst, attorney for ex-Judge William M. Cannon, the New York receiver, said that success of the settlement was probable, judging from Mr. Unger's figures of the amount already subscribed. He thought that the balance could be raised easily and quickly. He said that attorneys for the New York Stock Exchange favored the plan. It was reported that Stock Exchange officials are anxious to have the settlement made and the firm reinstated on the Exchange as quickly as possible, so that such a big failure on the Exchange might be wiped out at once, instead of dragging through the bankruptcy courts for years.

Mr. Ernst pointed out that the settlement would have to be effected within a few days or not at all. He said the receiver had been collecting the assets of the firm in New York, putting securities of large value in safe deposit vaults, and that these will have to be sold to take advantage of the present high market unless the plan goes through within a few days.

No Trace of Irregularities.

Regarding intimations that the State Attorney General might investigate the failure under the Martin act, Mr. Ernst said there was no trace of bucket-shop or blue-sky-promotion practices on the part of the firm.

Part of the $2,500,000 to save the firm is coming from friends of the nine partners and part from customers. The firm has about 2,000 customers.

The plan as outlined yesterday was accepted by the New Yorkers who came to the aid of the firm, but Chicago aid was based on a slightly different basis. According to an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago, a creditors' meeting there yesterday agreed upon a new plan, under which 30 per cent. of the obligations would be funded for deferred payment over a period of five years.

No forced liquidation of the brokers' securities took place either in New York or Chicago. The Associated Press said that the rise in Stewart Warner shares, held in volume by Dean-Onativia creditors, a full point at the opening of the Chicago stock market yesterday, was interpreted by La Salle Street as indicating that Dean-Onativia collateral would not be liquidated for at least another day.

3D GENNA GUNMAN SLAIN IN CHICAGO

O'BANION MURDER SEQUEL

Fourth of Six Brothers Hidden by Police, to Whom He Appeals for Protection.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Tony Genna, member of a family of gunmen, was shot fatally today in an ambush that the police attributed to followers of Dion O'Banion still seeking vengeance for the murder of that gang leader.

Genna died this afternoon in the county hospital, while police officers questioned him about the men who had shot him. Three times Genna responded "Cavallere," as the police understood it. Officers at the Detective Bureau said they had no record of a "Cavallere."

When Genna died three squads were searching for pals of the late O'Banion, seeking principally Vincent Drucci and George Moran.

Tony Genna is the third of the family to come under guns of foes within the last six weeks. A couple of weeks after rival gangsters slew Angelo Genna to bits with sawed-off shotguns, Mike Genna, out with some henchmen gunning for the men he suspected of killing Angelo, ran into a squad of police. In the battle that followed Genna and two policemen were killed.

Lured by a Decoy.

The gunmen apparently decoyed Tony to the place of the shooting this morning. Witnesses said Genna drove up to the corner of Curtis Street and West Grand Avenue in his car. There he greeted and started talking with a man who had been loitering at the corner for several minutes.

As they chatted two other men approached. One of them held out his hand, saying, "Hello, Genna." As Genna reached to shake hands both newcomers shot him. They used revolvers, not the slug-loaded shotguns that are the usual arm of gangland in feud fights. One bullet went through Tony's left lung, two hit him in the abdomen, one in the back and one in the left leg. As he staggered back the gunmen and the decoy ran down Grand Avenue a block and up an alley, where they had parked a car. They were off before witnesses could notice the license number.

In spite of his wounds Tony was able to walk into the grocery of Charles Capella and Vito Cimma, where he was found by a policeman who had heard the shots from a street car two blocks away.

Genna simply shook his head when the policeman questioned him, and in the ambulance riding to the county hospital he become no more communicative. He was stolidly conscious while surgeons probed for the bullets.

Describes One Assailant.

When told he was dying Genna unpended enough to describe one of his assailants as a man 40 years old, dark, slim and tall. He did not know any of the trio, he said.

Alcohol running is back of the shooting, the police believe, just as it was back of the murder of Angelo and the killing of Mike. The Genna brothers—there were six of them—have been moguls in the bootleg world, furnishing "re-cooked" alcohol in wholesale lots to makers of counterfeit whisky. In that field they came into competition long ago with "Dapper Dan" McCarthy, Dion O'Banion, "Little Hymie" Weiss and others.

When Dion O'Banion was killed mysteriously in his florist shop last Fall, gangland fixed the blame on the Gennas, after investigating rumors that John Torrio was responsible. The murder of Angelo followed, then the attempt at reprisal, and the death of Mike.

Of the three remaining brothers, one, Sam, has been hidden by the police, to whom he appealed for protection after he saw Tony die; the Detective Bureau is seeking another, Pete, on charges, and the sixth, Jim Genna, is in Sicily.

PARIS, July 8.—A romantic Napoleonic memento disappeared yesterday when a gust of wind blew over an old weeping willow standing in the Garden of the Prefecture of Versailles.

The willow was one of three trees planted from cuttings obtained in 1832 under fire of British sentries by the French Naval Lieutenant Dreuville from the famous willow overshadowing Napoleon's grave at St. Helena.

Of the three slips one did not survive, the second died in 1903 and now the last one is gone.

Deadliest Gas Was Used Against Burglars, And Indiana Bank Scheme May Be Copied

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 8.—It became known today that the band of burglars routed by gas early Monday morning from a bank at Elnora, which they had sought to rob, were foiled in their purpose by the use of Lewisite, the most deadly of all poison gases. It was evolved during the World War, but was never put to real use in the European hostilities.

As Indiana bankers learned the details of the victory of science over the would-be safe-crackers at Elnora, many of them discussed plans to equip their vaults with the anti-burglar gas contrivance.

The gas was invented by Professor Gilbert Newton Lewis, Chief of the Defense Division of the Gas Service of the American expeditionary forces and now a member of the chmeistry Faculty at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. Its formula has been kept secret by the United States Government, but some of the gas has been released for commercial use.

Lewisite has been found effective in curing paresis under proper medical supervision. So deadly is it, however, that it is said a relatively small amount of it could completely devastate a large area, making it worthless for crop cultivation for as long as ten years. Much of the gas on hand in Government storage tanks at the end of the war was towed to sea and sunk. Lewisite gas shells are also supposed to have been buried deep in the ground after the armistice.

A Chicago firm equipped the vault of the Citizens' Bank of Elnora with Lewisite. The gas was placed in a delicate glass container which would shatter at the least disturbance to the vault. As the robbers battered at the vault combination they caused the gas to be released. Representatives of the firm today replaced the gas device. This protection is automatic and requires no human vigilance or guarding.

Sixty Indiana counties have perfected organization committees of armed citizens for emergency duty against robbers, it was announced today by the State Bankers' Association.

McCook yesterday afternoon.

Unable to supply this at once, the 22-year-old dancer, who appeared in Earl Carroll's "Vanities" last year, was taken back to a cell in Jefferson Market Prison.

The habeas corpus proceeding was brought by the dancer's lawyer, Marks Wolff of 41 Park Row, after Magistrate Henry M. R. Goodman in the West Side Court had held her without bail on a charge of felonious assault. Wolff requested Magistrate Goodman to admit her to bail, but John Flood, Assistant District Attorney, objected on the ground that Davis was in a serious condition in Polyclinic Hospital and might die. Magistrate Goodman held Mrs. Davis in $500 bail on the charge of violating the Sullivan law.

Wolff said that his client was in "a very confused mental condition," and did not remember the events of the previous night clearly. She was very nervous in court. When asked by reporters about the "other woman," said to have been the reason for the shooting, she replied:

"I won't tell until I learn how he feels toward me."

She said that she was sorry she had shot her husband and expressed pleasure at reports from the hospital that he was improving. She seemed dazed. According to her attorney, she spent a good part of her time yesterday in hunting about her cell for the heel of her slipper, which she lost when she ran from the Forty-ninth Street apartment after the shooting. Wolff said she had several bad scratches on her arm.

Davis expressed no interest in his wife yesterday. Physicians at the hospital said his wounds were not as serious as first believed, and that he probably would be able to leave in ten days. Matthew O'Brien, an actor, an old friend of Davis, visited him at the hospital. Davis told O'Brien he was feeling well and that he hoped to get out soon to begin rehearsals in a new play, "Rather Help," in which he is to have the juvenile part.

The authorities have been unable to learn the motive for the shooting, except the intimation that there was another woman. Davis and his wife met while both were playing in the "Vanities of 1924." Later Earl Carroll gave Davis a part in "White Cargo," in which he played up to Tuesday night. The couple lived at the Hotel Princeton. They quarreled a few days ago, and Davis dined with two men friends, Harry Wagstaff Gribble, playwright, and Melville Anderson, on Tuesday night. Mrs. Davis went to the apartment about 7:30, took her husband into a room alone and shot him twice. Running from the house she was caught by detectives who were passing.

It became known yesterday that after the shooting the woman attempted suicide, but that her pistol jammed as she aimed it at herself.

MRS. WHITNEY OFFERS WAR MEMORIAL PLAN

Providence Committee Hears New York Sculptor and Promises Decision on Proposal Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 8.—An original idea for a memorial in Providence to the soldiers and sailors who died in the World War, said to be particularly adapted to this city, was submitted today by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, the New York sculptor, to the members of the Council Committee on Memorial.

The society leader appeared before the committee, accompanied by Miss Katharine Minahan and Mrs. W. B. Force, and outlined her idea.

Neither she nor the members of the committee would discuss the nature of her idea, the latter declaring that they could not do so in justice to Mrs. Whitney.

Mayor Gainer, who spoke for the committee, with Alderman Fred W. Morse, its Chairman, said that the body would take two or three weeks to consider the proposition and then would inform Mrs. Whitney of their decision.

Should the committee decide to adopt Mrs. Whitney's idea for a memorial, the Mayor said she would make the design and supervise its construction.

"The idea is distinctive, particularly adapted to the City of Providence, and something that has never been used in this country before," Mayor Gainer said.

Providence has been considering the problem of a memorial to the World War dead for years.

No Foul Play in Man's Drowning.

An autopsy at Bellevue Hospital yesterday on the body of John Haase, 24 years old, an automobile salesman, of 11 Neptune Avenue, New Rochelle, which was recovered from the Hudson River at the foot of 125th Street Monday afternoon, revealed that death was caused by drowning. Acting Chief Medical Examiner Benjamin Schwartz said there were no marks of violence on the body. The dead man's brother, Frederick, who identified the body, had requested the autopsy, fearing that the victim had met foul play.

CAN USE EVIDENCE FOUND ON PRISONER

Banton Says It Will Aid Prosecution of Several Cases Hinging on Constitutional Rights.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton was notified yesterday that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court had just handed down a decision which sustained the action of Judge Francis X. Mancuso in General Sessions, several months ago, who held that evidence of violation of a law, found on a person arrested on another charge, could be used as the basis for prosecution in the newly discovered case.

Mr. Banton said that while the decision, which was written by Justice Finch and concurred in by the other four members of the higher court, dealt with an ordinary case, it would have a far-reaching effect in determining to what extent the authorities could go when they encounter such evidence without the use of a search warrant. He explained that among other things, the decision would dispose of claims made by publishers of alleged indecent books that the books could not be used as evidence against them under constitutional law.

The District Attorney said that recently many appeals had been granted by the courts for the return of evidence which had been obtained by the authorities in cases which had developed since arrests were made on other charges.

The decision was rendered in connection with the conviction of John Defore by Judge Mancuso in the Court of General Sessions on a charge of feloniously having a blackjack in his hat when he was arrested on a misdemeanor charge. Defore was freed on the misdemeanor charge, however, but was indicted for having the blackjack in his possession.

At the beginning of his trial Defore's lawyer demanded that Judge Mancuso suppress all evidence in the case derived through a search of his client at the time of his arrest on the misdemeanor charge, contending that the search was illegal. Defore relied in his appeal from the conviction to the Appellate Division on constitutional and statutory provisions, which give him the right to immunity from unreasonable search and seizure. Justice Finch holds that such grounds do not furnish support for an appeal from a conviction of this kind. Constitutional and statutory provisions were for the purpose of preventing confessions by torture or otherwise, he said, and could not be applied to the finding of evidence in the possession of a defendant.

It was brought out that the Federal Circuit Court had held that evidence obtained under such means could not be used against a person; that fourteen States had taken a like view, but that twenty others had taken a contrary stand.

"It would seem of greater importance to the State and a better example to citizens," Justice Finch said, "that all crime which has been brought to the attention of the authorities should receive the punishment which it deserves rather than that the court should be compelled indiscriminately to free all criminals who are fortunate enough to have competent evidence, which is necessary to establish their guilt, taken from them, especially when they may obtain exact justice, both criminal and civil, for any wrong done them."

Mr. Banton said that he now would be in a position to proceed with the prosecution of several cases which had been held in abeyance until the disposal of Defore's appeal.

DESIGNS MILITARY BADGE.

Anthony de Francisci, a sculptor, of 24 West Sixtieth Street, designer of the silver "peace dollar" in 1921, has won the national competition in designing a badge for military service. It was announced yesterday at Governors Island. The winning design, which has been approved by the Fine Arts Commission, consists of an eagle with outflung wings alighting upon an encircling ring. On the ring is inscribed the words "National Defense." The badge will be struck off in red, white and blue.

According to the War Department, the badge will be one of the few decorations of the Government that relatives are not permitted to wear after the death of the original holder. Persons entitled to wear the badge are war veterans, members of the regular army, National Guard and Reserves, students in R. O. T. C. units and citizens' military training camp students. Arrangements will be made with private firms to manufacture the insignia under the authorization governing the sale of World War buttons to veterans.

16th Smallpox Case Reported.

The sixteenth case of smallpox in Jersey City was reported yesterday when Miss Mae Buckley, a stenographer, employed by the Grass Engineering Company at 150 Nassau Street, Manhattan, was removed from her home at 480 Grove Street to the Hospital for Contagious Diseases at Laurel Hill. Miss Buckley's family and that of Mrs. Frances Clark of 252 Seventh Street has been quarantined and members of both families have been vaccinated. Miss Buckley had visited the Clark home several times during recent weeks while Mrs. Clark was ill. At the Hospital for Contagious Diseases all the smallpox patients were said to be doing nicely.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE IS AT ISSUE TODAY

GOVERNMENT SEES DANGER

Stock of Soft Coal Lowest in Two Years—52-Day Supply of Hard, Unusually Large.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—On the eve of the conference here of miners and operators which will decide whether there shall be a strike in the anthracite mines, facts made public in Washington showed that the stock on hand of bituminous coal was the lowest in two years, whereas the anthracite stock was greater than usual.

The Shippers' Advisory Council, which is in session here, issued a statement advising the public to lay in its coal supply at once. According to the Government figures, the dealers have on hand a fifty-two days' supply of anthracite.

Samuel D. Warriner of Philadelphia, spokesman for the anthracite operators here, denied tonight an insinuation that the operators planned to force a strike in order to cause "panic buying" and thus to make a quick sale of the reserve coal supply.

"If there is a strike of the anthracite miners," he said, "it will not be the fault of the operators."

Representatives of the miners and operators are gathered here to attend the joint conference beginning at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Ambassador Hotel.

At this conference, the opening session of which will be public, the wage increase and other demands of the miners whose agreement with the operators expires Aug. 31, will be presented formally, and the operators will make formal reply. It is expected that the operators will refuse the demands of the miners, and will insist on a sliding scale of wage reduction.

Operators Name Committee.

Late tonight the operators, assembled in the Hotel Traymore, named a subcommittee of six to represent them during the executive sessions of the conference, beginning Friday. The six were nominated by Frank E. Hemelright of Scranton, Chairman of the Labor Committee of the operators. Mr. Hemelright declined to serve either as Chairman or member of the subcommittee, despite urging by the operators, declaring the duties would be too arduous.

Samuel D. Warriner of Philadelphia, who acted as spokesman for the operators earlier in the evening, and who had been expected to act as Chairman of the subcommittee to negotiate with the miners, was not named as a member of the subcommittee, although he will undoubtedly exert strong influence during the proceedings.

The subcommittee of six is composed of W. W. Inglis, President of the Glen Alden Coal Company, Scranton, Pa., Chairman; Andrew M. Fine, Vice President of the Hudson Coal Company, Scranton, Pa.; Thomas Thomas of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, Philadelphia; Jesse B. Warriner of Lansford, Pa., general manager of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company; E. H. Suender, general superintendent of the Madeira-Hill Coal Company, Frackville, Pa., and George Hadesty of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, Pottsville.

Of these six men, Mr. Inglis is the only one who represented the operators at the conference two years ago. Mr. Suender was an alternate. The Mr. Warriner on the subcommittee is a half-brother of Samuel D. Warriner, Chairman of the anthracite operators' conference.

The subcommittee of the miners will also consist of six men. They will be Mr. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers; Philip Murray of Pittsburgh, Vice President; Thomas Kennedy of Hazleton, Pa., Secretary and Treasurer; Rinaldo Cappellini of Scranton, Pa., President of District No. 1; Andrew Mattey of Hazleton, President of District No. 7, and Christ J. Golden of Shamokin, President of District No. 9.

Miners Accuse Operators.

It has been predicted by a spokesman for the miners that the operators would refuse their demands, causing a strike, merely in order to market at a good figure 10,000,000 tons of anthracite now said to be in storage.

"That is pure bunk," said Mr. Warriner, "a charge which has no basis."

John L. Lewis of Springfield, Ill., International President of the United Mine Workers of America, issued a statement on arriving here, saying:

"The present agreement will continue in effect for seven more weeks. Surely in that time it should be possible to negotiate a new agreement at the conference. The representatives of the miners will do their full share toward bringing these negotiations to a successful conclusion so that the coal-consuming public may suffer no inconvenience, and the anthracite mines may continue in uninterrupted operation.

"We hope the operators will enter this conference in a similar frame of mind."

The operators conferred today in the Hotel Traymore, later saying that Mr. Warriner's statement would suffice to represent them until their formal reply to the miners tomorrow. Mr. Warriner is President of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company and was Chairman of the Operators' Policy Committee at a similar joint conference two years ago.

52 DAYS' HARD COAL SUPPLY.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—With labor disputes pending which may result in strikes in the bituminous and anthracite coal fields, the Government's Geological Survey issued a survey today which showed that stocks of bituminous coal on hand have been steadily shrinking, and on June 1 totaled only 85,000,000 tons, the lowest in two years. Stocks of anthracite in the hands of retail dealers were reported as a 52 days' supply, somewhat larger than usual.

The fact that stocks have been falling off, and that the tendency has been to delay purchases of bituminous coal in the hope of even lower prices, has caused officials great concern in view of the danger of strikes. Scant heed has been given to pleas by Secretary Hoover and others to lay in stocks of coal without delay. If the present downward trend in stocks of bituminous coal continues, a situation may be faced in the Autumn, when the heavy demand comes, which will make it difficult to control prices.

"The total quantity in storage (bituminous coal) on June 1, 1925," the survey says, "was 85,000,000 net tons, against 44,000,000 tons on March 1, 1925, and 51,000,000 tons on June 1, 1924.

"Measured in tons, there was a reduction in stocks of 19 per cent. during the period from Sept. 1, 1924, to June 1, 1925, of which 14 per cent. occurred during the last three months. At the rate of consumption prevailing from March 1 to June 1, the stocks on June 1 would last 32 days if evenly divided.

Coolidge Kept Busy Reading Press Stories About Himself

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 8 (AP).—President Coolidge is finding some time for reading, but he admitted today to callers that it was keeping him fairly busy following newspaper reports about himself.

Biographies and history form the major portion of Mr. Coolidge's reading material as a general rule. Asked if he was continuing this schedule, he replied:

"Yes, but between reading material for speeches and in following what the boys are writing about me and national affairs, I have my hands full."

As a matter of fact, stocks are never evenly divided.

"Retail dealers in anthracite had a 52 days' supply of that fuel on June 1, an increase of 11 per cent. over the supply on March 1, and slightly more than that on June 1, 1924. The movement of anthracite in the lake trade began early this season and as a result the total on the upper lake docks now stands close to 1,000,000 tons. This is more than double the quantity on the corresponding date a year ago."

The statistics show that the nation is in no such shape at present to face a coal strike in the bituminous fields as it was when the great strike was called in April, 1922. Stocks on hand on April 1, 1922, were reckoned to be at least 63,000,000 net tons as compared with the 85,000,000 now.

SHIPPERS SAY BUY COAL NOW.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—Because of the threatened strike of anthracite miners and to relieve railroad freight congestion in the Fall, when all other traffic is at its height, delegates to the seventh annual meeting here of the Atlantic States Shippers' Advisory Board joined today in urging consumers of anthracite to place their orders and receive their supply this Summer. Five hundred representatives of industry, banking and transportation are attending the sessions.

Besides urging early buying of anthracite, the Lehigh Valley Railroad devoted almost its entire report concerning the present industrial and traffic situation to an analysis of the coal situation.

That traffic conditions on the Eastern railroads were never as favorable as now, the carriers being in condition to give the best possible service, was declared by W. J. Banham of New York, General Chairman of the board.

His statement was based on the reports of equipment filed by twenty railroads with the board. "In general," said Mr. Banham, "these reports show that the railroads have a very few locomotives in bad order, have a substantial surplus of good order freight cars and that all terminal situations are in excellent shape."

Due to rapidly increasing use of motor trucks by shippers, it is reported that several railroads are now operating their own motor truck fleets and that other transportation lines will do likewise.

That elimination "in part or in whole" of lawyers will be a long step toward satisfactory rate adjustments was also asserted by Mr. Banham, who urged public education concerning rates. "Is there any good reason," he asked, "why the public should not be represented on rate and classification committees?"

R. E. M. Cowie, President of the American Railway Express Company; Joseph F. Autenreith, President of the New Jersey State Board of Public Utility Commissioners, and Elisha Lee, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, will speak at a luncheon of the convention tomorrow afternoon.

GREEN EXPECTS MINE PEACE.

Labor Chief Predicts Agreement at Atlantic City.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 8 (AP).—William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor and former Secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, foresees an early end to the labor difficulties in the coal-mining industry.

He said here today: "I believe the wage dispute between anthracite coal miners and operators will be adjusted amicably. Mining may be suspended briefly, but I do not expect serious consequences. I feel confident the wage conference in Atlantic City will solve the problem. Both sides are approaching the situation in a proper spirit."

Two Federal Observers at Meeting.

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—The Labor Department has designated Conciliation Commissioners James F. Dewey of Chester, Pa., and William H. Rodgers of Iowa as unofficial observers at the conference of anthracite operators and miners.

DEFINES UNIVERSITY SPIRIT.

President Lowell of Harvard Stresses Its Part in Education.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 8.—President Lowell of Harvard has defined "The Spirit of a University" in the current issue of The Harvard Alumni Bulletin. This article is the last of the series published this year under the auspices of the Harvard Overseers Committee on relations with the alumni.

President Lowell writes:

"In The Ship That Found Herself' Kipling describes the complaints of all the many structural parts of the vessel until toward the end of her first voyage the voice of the ship itself was heard above them all. So in a university there is a voice of the distinct portions and a voice of the whole, with this difference, that in a ship the several parts exist only for the sake of the units whereof it is composed—that is, for the personal development of its students and the teaching and productive work of its staff. Nevertheless, it has not reached maturity until these manifold units are encompassed and pervaded by the spirit of the whole. . . . The under graduate, whatever he may have derived from his four years in college, who leaves without a sense that he has dwelt within the walls of a great university, has failed to see something with which he should have been impressed. His eyes have not been open. He may have learned much, but he has not taken in the spirit of the whole. Any one is likely not to see a forest for the trees, and yet a great forest gives a profound impression of its own, although one can look at a very small part of it from any one point. Individual trees may fail, giants in their days, and yet the forest stands there in its majesty.

"Such is the impression a university makes upon one who journeys through it day by day.

"Its life is that of its members and its life is that of its members and that its excellence is measured by the vigor of their growth."

MONTAUK, L. I., July 8.—Swordfish are plentiful off here, and some lobster fishermen have equipped their boats with long bow booms from which they may harpoon the swordfish. Swordfish steak is in demand.

FIGHT USE OF PARK FOR SUBWAY WORK.

TIME LIMIT ON REMOVAL

Encroachments Must Go Tomorrow or Association Will Seek Court Aid.

CALLS CITY ACTION ILLEGAL

Points to Bryant Park as Example of Devastation Wrought Under Political Rule.

The Parks Conservation Association, which represents sixty organizations which have campaigned in the past against park encroachments, voted unanimously at a meeting at the Bar Association yesterday to fight against the occupation of any part of Central Park by subway contractors and to start legal proceedings to oust existing encroachments and enjoin new ones, unless the removal of the encroachments has started by tomorrow.

The association adopted a report from a special investigating committee which attacked the invasion of Central Park for subway surface operations as the worst and least excusable of attempted encroachments.

According to the report and to speakers who amplified it, the understanding between subway contractors and city officials is that ten or eleven large construction camps and material yards shall be put in the west side of Central Park, spoiling a large area in the same way that Bryant Park has been spoiled for the past five years; that the entire double row of elms from Fifty-ninth to 110th Street, one of the outstanding beauties of the west side of the park is to be cut down; that a large part of the sidewalks on the west side of the park is to be destroyed; that the bridle path will be choked with buildings so that it will be perilous to riders, and that past experience has shown that contractors are usually let off from their contracts to restore landscaping after they have destroyed it.

TWO MORE LEAVE MUSSOLINI CABINET

FORMER UNDER HEAVY FIRE

By Wireless to The New York Times.

ROME, July 8.—Two Ministers, De Stefani, head of the Finance Department, and Nava, head of the National Economy Department, presented their resignations today to Premier Mussolini and he accepted them.

The resignation of De Stefani, who gained credit by ridding Italian finances of a chronic deficit of several billion lire yearly, is attributed chiefly to loss of prestige through the unhappy results of his decrees on Stock Exchanges and the recent depreciation of the lira. He has been the object of violent attacks by the extreme wing of Fascismo and also responsible financial circles.

Nava's resignation is attributed to bad health but may have been influenced by Mussolini's swing toward intransigence which has led him gradually to rid himself of all non-Fascist Ministers. It is stated that the resignation is devoid of political significance as the National Popular Party, which he leads, will continue to support the Fascist Cabinet.

It is thought certain that the new Minister of National Economy will be Deputy Giuseppe Belluzzo, engineer and professor of the Polytechnic School in Milan. He has acquired prominence in political circles almost overnight by a report on the budget of the Ministry of the Navy, which he drew up and submitted to Parliament.

Three candidates are in the running for the post of Minister of Finance—Count Volpi, Pirelli, a rubber manufacturer, and Deputy Gabrielle Carnazza. Volpi was till recently Governor of Tripoli where he did good work. Pirelli is one of the captains of Italian industry. Carnazza was Minister of Public Works in Mussolini's first Cabinet. The more likely appointee seems to be Volpi, who has had several conferences with Mussolini. But he does not appear anxious to assume the difficult task.

Both resignations had been expected, but they created much comment, especially that of De Stefani.

The opposition to his financial policy on the part of the extreme wing of Fascismo was based on the fact that in his attempts to balance the State budget he had laws passed making it obligatory for provincial and municipal Administrations to shoulder expenses which had previously been borne by the State. His critics contended that he had adjusted the State budget only by forcing the Provinces and municipalities. These assertions were denied by De Stefani in several speeches in the Chamber, but a campaign was waged against him on this point. The criticism in some financial circles was that De Stefani was too much of a doctrinaire and not sufficiently practical. Many think several of his measures, such as the reopening of stock exchanges, though excellent in theory, were disastrous in practice. De Stefani has a reputation for meticulous honesty. The story is told that when he went to Paris for an international conference he was obliged to borrow from a friend to buy suitable clothes for the occasion.

DIFFERS FROM BARUCH.

Educator, Leaving on Berengaria, Says War's Causes Are Economic.

Among the 700 first cabin passengers who sailed yesterday for Cherbourg and Southampton on the Berengaria was E. A. Alderman, President of the University of Virginia, who said he differed somewhat from the viewpoint of Bernard Baruch, the banker, who has offered a $250,000 fund for an investigation of profiteering as the cause of war.

"Profiteering may be one of the minor causes of war," Mr. Alderman said, "but it is not a fundamental cause. The causes of all wars are economic. Jingoism of course has its influence, but it is never a real cause of conflict."

Another passenger was Sir James Elder, Commissioner from Australia to the Wembley Exposition. He said that, although he had directed the Australian building, which was one of the principal features of the opening of the exposition by the King on May 8, 1924, it was his first trip to London to see it. Lady Elder accompanied him.

DENY WATER TO JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, July 8 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Whether Arab villagers have the right to refuse the use of springs in their home towns for the purpose of supplying water to Jerusalem in time of drought will have to be decided by the Privy Council of Great Britain.

During a recent water shortage in Jerusalem the Palestine Government issued an ordinance authorizing water to be brought from the springs and wells of Urtas. The villagers refused to recognize the ordinance, declaring they needed the water for themselves, their cattle and orchards.

The Palestine Government brought suit against the people of Urtas, and the case has been appealed to the high British tribunal.

Did Not Move to Summit, N. J.

Information given out by the Jersey City health authorities and published in THE NEW YORK TIMES on July 3 to the effect that Amo Bartholdi, whose wife had been found suffering with smallpox, after violating a quarantine order, had moved his family of seven children to Summit, N. J., proved to be erroneous. The authorities announced subsequently that the family moved to Summit Avenue, Jersey City.

Estate to Revert to Columbia.

Augustus C. Eimer of Eimer & Amend, wholesale druggists of Third Avenue and Eighteenth Street, who died on April 23 last, left an estate of about $8,500 to his widow, according to his will and the petition filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday. The estate consists of the capital stock of the drug firm and is eventually to go to Columbia University. The same institution is to receive his manuscripts, library and collections upon the death of his wife. She is named residuary legatee.

Middle West Co. Acquires New Unit.

The necessary stock to assure transfer of control of the Manchester (N. H.) Traction, Light and Power Company to the Middle West Utilities Company has been received, according to a report from the city yesterday. About 85 per cent. of the outstanding certificates have been turned in and the actual transfer of the property will take place July 15.

INJUNCTION TO SAVE TREES.

Contractor Moving Houses Is Enjoined From Lopping Off Branches.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 8.—Henry G. Noel, a contractor, who some weeks ago obtained a permit from Mayor Harry Scott to remove three houses from the grounds of New Rochelle College down Leland Avenue to Willow Drive, must not cut off any more limbs from the ancient elm trees that line the avenue, according to a decision handed down today by Justice George E. Taylor in Yonkers.

When Noel moved the first house he lopped off branches from the trees that overhung the avenue. This incensed residents of the avenue and sixty-three persons, headed by Mrs. Anna Campbell, applied to the Court for an injunction to restrain Noel from moving the houses and injuring the trees.

A temporary injunction was obtained and today Justice Taylor continued the injunction to the extent of restraining Noel from cutting or interfering with the trees. He refused, however, to restrain the contractor from moving the houses, provided the movement could be accomplished without hurting the trees.

The will of Mrs. Martha G. Hervey, a widow, who lived at the Hotel Imperial and who died on July 2, leaves more than $60,000 in bequests to friends. She has no living relatives or next of kin. Two charitable bequests were made by the will, which was filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday.

The Polyclinic Hospital receives $1,000 and the New York Association for the Blind gets $2,000. Frank Catlin of 44 Burnett Street, Maplewood, N. J., gets $5,000 and his wife, Mrs. Ella Catlin, inheriting jewelry and personal effects. Leland Catlin of the same address receives the income from a $20,000 trust fund until he reaches the age of 30, when he will get the principal.

Mary McKenna and Margaret Healy of 1,011 Seneca Avenue, Brooklyn, and Anna Cox of 31 Meeting Street, Charleston, S. C., each receiving the income from a $10,000 trust fund until she is 50 years old, when she gets the principal. Two employes of the Columbia Trust Company, Arthur Premont of 543 West Eighty-fifth Street and Henry M. Atkins, each gets $3,000.

YELLOW CAB MERGER NOT OPERATING DEAL

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Motor truck and passenger coach manufacturing of the United States becomes centred in Chicago as a result of the merger of General Motors Corporation, truck division, with the Yellow Cab Manufacturing Company, into the Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing Company, a $36,000,000 corporation.

John Hertz, organizing genius of the taxicab and motor coach manufacturing and operating business, who engineered the deal and who becomes Chairman of the Board of Directors of the new corporation, said today that he will continue to live here, and that John A. Ritchie, head of the Chicago Motor Coach Company, President of the merged corporation, will likewise remain here.

"Controlling offices of the company will be in Chicago," Mr. Hertz said. "Factories in Chicago, Pontiac and Detroit will remain as they are. Where new manufacturing units will be located has not been decided."

Mr. Hertz will continue as President of the Yellow Cab Company and Chairman of the board of the Omnibus Corporation, which owns the Chicago Motor Coach Company. The operating companies are not affected by the truck and coach company mergers, and a change in operating control of these organizations is not contemplated, Mr. Hertz said.

President Boyd Sees Profits After Five Years of Depression.

Henry W. Boyd, President of the Armour Leather Company, authorized a statement yesterday that the company, after five years of depression, is again on a profit basis, with a more favorable outlook for 1925 than for any year since the year 1919.

The current year, it is said, will show a substantial return. Losses due to the war have now been so completely liquidated that with prevailing prices and demand the leather industry is rapidly improving.

SEES OIL INDUSTRY IN SOUND CONDITION

Year Will Be Best Since 1921 If Demand and Prices Hold, Standard of Jersey Says.

The petroleum industry of the United States will end the year 1925 in a sounder condition than at any time since 1921, provided the current volume of consumption and the present level of prices continue, according to opinion expressed by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in the current issue of The Lamp, its official organ.

In reviewing the progress of the industry during the first half of the year and analyzing conditions as they prevailed at the turn of the half year, the company says that predictions in the petroleum industry are good "only when they are rewritten each day to keep pace with current information. Every well-managed oil company attempts to work out some kind of a quantity budget based on estimated needs to come and means of supplying them. It is not proof of bad judgment when both of the principal factors fail to develop as outlined in the first estimate. Consider, for instance," says the company, "the upsetting effect of Smackover. When forecasts were made in December, 1924, this field was doing about 95,000 barrels of oil a day. Less than six months later it was reporting more than 425,000 barrels a day, and threatening to grow bigger. A month later it was down to 360,000 barrels a day. How can any production expert foresee the ups and downs of a business that fluctuates like that?

"The situation at the turn of the year, July 1, is not greatly changed from its status six months ago. Current production of crude and consumption of crude and products promise to about offset one another. If another Smackover does not come to light, the industry should end the current year with only a slight addition to the stocks above ground, if any.

"The gasoline demand has shown a healthy increase and promises to maintain throughout the twelve months an average gain equal to that for the year 1924. The early figures supplied by the Government were probably misleading in showing sales 28 per cent. ahead of those for the corresponding quarter of the preceding year. If for the full year we get an average percentage increase in consumption—it was 17 per cent. as reported last year—the volume will be satisfactory. If the prevailing price level of petroleum products is maintained on this increased amount of business it should bring a substantial addition to the aggregate earnings of the industry."

GILLETTE RAZOR DIVIDENDS

Declares Extra of 25 Cents and Regular Quarterly of 75 Cents.

Directors of the Gillette Safety Razor Company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and a regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents, payable Sept. 1, to stock of record Aug. 1. This is an increase in the regular per annum rate from a $2.50 basis to $3. In each of the two preceding quarters the company paid an extra dividend of 12½ cents in addition to the regular dividend of 62½ cents.

The company reports for the six months ended June 30 net income of $5,736,965 after all reserves, taxes &c., equavilent to $3.86 a share earned on 2,000,000 no par shares of capital stock. This compares with $5,037,973 or $15.07 a share on the 334,215 shares outstanding in the first half of 1924.

Trends in Men's Sports Wear.

A strong vogue continues for the knitted wool pullover to be worn with golf clothes instead of a coat. The pattern trend in these garments has changed. Instead of the conspicuous designs and color combinations, the tendency is to soft, subtle colors on the marl or heather type. In many instances the Fair Isle designs have been toned down and self-colored effects stressed. This has also had its effect on golf hosiery, which matches the sweater. Both are in contrast to flannel trousers in the popular light silver gray, biscuit, twine and helio shades. Poulards are favored in neckwear for sports wear, the patterns being small, neat and bright colored on light grounds.

Burlap Prices Rise Here.

Burlap prices show quite a sharp upturn this week, under the influence of high quotations in the primary market, and buyers have shown more interest in the local market than for some time. Although some of the buying appears to be speculative, consumers are covering their needs freely against the possibility of further advances. Since last week spot 40-inch 8-ounce cloths have risen 35 points here, while 10½-ounce burlaps of the same weight have gone up half a cent. Calcutta is very active, and no firm offers have been made in the last couple of days. A general rise of about 30 points there yesterday was reported. These were the prices quoted on standard burlaps here yesterday by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

Aluminum and Enamel Ware.

Buying is light in the aluminum and enamel ware field, but manufacturers are looking for improved conditions in August. Jobbers' and retailers' stocks are reported to be low. Enamel ware is still selling better than the aluminum. White enamel ware is preferred to the gray. No price advances are anticipated in enamel ware, although the levels are still close to the pre-war figures. Overproduction is said to be responsible for this condition. Improved methods of manufacture first used during the war are said to account for the superiority of domestic goods over the foreign. Despite this, manufacturers do not report much headway in their efforts to build up an export business of fair proportions.

Raw Silk Situation.

Following declines of 30 yen on Monday and 20 more on Tuesday in the Japanese raw silk market, a large business was done in the market here. Accordingly, prices at Yokohama yesterday moved 20 yen higher than the previous low, on sales of 4,000 bales. The activity in Japan is explained by the better demand here and the greater assortment of stocks available there. Arrivals of new season silk from the filatures are now becoming normal, according to E. Gerli & Co., Inc., and afford a greater choice to exporters. No new developments are reported from Canton, although it is understood that Chinese silk interests are bringing all pressure to bear for a quick resumption of business. At Shanghai some very fair business in China steam filatures has been done for delivery as far as November. There is no business being done in Italian silks. Fluctuations of lire exchange and the high prices asked by reelers make dollar prices uninteresting.

Gray Goods Inquiries Numerous.

Although inquiries for gray goods were numerous enough in this market yesterday, sales were none too large from all accounts. Spot trading took place in 38½-inch 64-60s at 9½ cents, and the same construction also sold for September delivery at 9¼ cents. Spot 38½-inch 60-48s brought 7¾ cents. For August lots of 38½-inch 44-40s buyers paid 6¼ cents. Sheetings were dull during the day, but active inquiry was reported for drills, especially 4.75-yard goods. Second hands sold spot lots of 64-inch 3.95-yard drills at 9¾ cents. In the specialties there was some trading in spot 64-60 pajama checks at 8½ cents, with 10⅜ cents asked for 72-80s.

Raw Fur Sales Picking Up.

With the arrival in this market of the advance guard of retail buyers of manufactured furs, an improvement is beginning to be noticed in the movement of raw furs. One of the interesting things about it is the broader movement of the skins used especially for neckwear purposes. Among the skins showing the improvement are marten, sable and the various foxes. In the latter is seen a growing call for silver foxes, especially in the grades known as half to three-quarter silvery. While the raw fur business of the moment is by no means of boom proportions, leading factors in the trade profess to see in the present half year just as good trading as that produced by the one just closed.

Expect Favor for Mannish Suits.

Popularity for the higher grade two-piece mannish suit is forecast for Fall by some of the prominent manufacturers here. The coats of these suits are of the seven-eighths length. Rough mannish fabrics are favored in the main, although a variety of fancy textures will be stressed. An early Fall business of satisfactory proportions in this class of goods is looked for. At the same time the three-piece costume suit, to be worn on all except formal occasions, is expected to retain its vogue. Imported fabrics play an important part in these suits, it being estimated that about 25 per cent. of the fabrics used is of foreign origin.

Encouraging reports are being made by some of the ready-to-wear houses over the progress of the early buying by retailers. Several manufacturers said yesterday that the situation was shaping up much better than last year at this time. Then there was the labor disturbance to bother the trade, but at present these manufacturers agree that there will probably be a minimum of labor trouble for the Fall season. It was added, however, that the demand in the showrooms is not likely to reach its peak until August, although the remainder of this month will become increasingly busy. The manufacturers stressed the desirability of retailers having their purchases well in hand for the opening of the season, contending that many of the stores have lost out on their early business because of small and not sufficiently assorted stocks.

Floor Coverings Trade Quiet.

Business in the local floor coverings trade at the moment is in the hay and grass state. Leading houses in the industry look for quite good buying this month by many of the jobbers who did not cover their needs earlier in the season—they professing to see a chance of lower prices—but as yet it has not developed to any great extent. The next week or so, however, is expected to bring them in with their orders. Pending this there is not very much of interest going on. Among producers one of the chief topics of discussion continues to be the scarcity of carpet wool. So scarce is this commodity in the open market here at this time that it is said that the number of bales available can easily be counted on the fingers.

Jute Production May Be Small.

The smallest production of jute in some time is foreshadowed for the 1925-1926 crop in India by cables received in this market yesterday, despite the fact that the acreage under the staple is considerably larger than that of last year. The cables set the final estimate of the current crop's acreage at 2,910,000, against 2,732,703 last year. So much damage has been done to the crop by heavy rains, however, that a production of less than 9,000,000 bales is looked for. This quantity is said to be about 500,000 bales less than the world's annual consumption of the article. Marked speculation in jute has been in evidence in Calcutta in the last several days, and prices have been rising sharply. A rise of two pounds sterling per ton there yesterday was reported by the cables.

NEW TYPE AIRPLANE ORDERED FOR NAVY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—What is regarded as an important step in the development of naval aircraft design was taken today when the Navy Department awarded a contract to the Douglas Company at Santa Monica, Cal., for three twin-engine bombing planes at a total cost of $229,500. The planes are intended for experimental use and if they prove successful more will be ordered.

The contract calls for planes of a new design to be used for scouting, bombing and torpedo dropping, each with two 400-horsepower air-cooled engines. They will be a variation of the SC three-purpose type now in quantity production for the navy.

The new twin-engine planes will be known as the T2-D type and are to be convertible for use either as a land plane or as a twin float seaplane. Upon delivery they will be tested under service conditions with the naval aircraft squadrons at various stations. The T2-D is a biplane with both engines mounted on the lower wings as tractors. The plane will carry a crew of three men and radio equipment.

This experimental development is another step in fulfillment of a naval aircraft policy to produce multiple purpose types of planes for use with the fleet. By combining long distance scouting, bombing and torpedo dropping in one plane as has been done in the SC type the problems of operation and upkeep are simplified and greater flexibility obtained with the squadrons. It is also said by naval aviation experts that the use of the three-purpose planes will simplify the matter of spare parts and repair and result in more economical and efficient operation.

$750,000 LOSS IN OIL FIRE.

EL DORADO, Ark., July 8 (AP).—Fire, which caused $750,000 damage at Cross Roads, the newest oil boom town, was under control today and no further loss was expected. The giant gasser of the Natural Gas and Petroleum Company, which is running wild at the rate of 90,000,000 cubic feet a day, was saved from the flames, which originated 200 yards away in the treating plant of the Imperial Oil and Gas Products Company.

The fire swept four wells and six earthen storage pits. The Ohio Oil and Gas Company, whose property adjoins directly that of the Imperial Company, was a heavy loser.

Removal of brush and timber and the hurried digging of ditches with pit digging machinery saved wells and storage pits in the path of the fire.

Fresno Bees Drown in Own Honey.

FRESNO, Cal., July 8 (AP).—Many colonies of bees in Fresno County have been drowned in their own honey, the hives melting during the recent heat wave. The June report of C. R. Synder, Inspector of Apiaries, filed with the Board of Supervisors, revealed the conditions.

Opportunities on the market for merchants and buyers everywhere.

FORSTMANN F. & H. FABRICS

Needlepoint

Forstmann & Huffmann Company

THE FORSTMANN & HUFFMANN COMPANY desires to inform the trade and the public regarding the flagrant misuse by certain manufacturers of fabrics and women's garments of the trade name of Needlepoint, one of the newest and most famous Forstmann Fabrics for the Fall and Winter seasons of 1925-26.

The use of the Forstmann trade name Needlepoint in advertisements or by sales to describe inferior qualities of so-called Bolivia and pile fabrics is illegal and deceiving to the trade and the public. Vigorous action will be taken in every instance of such misuse which comes to the attention of the Forstmann & Huffmann Company.

Needlepoint differs radically from Bolivia or pile fabrics, both of which types were originated and have been discontinued by the Forstmann & Huffmann Company. Needlepoint is an entirely new development in the spinning, weaving and finishing of the finest cashmere wool obtainable. As such it has already established itself as one of the most exclusive and desired coating fabrics introduced for many seasons.

Needlepoint, in common with all other Forstmann Fabrics, can be identified at once by the Forstmann symbol shown above, which is stamped on the back of every yard. The integrity of this trademark, which is a guarantee to the trade and the public of supreme quality in style and materials, will be maintained by every legal means available.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The markets had most things in their favor yesterday. Money rates declined sharply as the reservoirs of credit once more started to overflow. From a 4 per cent. rate for call funds on the previous day, it dipped to 3½ per cent. Ample funds were to be secured outside of the official call market at 3½ per cent. The figures are interesting only in that they reflect the continued good and healthy condition of the money market, which now is fulfilling the predictions made prior to the recent strain that it was a temporary affair entirely, due to the half-year payments, and that a condition of easy money once again would prevail when these credits had returned to their normal channels. It was small wonder then, in the face of this development and in the complete absence of anything which might be construed as disturbing or apprehensive news, that investment and speculative securities alike should mount to higher levels.

In the bond market particularly there is extremely keen competition for first-class securities. Most of those in the "gilt-edged" class, as a matter of fact, are selling now at about their highest prices for the year. The country's best securities, of course, are the Liberty bonds, and these in recent days, and again yesterday, were under the influence of extremely heavy buying. Their open market price naturally synchronizes very closely with the money market and at the present time, in view of their comparatively high prices and, of course, low yield, there is apparently a tendency to direct funds into other bonds and stocks of first-class standing. Under such conditions, it is small wonder that the market shows such an extraordinarily firm tone.

From an industrial standpoint the day's news was constructive, and the developments appeared to be rather closely associated with the information as it came along. For instance, the strengthening in prices for raw copper was followed almost immediately by a sharp upturn in the representative stocks of the industry. The outstanding incident of the day, however, was the manner in which the steel shares responded to the apparent optimism of the journals of the trade. One of them predicted that "consumption will continue through July and August well above the Summer of 1924," while the other remarked that "all the indications are that the process of curtailment is nearly spent and that supply and demand have been brought close to a balancing position." This is expert testimony that the markets could hardly ignore. On the Stock Exchange there was a considerable stirring in the steel shares, which had been neglected for many weeks, but their movement was no more emphatic than that of the copper shares.

What seems to be the outstanding development, from a market standpoint, is that there are few erratic movements and that stocks are moving forward along a definite upward trend, with only minor interruptions each day as pressure develops from profit-taking or from temporary "bearish gestures." There seems to be very little speculative excitement in any of the markets (and this applies to the commodities as well as securities). Rather they appear to be engaged in discounting developments of the immediate future and in this barometric capacity are calm and entirely deliberate.

The two outstanding developments of the day in the foreign market, the resignation of the Italian Minister of Finance and the suspension of the German Boerse, in protest against the proposed 2½ per cent. valuation for pre-war securities, had but passing effect on the foreign exchange market. In the main the currencies of all European countries closed at a higher price last night than at the previous close. It may be said that in international banking circles a more calm and sane view is being taken of the foreign exchange situation—particularly as regards the open market value of the franc and the lira—than was to be observed at this time last week.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 8, 1925.

With plenty of money around, and a light demand, Stock Exchange call funds dropped to 3½, after starting at 4 per cent. Time money was quiet, some odd-lot money for three months lending at 4¼@4½ per cent., and end of October funds at 4 per cent. Outside of this there was little doing in the fixed period market. Commercial paper was fairly active, with the prevailing discount at 4 per cent., which is the rate most of the banks are asking. An occasional trade at 3¾ per cent. was reported.

SECURITY HOLDERS DIFFER ON ST. PAUL

PEABODY FOR QUICK ACTION

E. C. Jameson, President of the Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance Company, declared yesterday that the reorganization of the St. Paul Railroad should be postponed until Congress has had an opportunity to act upon legislation to extend the $55,000,000 Government loan to the road.

His statement was answered promptly by Charles A. Peabody, spokesman for the bondholders' committee, in the absence abroad of Frederick Ecker. This committee, Mr. Peabody asserted, was opposed to the extension of the debt, as this extension would require the sale of first and refunding mortgage bonds to take care of the Government debt, and thus materially weaken the financial structure of the St. Paul. He also urged immediate acceptance of the reorganization plan proposed by the bankers to avoid the expense of delay.

"Bondholders should realize," he declared, "that the expense of delay in reorganization would be borne entirely by them. During such time the rate of interest on the Government loan would continue at 6 per cent.; and the advantage of receiving the new money to be supplied by the shareholders would be lost. These losses, together with other losses and expenses incident to the continuation of the receivership, are conservatively estimated at $1,000,000 a year. They would reduce to that extent the available earnings of the company applicable to the payment of interest on the adjustment mortgage bonds to be given under the plan to the depositing bondholders.

"Even if rates were increased tomorrow the bondholders' committee would favor the present plan because it assures to the bondholders, to meet their interest, the available income, whatever it may prove to be, and because of our belief that the financial structure of the system should be such as to enable it to go through even a repetition of the conditions of the last eight years without incurring the risk of another receivership."

Mr. Jameson made the following statement:

"I believe the group we represent to be the largest holders of St. Paul securities. We feel strongly that there is great injustice in the present railroad rates in the Northwest, and that no plan can be assured to be the best until that fundamental is rectified. A reasonable increase in rates would obviate the necessity of what is virtually an assessment on the junior bonds, or for as large an assessment on the shareholders as is now proposed.

"We also believe that during the coming Winter legislation can and should be passed which would extend the Government loan at a reasonable rate for a term of years, and the Government would be justified in so doing. We do not feel like bringing out an alternative plan until the situation in regard to the foregoing matters has been clarified. Under these conditions we see no reason for haste in any deposit of securities."

Arbuckles Cut Sugar Price.

Arbuckle Brothers have reduced the price at refined sugar ten points to 5.40 cents a pound for prompt shipment, and are quoting delayed shipments at 5.50 cents. This is a new low for the year for refined sugar.

INVESTMENT BUYING OF U. S. STEEL GAINS

BRITISH SELLING STOCK

Investment holdings of the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation increased during the second quarter of the year, according to figures made public yesterday. While investors in this country were buying there was heavy liquidation by British investors, who reduced their holdings from 100,837 shares on March 31 to 30,990 shares on June 30, a decrease of 69,847 shares.

Investors, it was stated, held 3,780,272 shares of the company's common stock on June 30, equal to 74.55 per cent. of the total issue outstanding, while brokers' holdings aggregated 1,293,743 shares, or 25.45 per cent. of the total issue.

	June 30 '25	Mar. 31, '25	Dec. 31, '24
Investors	74.55%	73.19%	41.95%
Brokers	25.45%	26.81%	58.05%

Investors of New York State held 1,245,944 shares of common stock on June 30, equal to 24.51 per cent. of the issue, against 1,205,179 shares held on March 31, equal to 23.72 per cent., and 1,296,804 shares, or 25.51 per cent., held on June 30 last year. Brokers' holdings in this State amounted to 1,206,420 shares, or 31.77 per cent., on June 30, against 1,219,520 shares, or 23.99 per cent., on March 31, 1925, and 896,400 shares, or 17.63 per cent., on June 30, 1924.

The opinion was expressed yesterday that the heavy selling of British investment holdings of this stock was due to the efforts of England to restore sterling exchange to a gold parity. The foreign holdings of the company's common stock is shown in the following table:

Foreign holdings of U. S. Steel preferred at the close of the June quarter were 111,800 shares, or 3.1 per cent. of the issue, against 111,468 shares, or 3.1 per cent., on March 31, and 112,191 shares, or 3.12 per cent., at end of June, 1924.

Interest payable semi-annually, January 1st and July 1st. Principal and interest payable in New York City, or Columbia, South Carolina. Coupon Bonds fully registerable and interchangeable in denomination of $1,000.

Exempt from Federal, State, Municipal and Local Taxation

Acceptable as Security for Postal Savings and Other Deposits of Government Funds

These Bonds are the obligations of The First Carolinas Joint Stock Land Bank and are collaterally secured by first mortgages on farm property or temporarily by U. S. Government obligations.

The Bank reports that: The mortgage loans amount to $9,593,775 against property conservatively appraised at $25,223,095. The average loan per acre is $20.72 or about 38% of the appraised value of the property. The Bank has a paid-in capital of $700,000 and surplus, reserves and undivided profits of $100,085. The legal liability of the shareholders is double the amount of their stock. The present net earnings exceed 14% per annum. Dividends are paid quarterly at the rate of 8% per annum.

Under the law all of the loans are made on an amortization plan which provides for the payment of substantially equal amounts each six months, a portion of each payment being interest, and the balance reducing the principal of the loan which is entirely retired at the end of the period. As a result of this system of installment payments of principal there is a constantly increasing margin of security in the mortgage loans pledged as collateral to secure the bonds.

PRICES OF RUBBER HIGHEST SINCE 1916

LONDON SHARES IN RECORD

Price Hailed in British Capital as Almost Enough to Pay Current War Debt Instalments.

New high ground was reached again yesterday for spot and position options in the crude rubber market. Unconfirmed reports of sales of spot smoked sheets at 98 cents, an advance of 5 cents over Tuesday's price, made the highest quotation since early in 1916. There was general trading at 97 cents. The improvement in other grades ranged from 2 to 5 cents. London also enjoyed a buoyant market, the price there going to 47d, an advance of 3d over Tuesday's closing.

Rumors circulating in the trade as a basis for the great advance which the staple has enjoyed since the week began include the existence of a substantial short interest which is attempting to lighten its commitments by repurchases of previous short sales, and Chinese labor trouble in the British possessions.

Special to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 8.—Rubber jumped today to its highest price since February, 1916. The Evening News remarks that "incidentally, the effect of the rise in prices will increase the cost of British rubber to American buyers almost enough, if not quite, to pay the current instalments on our war debts to the United States Government."

Rubber was quoted today in Mincing Lane at 3s. 9d. per pound, as against 3s. 7¾d. yesterday and 3s. 5¼d. Monday. The rise is for immediate delivery, but even futures are rising sharply. The rate for January to March touched 3s 2d today, against 2s. 9½d. yesterday. The present price is the result of increased demand, combined with a restriction scheme on production set up by the Stevenson Committee of the Colonial Office.

The popularity of balloon tires is one reason given here for the great demands on the market, and there seems no likelihood of any relaxation in restrictions on producers till the next regular meeting of the Stevenson Committee, scheduled for the beginning of next month. There has been no movement yet to hasten it. Just now, the exportable production, or "standard production," from this country is fixed at 65 per cent. per quarter, as long as the price remains above 1s. 6d. per pound. This would mean that on Feb. 1, 1926, exportable production would have reached 95 per cent. of standard, 410,621,400 pounds, an increase of about 24,000 tons over the same period last year. The value of these imports, according to official returns, was $125,085,000, against $85,501,000, an increase of over 40 per cent. in value, as compared to only a 28 per cent. increase in quantity. These figures go far to justify the contention of the Department of Commerce. The American bill for rubber in 1924 was $185,000,000, and this year would be $400,000,000.

The stocks of rubber held by brokers in London fell 25,000 tons during six months for which figures have been given to 17,700 tons, and that the fall was not greater is taken by The London Times as showing a further increase in world production, which increased steadily from 1922. Thus Malagan exports rose in the first five months of 1925 by 11,000 tons to 116,700. It is these stocks of rubber which, in the view of H. Eric Miller, Chairman of the Rubber Growers' Association, justify the institution of the Stevenson restriction scheme.

Three years ago, he declared, they had a disastrously depressing effect on the market and prevented a normal and quite possible expansion on the plantations. The stocks have been gradually decreasing. Mr. Miller, in his annual address to the association, expressed the opinion that American buyers, who take 70 per cent. of the world's rubber, followed a short-sighted policy in buying only from hand to mouth last year, in the face of a steady reduction in the surplus. He complained that as soon as that had happened buyers were in absolute control of the market situation and they could have forced the price up, thereby bringing about a relaxation of restrictions on output as soon as they pleased. Yet in the October quarter of last year they kept the price down to 1s. 3d. and in the quarter from November to January when the price was expected to go over 1s. 6d., which meant an additional 10 per cent. release, they kept below that figure.

STANDARD DENIES RUMOR.

Jersey Company Not to Retire Its Preferred Stock.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey yesterday officially denied that it had any intention of retiring the outstanding preferred stock. Under the terms of its issuance the stock could be retired in toto at $115 a share on any dividend date after three years from the date of last issue.

The recent rumors regarding the proposed retirement of the preferred stock, the company says, "has grown its own legs and has at least the support of repetition. It is accepted now almost as a fact that the company will call the stock in and replace it with bonds. This has seriously disturbed the plans of many investors. They have been writing to the Treasurer to learn if they must change their investment plans.

"This rumor has no foundation in fact. As a matter of possible interest, it might be stated that under the terms of the stock offer the issue could not be retired before March, 1926."

Central Power Income Increased.

The Central Power and Light Company of St. Louis, which is being taken over by the Insull interests, reports twelve months' gross to June 1 of $5,305,999, against $4,425,143 the previous year, an increase of nearly 20 per cent. Operating income was $3,431,318, against $2,916,201, and net revenue available for depreciation, interest, &c., $1,874,681, against $1,508,942, a gain of 24.24 per cent.

OUTLOOK HOPEFUL IN STEEL INDUSTRY

JUNE BUSINESS IMPROVED

Curtailment Believed to Be Spent and Supply and Demand Brought Near a Balance.

More optimistic views of the iron and steel industry than have been taken for many weeks are expressed by journals of the trade, which anticipate an increase in orders during the next few months.

In summing up the situation The Iron Age comments as follows:

"That consumption will continue through July and August on a scale well above that of the Summer of 1924 is indicated as the steel trade enters on the second half of the year. Today's mill operations are slightly below those of the week before the holiday. However, the number of new orders and the firmer attitude of some leading producers in respect to prices are taken as favorable signs, together with the fact that in the heavier products June business showed an improvement over May, even though small.

"Estimates of June production of steel by the larger companies bear out the week-to-week statements in this review that operations last month averaged 70 per cent. Counting the country's capacity at 54,000,000 tons, this would mean over 3,100,000 tons of ingots for June and a total of more than 22,250,000 tons for the first half of the year."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"Whether July will be a turning point in the iron and steel situation, after three months of steady retrenchment, remains an open question. All indications are that the process of curtailment is nearly spent and that supply and demand have been brought close to a balancing position. The movement of material, while well sustained, is yet to show any trustworthy signs of an early expansion. In all events, however, the record is decidedly better than a year ago, when a condition of heavy production in the early months, followed by a sharp decline by midyear, prevailed. Sixty to 65 per cent. operations of the steel works today are fully 20 per cent. above the rate at this time in 1924 and which was lowest in July. The steadiness of the present situation is more and more cause for hopeful sentiment and increasing expectations that subsequent changes will be for the better."

Manila Electric Income Increases.

The Manila Electric Corporation reports gross operating revenue of $311,958 for June, against $300,963 a year ago, and net income available for depreciation and dividends of $116,133, against $110,150. For the twelve months ended June 30 gross was $3,762,764, against $3,667,158, and net income $1,377,695, against $1,394,610.

Why Are Public Utility Stocks
Selling for Less than they are Worth?

We are receiving letters on this subject from our clients in all parts of the country

COMMON stocks of electric light and power companies have doubled and even quadrupled in value in the last few years and are today in increasing demand. Consolidations, mergers and absorptions of small companies by the larger utility interests have been of almost daily occurrence. Increasingly heavy appropriations are being made for new construction and generating facilities. The electric light and power industry has become the largest enterprise in the United States.

But the largest portion of electric light and power is sold to domestic consumers and the average current consumption of this great majority is so low as to be BARELY PROFITABLE. The electric bill of the average residence is only about $2 per month. If the Electric Light and Power Companies can add but one dollar to this bill, Utility Stocks are still cheap.

At the convention of the National Electric Light Association just concluded in San Francisco it was made clearly apparent to the thinking executives of the electric light and power industry that in ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION a means had at last been found which, properly fostered, will make a profitable account out of each residence customer and at the same time save money for this consumer.

An electric refrigerator will consume about $25 worth of electricity yearly in the average home (less than the cost of ice) and will require practically no additional investment on the part of the electric light and power companies.

We are advising our clients that PUBLIC UTILITY COMMON STOCKS ARE SELLING FOR LESS THAN THEY ARE WORTH if the electric light and power companies will foster and develop the now infant industry of electric refrigeration and thereby double the electrical energy consumed by the American home.

We believe that the electric light and power companies are beginning to realize the profound importance of the electric refrigerator and will foster the installation of millions of them within the next few years to the great satisfaction of their customers. This should result in

SECURITY

These bonds will be the direct obligation of the company and in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by closed first mortgage lien created under the laws of Japan on properties representing a cost less depreciation, as of February 28, 1925, of $33,234,478, as certified by Messrs. Harold Bell, Taylor, Bird & Co., Chartered Accountants. These properties comprise an integral part of the company's system and include generating plants having a total present capacity of 136,100 k.w., substations of 195,400 k.v.a. total present capacity and 396 miles of high tension transmission lines. The bonds will be further secured, in the opinion of counsel, by closed mortgage lien created under the laws of Japan on additional properties representing a cost less depreciation as of the above date of $37,063,367, subject only to the lien of the mortgage securing the company's Series A Bonds (closed issue), of which $14,500,000 will be outstanding upon completion of the present financing. Total properties thus securing the present issue of bonds represented a cost less depreciation of $70,297,845, and include all of the completed power plants, substations, transmission lines and distribution lines now directly owned by the company, with the exception of a small distributing system the ownership of which is to be vested in a subsidiary company.

EARNINGS

Results of operations for consecutive fiscal terms of six months each, as certified by Messrs. Harold Bell, Taylor, Bird & Co. for four fiscal terms to November 30, 1924, and as reported by the company for the fiscal term ended May 31, 1925, were as follows:

	Gross Operating Earnings	Operating Expense, Maintenance and Taxes	Net Operating Earnings	Other Income	Net Income before Interest and Depreciation

Net income before interest and depreciation for the twelve months ended May 31, 1925, as shown above, amounted to $5,241,398, or approximately 2¼ times maximum annual interest requirements of $1,892,500 on total mortgage bonds, and approximately twice maximum annual interest requirements of $2,707,000 on total mortgage and debenture bonds, to be outstanding on completion of this financing. The growth in the earnings shown above has been due primarily to increased generating and distributing capacity, generating plants aggregating 194,700 k.w. capacity having been completed or acquired during the above two and one-half year period.

CAPITALIZATION AND EQUITY

The company's outstanding capitalization upon completion of this financing will be: Mortgage Bonds: Series A, due 1944, $14,500,000, this issue, $13,500,000; Debenture Bonds: due 1929, $8,575,000, due 1930, $5,000,000; Capital Stock: 2,259,260 shares, $25 par value, fully paid, $56,481,500. Present quotations in Japan for the company's debentures and capital stock indicate a market equity in these securities of approximately $53,000,000. The company's stock is owned by more than 19,000 stockholders.

* Conversions of earnings, interest charges and market quotations for the company's debentures and capital stock, from Japanese to United States currency, have been made at the rate of 40 cents per yen, approximately the present rate of exchange. All other conversions have been made for convenience at the rate of 50 cents per yen, parity being 49.85 cents per yen.

Pittsburgh Parking Garages, Incorporated

First Closed Mortgage Twenty-Year 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

Dated—July 1, 1925 Due—July 1, 1945

Coupon bonds in denomination of $1000, registerable as to principal. Redeemable as a whole, or in part, on 30 days' notice at 105 and accrued interest. Interest payable semi-annually January 1st, and July 1st, without deduction for the Normal Federal Income Tax up to 2% at the office of the Trustee. Free of the Pennsylvania Four-Mill Tax. Commonwealth Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, Trustee.

A bond guaranteeing completion of the buildings on, or before July 1st, 1926, in accordance with the plans and specifications will be issued by Fidelity and Deposit Company, of Maryland.

COMPANY: Pittsburgh Parking Garages, Incorporated, has been organized for the purpose of erecting and operating patented ramp type garages in the downtown district of the City of Pittsburgh. Among those financially interested in the company, and from whom the directors will be chosen, are the following:

Joseph Dilworth, Secretary, Dilworth, Porter Co.; Hon. John P. Harris, President, Harris Amusement Co., Vice President, Harry Davis Enterprises Co.; Grant McCargo, President, William Penn Hotel Company, Pittsburgh Hotels Co.; J. E. Nelson, Treasurer, Gulf Oil Corporation; George R. Hann, Henry W. Oliver Estate; James H. Lockhart, Director, Mellon National Bank; Edgar Kaufmann, President, Kaufmann Department Stores, Inc.; John C. Dilworth, General Manager, Dilworth, Porter Co.; Joseph Horne, Secretary, Joseph Horne Company; T. A. Mellon, President, Mellon-Stuart Company; Lewis A. Park, Park Building; C. McK. Lynch, Moore, Leonard & Lynch; Albert G. Wells, Wells, Deane & Singer and Lloyd W. Smith, President, Union National Bank.

SECURITY: These bonds will be a direct obligation of the Pittsburgh Parking Garages, Inc., secured by a first mortgage on valuable downtown real estate in the City of Pittsburgh and buildings to be erected thereon. This real estate has been purchased at a cost of $800,000.00 on which will be erected buildings at a construction cost of approximately $650,000.00. Total $1,450,000.00.

Directors and others interested in the Company have underwritten junior securities for which the Company will receive $600,000 in cash—which is an equity of 60% of the entire bond issue.

EARNINGS: After careful study of the traffic conditions in the City of Pittsburgh, the earnings have been conservatively estimated from actual figures of Detroit Garages, Inc., who are operating three units of the same type in Detroit. Allowing for operating expenses, taxes, and depreciation, net earnings are estimated to be three times interest requirements and two and one-quarter times interest and sinking fund requirements.

SINKING FUND: An annual minimum sinking fund of $25,000, which will be cumulative from July 1, 1927, payable semi-annually to the Trustee, will, by its operations, retire approximately $800,000 of bonds by maturity. Money in the Sinking Fund will be used semi-annually to purchase bonds in the open market at prices not to exceed 105, and for redemption by lot at this price on 30 days' published notice.

All matters of legality pertaining to this issue are subject to the approval of Messrs. Patterson, Crawford, Miller and Arensberg, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Moorehead & Knox, for the Company. We offer these bonds, when, as and if issued and subject to the aforementioned legal opinions.

SAY OIL PRODUCTION PASSED PEAK IN 1923

SEE NEED OF IMPORTATION

Declare We Must Rely on Foreign Fields in the Future and Then on Substitutes.

Probability that the oil fields of the United States passed their ultimate peak of production in 1923 and have entered upon their final phase of slow and gradual decline is indicated in a special report to R. M. Catlin, President of the Mining and Metallurgical Society of America, made public yesterday.

The authoritative character of the report is due to the fact that it was made by a committee of some of the foremost geologists and mining engineers of the country, including A. C. Veatch, Chairman, director of exploration, Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation; David White, senior geologist, United States Geological Survey; Van H. Manning, formerly director of the United States Bureau of Mines and director of research of American Petroleum Institute; A. W. Ambrose, former chief petroleum technologist, United States Bureau of Mines; Roderic Crandell, consulting petroleum engineer, and W. B. Heroy, formerly of the Land Classification Board, United States Geological Survey.

The conclusions of this committee are that consumption is now increasing more rapidly than supply; that higher prices of petroleum and gasoline are inevitable and are advocated as a stimulus to production; that, with the exception of 1914, there has been no year since 1910 when domestic consumption has not shown an increase over the previous year; that, despite phenomenally big pools brought in in 1923 and 1924, the rate of increase of consumption for 1923 was 3½ per cent. greater than the rate of increase of supply, while in 1924 the rate of increase of supply decreased 3.7 per cent., but the rate of increase of consumption increased 5.1 per cent., or a spread of 9 per cent. between consumption and supply, and that only two oil pools in the United States are now producing over 100,000 barrels daily, the Long Beach in California and the Smackover in Arkansas. Heavy importations and increased volume of oil in storage have steadied the situation, but these conditions are necessarily temporary.

As a remedy, the United States must look to increased oil importations and then to the development and use of substitutes for natural oil products.

"Productions," says the report, "increased steadily from 1910 to 1923, but showed a marked reversal in 1924. Whether or not 1923 represents the peak of production in the United States it is still too early to say, but this reversal is the most significant indication that has developed in this much-discussed subject. This extreme peak was due to the large number of big pools in the United States whose flush production overlapped. Not all the big pools in the United States have been discovered, but the probability is that the 1923 figure will not be exceeded unless several large undiscovered pools or new large producing sands in old districts are brought to peak production within a single year.

"Study of the economic principals relating to production of oil indicates that the chief factor in increasing production is rising prices. If, therefore, as a result of the increase of consumption relative to supply, prices rise, the incentive to further exploration for new fields becomes greater. In the past, this incentive has without exception led to the discovery of new production sufficient to meet the increased demand and to arrest price increases. This cannot be continued indefinitely because petroleum is like other minerals, the more that is produced the less there is left to produce. As domestic reserves are depleted, importation must be relied upon in an increasing degree to maintain the supply.

"The cost of imported petroleum will in the future probably be greater than that of present domestic production, but as the recent tendency is for the cost of producing domestic oil to increase, it is clear that if the consumption continues to increase at the rate established in recent years the demand can be met only by higher prices.

"Consumption will continue to increase and it is evident that the United States must in the first instance look to the obtaining of oil from foreign sources in increasing amounts and then to the development and use of substitutes for natural oil products."

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT STILL ON THE DECLINE

Production of steel ingots in the United States showed another decline in June, when the estimated production was 3,207,056 tons, according to a report issued yesterday by the American Iron and Steel Institute. The total compares with estimated production of 3,458,253 tons in May and 2,988,676 tons in June last year.

The following table shows the estimated production of all companies by months, the number of working days and the daily average production as revised by the Institute:

Simmons Company Profits.

The Simmons Company for the six months ended May 31, 1925, reports net profits of $2,010,376 after setting aside $536,676 for reserves. After allowing for dividend requirements on preferred stock, the profits were equal to $1.56 a share earned on the 911,601 shares of common stock outstanding, against $1.03 a share in the same period last year. The profits for the first half of the year were sufficient to cover full year dividend requirements on the preferred stock and three quarterly dividends, at the current rate, on the common stock.

Brody Gets Stock Exchange Office.

Edgar Brody, a member of the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange, was elected Assistant Treasurer of the Exchange at a meeting of the Governors held yesterday. The election was under the new constitution recently adopted by the Exchange.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Barring a short period of reaction incident to the dispatches from Rome that the Finance Minister of Italy had resigned, the lira dropping to 3.61½ cents from a previous 3.65¾, and the French franc, which was sympathetically affected, yielding a point, to 4.05 cents, foreign exchanges generally gave a good account of themselves yesterday. All of the early losses were made up in the later trading, and the franc and lira both finished well above Tuesday's finals.

Sterling was quiet and steady at $4.85⅝ net unchanged. Interest in the Scandinavians converged in the Swedish and Danish bills, the former rising 4 points, to 26.82 cents, and the latter showing a slight loss on heavy realizing sales, at 20.47 cents. London selling of Norwegian, which was reported a drive against too bullish a demonstration in this exchange, was communicated here and the rate dropped 22 points to 17.76 cents. BEFORE hiring an employee you investigate his character and ability. Before placing your estate in trust, you determine the trust company's responsibility, its record of achievement, its reputation for integrity and fair dealing.

Why not investigate then, with equal thoroughness, the record of a management company before you place your property in its care?

ANNOUNCEMENT

Investors in Miller Bonds can obtain an unconditional guarantee of payment of principal and interest

IT HAS always been the policy of G. L. Miller & Co., Inc., to provide customers of the House with every convenience and service they desire.

In accordance with this policy, we have made arrangements so that investors can obtain Miller Bonds with an unconditional guarantee of principal and interest.

A large, strong and responsible indemnity company, under strict legal supervision, will, upon the annual payment by the bondholder of ½ of 1 per cent of the face value of the bond, guarantee the payment of principal and interest to the bondholder.

Bondholders who purchase this guarantee will receive 6½ per cent interest from 7 per cent bonds, 6 per cent interest from 6½ per cent bonds, etc.

We have always believed that if a bond is amply secured by improved real estate of sufficient value, a guarantee is an unnecessary and costly luxury for the bondholder.

If, on the other hand, a guarantee is needed to make the safety of the bond assured, such a bond should never be offered as an investment.

In offering this optional guarantee, we are not departing from the conviction expressed above; we are simply providing investors with an extra service and convenience should they desire to have their investments insured and be willing to pay for such insurance.

Miller Bonds have always been safe. We shall not let this guarantee provision operate in any manner to lessen the strict vigilance, caution and care which we exercise in testing and underwriting bond issues before we offer them to the public.

Write for Booklet G 201, which gives detailed information regarding the guarantee and a list of current offerings of Miller Bonds paying up to 7 per cent interest and secured by structures in the North, East, West and South.

A second issue of first mortgage bonds of the Great Consolidated Electric Power Company, Ltd., known in the American market as "Daido," is offered today by Dillon, Read & Co., who successfully placed the previous issue. The total amount of bonds offered is $13,500,000, and they represent a closed issue of first and general mortgage 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds. "Daido" is one of the two largest producers of power in Japan. It is primarily a wholesaler of power and sells under long-term contracts to traction companies, large industrial consumers and municipalities. The bonds offered today will represent a direct obligation of the company and a first closed mortgage on physical properties valued at $35,204,478.

The general list of new bond financing announced for today includes two joint bank issues and a number of municipal offerings. An issue of $4,522,000 4½ per cent. Kansas City, Mo., sewer bonds has been awarded to Dillon, Read & Co. on a bid of 102.866. Public offering will be made of the bonds in a day or so.

The bonds are priced at 101½ and interest, to yield 4.31 per cent. to optional date, in 1930, and 4.50 per cent. thereafter. The bank operates in the States of Iowa and Nebraska.

S. W. Straus & Co. are distributing an issue of $2,400,000 first mortgage 6 per cent. sinking fund coupon gold bond certificates, legal for trust fund investment in New York State, of the 40 East Sixty-fifth Street Corporation, secured by the land and a completed apartment hotel at Sixty-fifth Street and Park Avenue.

Axtell J. Byles, President, and Byron D. Benson, Secretary of the company, filed the certificate. Holders of 317,297 shares of the total stock of 504,425 shares voted for the amendment. Of this number the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey controls 202,148 shares.

2-YEAR GASOLINE CONTRACT

The Louisiana Oil Refining Company has closed a contract with the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, for 730,000 barrels of gasoline. This is equivalent to about 30,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

Deliveries began July 1 from the Louisiana refinery and will be continued at the rate of 1,000 barrels daily. This will require two years to complete and it gives Louisiana Oil Refining Company an assured market for a substantial part of its gasoline output for that period.

DEMAND FOR COTTON AGAIN LIFTS PRICE

NET GAIN 38 TO 46 POINTS

The most exciting advance that has occurred in cotton in some months developed yesterday under a continuation of the active buying movement of the previous session. Prices gained $3 a bale at one time and closed at a net advance of 38 to 46 points. Several cross currents appeared in the course of the session, various interests taking profits as a result of an improvement of 140 points since Monday, while cotton continued to be bought in other directions. After December touched 24¼ cents, the market ran into more cotton and the last hour brought about a 20-point reaction attended by a feverish undertone.

Conditions in Texas and Oklahoma as revealed in the weekly weather report provedthe stimulating factor of the day. Further deterioration was shown in drought sections of the Southwest, while Oklahoma details again described the situation in that State as serious. Crops other than cotton have suffered severely from drought, but the cotton plant has not deteriorated as yet. Elsewhere in the belt the plant made good progress except in isolated sections, with little complaint of weevil damage. Outside of Texas and Oklahoma, State details generally reflected the most satisfactory crop outlook in some years.

Considering Tuesday's sharp rise in foreign prices, the further advance there yesterday reflected decided nervousness over the progress of the crop in the Southwest. With Liverpool making a full response to the improvement in American markets, initial quotations were generally unchanged and December sold above 23¾ cents in early trading.

SEE GOOD BUSINESS AHEAD

"The second half of the year," Carl Gray, President of the Union Pacific, said, "may be expected to develop more traffic and higher railroad earnings than the first half in comparison with last year."

"Signs point to good business on the Pacific Coast," said William Sproule, President of the Southern Pacific, who assumed the duties of the late Julius Kruttschnitt upon the latter's resignation as Chairman of the road.

Action by the Interstate Commerce Commission upon the application by the Western carriers for an increase in rates may be delayed until September or later, Mr. Sproule said, because of the inability of some of the affected lines to whip their exhibits into shape.

"It is rather hard," he said, "to say how much of an advance the lines can hope to get until they make a careful check-up of all the commodity rates and the class rates, which include thousands of items. Nothing alarming is under consideration, for the study is designed to cover the effect upon the commodity as well as upon the railroad, in order that there may be no restriction of business."

COPPER HAS SLIGHT RISE.

Metal Market Firm at Fractionally Higher Prices.

The copper metal market yesterday was again firm both for domestic and foreign account. Prices were advanced another fraction of a cent a pound and business was done on a 14 cent basis deliverable in the East. One sale was made for Detroit account at 14⅛ cents delivered. Producers and dealers reported an increased demand both in this country and abroad and a larger number of inquiries are coming to hand for future delivery. It has been some time since the trade has enjoyed a market in which consumers have been inquiring for future metal. In view of this situation, feeling is more cheerful than it has been in months.

In the export market prices were quoted at 13⅞ cents f. a. s. New York harbor and 14.15 to 14.20 cents c. i. f. European ports. These quotations represent advances of 5 to 7½ points compared with prices quoted on Tuesday.

EXCITED TRADING IN GOLD MINE STOCK

Recollections of old days in the exchanges, when the speculating public ran wild about gold stocks, have been revived in the last two or three days by the wide upswing in the stock known as Engineer's Gold, traded in on the New York Curb. The stock closed last week at $55 a share. Yesterday it traded on the Curb as high as $100 a share under an extremely heavy turnover, after opening at $75 a share. There was excited trading in the stock all day.

The company has a mine in British Columbia from which it is extracting gold. Little is known in the financial district about this mine, however, and the sharp upswing in the stock is reported to be chiefly a market movement. The low price of the year for the stock was 14½. Officials of the company were credited yesterday with the statement that a tremendously rich vein in the British Columbian mine had been discovered by engineers. At any rate, the trading in this stock was an outstanding feature on the New York Curb yesterday.

U. S. SUES SHIPBUILDERS.

Dismissal of Other Proceedings Against Downey Corporation Asked.

A technical action preparatory to the sale on July 15 of the assets and plant of the Downey Shipbuilding Corporation, Staten Island, was filed in Federal Court, Brooklyn, yesterday by Guy O. Walser, Acting United States Attorney. The action is directed against the company, which is in bankruptcy; William G. Coxe, receiver; J. Hernest Allen and William F. Purdy, ancillary receivers; the Chase National Bank and the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

The action was brought by Mr. Walser in behalf of the Federal Government. It calls for dismissal of proceedings brought by the Emergency Fleet Corporation for the recovery of $780,000 advanced to the shipbuilding company for the construction of ten ships and for other loans. Mr. Walser explained that the matter was of a technical nature and was brought in order to simplify legal relations between the parties involved in the receivership proceedings against the company.

TELEPHONE EARNINGS GROW

A. T. & T. Had a Net Income of $3,067,580 in May.

Telephone earnings as reflected in the monthly reports of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to the Interstate Commerce Commission continue to show increases. The company reported yesterday a May gross of $7,011,607, against $6,152,818 in the same month of last year, while operating or net income was $3,067,580, against $2,499,010.

For the five months of the calendar year gross revenues were $34,596,727, against $30,638,359 last year, and operating income $15,605,052, against $13,602,560.

The report of the parent telephone organization cannot be taken as an accurate index of individual or associate telephone company earnings, for the reason that while some companies may report increased revenues in substantial amount, others may show a loss on the month's operations. The report is, however, a measure of the progress of the industry as a whole.

RAIL EARNINGS INCREASE.

Estimated earnings of the Western Maryland Railroad for the four weeks ending June 30 were $1,522,785, compared with $1,451,210 for the same period in 1924, an increase of $71,575.

Surplus after all charges of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway for the month amounted to approximately $450,000 in June, according to an estimate by an official. This was an increase of $311,000 or more than 220 per cent over the corresponding month last year. Gross revenue in June totaled $7,540,681, an increase of $936,059, or 10.2 per cent. over the June, 1924, gross. June, the official added, will prove the best month of 1925 to date with the exception of January.

WHEAT UP SLIGHTLY ON REPORTS OF RUST

All Grains Gain by Lessened Selling Pressure and Better Support.

ITALY BUYS FROM RUSSIA

Liverpool Purchase of Australian Grain Also Interests Chicago Traders.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 8.—The grain markets had a stronger tone, with no general selling pressure and better support, on black rust reports from the Northwest. Closing trades were at a fair reaction from the top on wheat, corn and oats, while rye held its gain well. Net gains at the close on wheat were ⅝ to 1⅝ cents, with July leading. Corn was 2⅝ cents to 2⅞ higher on the near-by deliveries and ⅜ cent up on December, while oats was ¼ cent higher on the near-by and ⅛ cent lower on the December. July rye gained ⅝ cent and December lost ⅛ cent.

Black rust reports from the Northwest were more numerous, but none of them told of any serious damage and were not backed up with a large run of buying orders.

The Northwestern markets, while strongest, failed to hold the highest point, yet Minneapolis gained 1⅝ to 1½ cents and Winnipeg finished 1 cent higher on July and ⅛ to ⅝ cent lower on the distant futures.

A great deal of comment was heard about the reported sale of four cargoes of wheat by Russia to Italy for August-September shipment and Liverpool was reported to have taken three to four cargoes of Australian wheat. Export business was limited, 250,000 bushels of wheat. Cables were stronger and offerings of new wheat by farmers limited.

July wheat sold up to $1.50¾. September touched $1.45¾ and December $1.47¾. The close was around 1 cent below the high point of the day.

The Winter wheat markets are showing more strength in cash premiums. In the corn trade there is a scarcity of fresh receipts, and a bearishness on December and May on good crop prospects.

Trading in May grains for 1926 started today, with May wheat $1.51½ to $1.52⅝; corn 89⅝ to 91¾ cents and oats 52¼ to 52⅝ cents.

There was an evening up in corn, with an advance of 2⅝ to 3 cents on the old crop futures, and it was assumed by the trade that the big interest was evening up. Cash corn was scarce, with receipts only twenty-four cars and No. 2 grades 3 to 6 cents over July, the latter for fresh shelled yellow, an unusual figure.

Shipping demand was fair and the pressure on futures light until July reached $1.03, with September $1.07⅝ and December 88½, when profit-taking caused a moderate reaction.

Oats were sold early and had a good break, but advanced later with other grains and improved buying. Cash lots were scarce at 1 to 2 cents higher.

Trade in rye was light with no selling of July, which advanced to 98¾ cents at the close. Charters have been made within the last two days for 1,000,000 bushels to be shipped out of Chicago. Harvesting is on in the Northwest.

Primary receipts of wheat were 862,000 bushels; year ago, 667,000. Corn receipts were 234,000 bushels; year ago, 313,000 bushels.

Wheat shipments were 742,000 bushels; last year, 683,000, and corn shipments, 384,000 bushels; last year, 374,000.

EXCELLENT WEATHER FOR CORN AND WHEAT

But the Week's Rainfalls Have Not Been Effective for Cotton in Some Places.

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture issued at Washington yesterday in part follows:

"Weather conditions affecting cotton varied considerably. The week was generally warm, but rainfall continued of a local character. While showers were more frequent in central and eastern portions of the belt, many localities were still too dry and general rains are badly needed in Texas and Oklahoma.

"In Texas, showers were mostly ineffective and cotton continued to deteriorate over most of the central and southern portions of the State, with plants small and unprematurely developing. The drought has become severe in Oklahoma, but cotton is not yet seriously damaged; progress during the week was fair on bottom lands but poor on uplands with the general condition still fair to good. Except locally, growth was very good in Arkansas and Louisiana.

Some Cotton Heeds Small.

"Showers were beneficial in Mississippi and Alabama and where moisture was sufficient in these States, cotton made fair to very good advance, but some sections were too dry and in these growth was slow. In the southern half of Georgia the crop continued to make very good progress, but elsewhere it was less favorable, with plants small and some blooming prematurely. Good rains were beneficial in South Carolina and growth in North Carolina varied from good or excellent in the eastern portion to poor in some dry western districts. Rapid growth was reported from Virginia and Illinois, with mostly satisfactory advance in Tennessee and very good to excellent progress in Florida.

"Except in the Southwest, principally in Kansas and Oklahoma, excellent weather for corn prevailed during the week. In the principal producing States the favorable moisture and temperature conditions promoted very good to excellent growth and the crop is now well advanced and growing nicely. The hot, dry weather in Kansas and Oklahoma was unfavorable, however, particularly in Oklahoma, where corn deteriorated, except locally, and is badly burned on uplands in the central and southern portions of the State. In Kansas, except in the northeastern quarter, the crop was adversely affected, although it has not been seriously as yet. Reports were favorable from Nebraska, South Dakota and the central and eastern portions of the belt. Corn still needs rain in most of the Southern States.

Good for the Wheat Crops.

"Harvest of Winter wheat made good progress during the week and was well advanced in the principal producing areas. Cutting was mostly completed in Kansas and was about finished in Missouri and in the southern portions of the Northern Ohio valley States. Threshing advanced favorably in the southern portions of the wheat belt. Under the influence of favorable weather Spring wheat maintained its satisfactory advance, with continued improvement reported in South Dakota, where heads were filling well, while filling was noted in all sections of North Dakota. There were a few reports of a small amount of black rust in extreme Western Minnesota and Eastern North Dakota, but no serious damage was indicated."

New Firm to Replace H. T. Carey Co.

H. T. Carey & Co., members of the Stock Exchange, will be dissolved July 14 and a new partnership formed to start business July 15. These changes follow the sale of the Exchange membership of Samuel F. Streit, senior partner in the old firm, who will become a special partner in the new one. Buchanan Houston and Robert L. Cahill will become members of the new firm in addition to the personnel of the existing partnership. Mr. Cahill will be the Exchange member.

Roads Ask Reargument on Claims.

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railways have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit reargument of their cases on guarantee settlements under Section 209 of the Transportation act. The former states that instead of having made an overpayment of $1,269,905 as claimed by the commission, the Government still owes the road $470,625. The latter asserts that instead of owing the Government $428,231, as recently certified by the commission, the Government owes the company an additional $2,500,000.

LIGHT OIL OUTPUT SMALLEST OF YEAR

ONLY 2 STATES SHOW GAINS

California and Louisiana Slightly Ahead of Preceding Week—Oil Shares Active.

Another sharp drop in the production of crude oil was reported last week, according to figures compiled by The Oil and Gas Journal. Every oil-producing State in the country, except California and Louisiana reported a smaller output. The decline in the daily average production amounted to 22,801 barrels, the average for the last week being 2,139,338 barrels a day, against 2,162,139 barrels the week before. Total production of crude is the smallest reported for any week since the middle of April, while the production of light grade crude, with gasoline content, is the smallest reported for any week thus far this year.

	July 4.	June 27.
Oklahoma	445,285	448,915
Kansas	100,215	102,015
North Texas	163,821	164,014
East Texas	105,170	110,040
Louisiana	51,842	51,160
Smackover heavy	220,895	228,255
Gulf Coast	100,573	103,445
Southwest Texas	48,285	49,285
Rocky Mountain area	93,897	96,259
Eastern	106,726	106,650

*Includes Smackover heavy oil.

In addition to the further sharp drop in production in the Smackover field, it is pointed out that the production of light crude oil continues to decline, despite the forecasts of increasing output, and a drop of 17,609 barrels in the daily average production was reported last week.

"This is the largest decline in light oil production for any week this year, and brings the aggregate yield of this gasoline crude to the lowest point in years," it was stated yesterday. "Light oil production last week totaled 1,379,105 barrels, 146,000 barrels a day less than the peak of 1,525,220 barrels of light oil daily in the week of Jan. 17 this year. Most of the decline occurred in the mid-continent district, the largest light oil producing district in the world."

Publication of these figures resulted in increased activity in the oil stocks yesterday on both the New York Stock Exchange and the Curb Market. Most issues closed the day with substantial gains, while advances of one to two points or more were recorded among the Standard Oil issues.

The Mexican fields also reported smaller production last week, due chiefly to the falling off in the field producing heavy grades of oil. According to figures received in Wall Street, production for the week aggregated 1,900,000 barrels, or 112,000 barrels less than the week before.

PLANS TO SELL COMPANY.

YOUNG SON TO SHARE IN MULQUEEN ESTATE

Appellate Division Reverses Ruling on Status of Boy Born After Lawyer Made Will.

Carl Mulqueen, son of the late Michael J. Mulqueen, lawyer, is entitled to share in his father's estate as if his father had died intestate, under a decision of the Appellate Division made known yesterday. The elder Mulqueen, brother of Judge Mulqueen of General Sessions, who was made a Knight of St. Gregory by the Pope for his services as President of the Catholic Club, died Oct. 12 last on the steamship Paris while returning from Europe.

Mr. Mulqueen's will was made on July 18, 1905, before the birth of his son Carl, and left the estate to his wife. In case she predeceased him the estate was to be divided into three trusts for the benefit of the children born at the time the will made made. Mrs. Mulqueen survived her husband, but a proceeding was filed in the Surrogate's Court to determine the rights of the child born after the will was executed. Surrogate Foley ruled that Mr. Mulqueen had "anticipated the birth of further children and provided for them," and held that Mrs. Mulqueen was entitled to the entire estate.

In reversing this decision, the Appellate Division points to the section of the Decedent's Estate law, providing for such contingencies, which says,

"Whenever a testator shall have a child born after the making of a last will, either in the lifetime or after the death of such testator, and shall die leaving such child, so after-born, unprovided for by any settlement, and neither provided for in any way mentioned in such will, every such child shall succeed to the same portion of such parent's real and personal estate as would have descended or been distributed to such child if such parent had died intestate."

The Appellate Division remits the case to the Surrogate's Court for a decision in accordance with its ruling.

Father Seeks to Recover Money Lost in Wall Street.

An action to determine whether a father may recover money lost in Wall Street by a minor son came before Supreme Court Justice William F. Hagerty in Brooklyn yesterday, on a motion by Albert Bridgens & Co, stock brokers, at 62 New Street, Manhattan, for an order permitting examination of Sidney Gold, 19 years old. He is a son of Nathan Gold, who is suing the brokerage for $2,350, which he alleges his son lost in stock transactions.

Philip C. Samuels, attorney for the brokers, asked the Court to stay trial until the boy is examined. He seeks to ask the boy two questions: "Where did you get the money for your stock transactions? Were you acting for yourself or for others?" It is the theory of the complaint in the action that a minor's contracts is worthless, and that the money representing his alleged speculations should be returned. The Court reserved decision.

SYNDICATE TAKES GREENVALE TRACT

WESTCHESTER PLOTS SOLD

The Lewis Homes Company of Manhattan has organized a syndicate of New York investors which has closed contracts for the purchase of the property surrounding the Greenvale railroad station, which is the station lying between Roslyn and Glen Head on the Oyster Bay branch of the Long Island Railroad, for the development of an exclusive residential section.

The property consists of several hundred acres.

It is proposed to build a group of stores artistically designed near the railroad station, and arrangements have been made with the railroad to lay out the grounds around the station.

Arrangements are being made for the incorporation of the Village of Greenvale, which is now a part of Roslyn and part of Glen Head. It is proposed to sell plots only to people who will help build up the unsold part of this district.

This property includes the nurseries of the Lewis & Valentine Company at Roslyn, the largest nurseries on the north shore of Long Island, part of which will be used in this development, and arrangements have been made with them for the improvement of the rest of the property.

Morris Randell sold for Max Merlis to Senator Benjamin Antin a plot 220 by 200 feet on Ocean View Avenue, adjoining the Lawrence Country Club golf links, Lawrence. The purchaser contemplates the improvement of the property by the erection of high-class one-story brick private dwellings.

H. Frankfort & Son, Inc., sold for the Cascardi Construction Corporation to Samuel Finkelstein the two-and-one-half-story dwelling and garage on the north side of Hards Lane, 412 feet east of Lord Avenue, Lawrence.

Edward Hughes sold for Henry Brady eight lots on the south side of Northern Boulevard, between Dartmouth and Princeton Roads, Douglaston Park.

Louis Gold & Co. sold a plot at the northwest corner of Northern Boulevard and Marathon Parkway, Little Neck, to an investor. The plot has been held at $30,000.

M. F. Brunner, Inc., sold for M. La Gorto his three lots on 142d Street, north of Newport Avenue, Neponsit. Also sold for a client in Belle Harbor three lots on the west side of 133d Street, north of Newport Avenue, and two lots on the west side of 140th Street, north of Newport Avenue.

Westchester Transactions.

Fish & Marvin sold for Mrs. E. Douglas Parish three large plots in Cedar Knolls to William P. Rae. The property was held at $20,000. It is the purchaser's intention to develop the property. The same brokers also sold for Mrs. Marie G. Moore her English home on the Boulevard, Pelham Heights, built by Lewis Bowman, to Mrs. Ethel K. Kaebler. The property was held at $40,000.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold for Mrs. Florence Whited a plot recently purchased by her from the Scarsdale Estates to Philip Arsberger, who will build his home on the property.

Prince & Ripley sold for the Fidelitas Realty Corporation an old remodeled Colonial farmhouse on Roaring Brook Road at Mount Kisco to V. S. Piper. Mr. Piper plans extensive alterations of the house and grounds and will occupy the property in the immediate future. The property was formerly occupied by Manning Stires and was held at $40,000.

Theatre Owners' Delegate Charges "Shylock Tactics" in Fees for Use of Sheet Music.

CONCILIATORY SPIRIT URGED

Bloom Says Unanimity Is Needed for Passage of New Law—Conferences to Last All Summer.

After a conference at the Bar Association yesterday morning representives of the authors, composers, music publishers, film producers and exhibitors, broadcasters and of twenty other groups interested in the drafting of a new Federal copyright law, voted to refer several difficult problems to subcommittees and to continue holding conferences until the next meeting of Congress.

Congressman Sol Bloom urged the members of the Committee on Copyright Revision to approach their differences in a reasonable and conciliatory spirit. He said that, if the new bill went to Congress accompanied by a number of violent controversies, it would fail of passage, just as the Perkins bill did.

Chairman Frederick W. Hume said that the Perkins bill had been taken as a working basis for the preparation of a new bill. He said that opinion was united in favor of fifty-one of its sections, that slight differences existed concerning thirteen provisions, but that a difficult problem existed in reconciling conflicts of interest in respect to the other ten provisions. These ten provisions cover such subjects as the broadcasters' use of copyrighted music without permission, the separation of film rights from ordinary copyrights, the phonograph recording of copyrighted matter and authorship for hire.

Accused of "Shylock Tactics."

Sidney S. Cohen, speaking on behalf of the motion picture theatre owners of America, attacked the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, charging the organization with "Shylock tactics" in imposing license fees or taxes on motion picture exhibits for use of sheet music in their houses.

"This license fee or tax is levied by the society under the assumption that the theatre owners reproduce the copyrighted music of its members in their theatres for profit and that to do this requires their permission," Cohen said.

"The present copyright law has been shaped into an instrument through which a multiplicity of royalty fees may be and are extracted. We believe this to be opposed to public policy and therefore seek the amendment of the law so that this process shall be prohibited."

Cohen urged the committee to prepare an amendment aimed at prohibiting the pooling of copyrights or performing rights. Such a practice, he declared, "has a tendency to place the control of musical compositions and the development of musical genius in the United States in the hands of a few who by exercising control over the agencies of distribution make it impossible for any composer to obtain the same measure of service in that relation as those who are paying tribute to them, and enable them in turn to levy tribute for the use of their compositions upon every music publisher in the United States."

Gene Buck, President of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, said that copyright pirating and infringement had taken place on such a large scale that copyright holders had been forced to take drastic measures to protect themselves, but he said that the society was willing to consider the request of the motion picture houses for exemption from paying royalties on the use of sheet music. Representatives of both interests will get together and seek to reach a friendly agreement. Mr. Hume's report to the gathering said:

"The group, which includes the book and periodical publishers, employing printers and bookbinders, the printing trade employes, the authors and the American Library Association, have agreed on manufacturing and affidavit clauses and, with the exception of the American Library Association, on a prohibition of importation clause.

"There does not now seem much hope of reconciling the American Library Association to the prohibition of importation section agreed upon by the other interests in that group. However, we have several months in which to complete agreement on a bill and much may be accomplished in that time.

"The motion picture and authors groups have not yet definitely agreed upon anything, but much work has been done in drafting, exchange of views and in conference, and there is a very distinct atmosphere of desire to agree upon their sections, which is most encouraging.

No Conferences Yet on Radio.

"There have been no conferences yet on restriction of radio or on public performance for profit, but opportunity for conference will shortly be arranged for these interests.

"The least encouraging situation is that with regard to compulsory mechanical license. There have been several conferences between these interests and the Music Publishers' Protective Association has submitted a mechanical license clause for the consideration of the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce."

Among those who attended the meeting were R. F. Woodhull of Dover, N. J., President of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America; John G. Paine, for the Victor Talking Machine Company; William Jerome, American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers; Eustace Seligman, National Book Publishers Association; Gabriel Hess and Arthur W. Weil, representing Will Hays's organization of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America; Louis Schwartz, Famous Players-Lasky Company; Dr. Llewellyn Raney, librarian at Johns Hopkins University, representing the American Library Association; Carl Cannan, of the New York Public Library; A. L. Smith, Music Industries Chamber of Commerce; Luise M. Sillcox, Executive Secretary of the Authors' League; William Hamilton Osborne, Esther Kent, art dealers and publishers, and W. E. Harkness, Vice President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in charge of broadcasting.

LIVE WIRE KILLS A GIRL.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., July 8.—Miss Margaret Hamilton, a maid in the employ of Silas W. Howland, lawyer, with offices at 32 Nassau Street, was killed on Tuesday night when she came in contact with a live wire while walking in the garden attached to Mr. Howland's estate on Boston Post Road, Rye.

Miss Hamilton sought relief from the heat after her household duties were done and was strolling in the garden with Katherine Juhl, another employe, when they came upon a wire on the ground. Not noticing that it was an electric light wire extending from a nearby pole, the maid grasped it with the intention of throwing it to one side. As she touched the wire there was a report and a flash of blue flame and the stricken woman fell. Her companion went to her aid and was severely burned on the hands. Dr. C. H. Bonnell of Rye was called. He said the maid was killed instantly when she grasped the wire.

—AN UNUSUAL TRIBUTE TO Keds
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

SURE FOOTWORK! Tremendously important in every athletic sport—but even more so when walking on the wings of an airplane three or four miles up in the air!

That's why the following letter from Sgt. Randle Bose—who two years ago broke the world's altitude record for a parachute jump—is a remarkable tribute to Keds:

"I find that Keds are better for aerial wing walking and parachute jumping than any other shoes I have worn, due to the fact that they will not slide from underneath you. At the same time Keds are unusually light and a great support to your ankles. In short, Keds are absolutely the best shoes I have ever worn when making parachute jumps."

Combine this unusual ground-grip with the fact that Keds frequently outwear two or three pairs of other shoes—and it is easy to see why Keds are the standard sport shoes today.

You can get Keds in many styles and at prices from $1.25 to $4.50. But remember—every Keds shoe always has the name Keds on it. Avoid substitutes. Accept only shoes that have the name Keds on them.

United States Rubber Company

[NOTE] They are not Keds unless the name Keds is on the shoe

THE Uniflex Cord method of tire construction—a Miller development—makes the balloon tire longer-lived than the stiff, bulky tires of the past. Uniflex Cord plies are insulated and laid so that internal friction and ply separation are virtually eliminated. The Uniflex-built tire flexes easily and evenly from top to bottom.

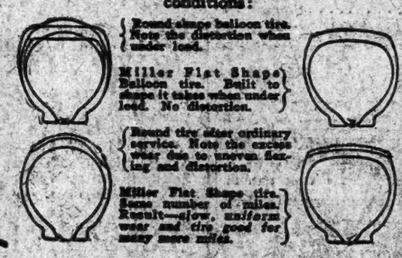
These two tires were made and run on the same car at the same time and under identical conditions:



Put on Millers and note the longer service. Dealers everywhere. Balloon and regular passenger car tires. Heavy-duty truck and bus tires. Tubes and accessories.
